TREATIES, ENGAGEMENTS, AND SANADS

RELATING TO THE

STATES IN RAJPUTANA.

INTRODUCTION.

THE policy of non-interference which was introduced by Lord Cornwallis at the beginning of the nineteenth century left the States of Central India and Raiputana a prey to the Pindari freebooters, who gained in strength as the Maratha power decayed. They soon ventured to extend their depredations into British territory. No line of defence and no disposition of troops could protect the country from their incursions under the system of warfare which they pursued, and Government was therefore led to form a general system of political alliances for the entire suppression of the Pindaris. The Treaty of 1817 with Sindhia removed the restriction which had been placed upon the formation of alliances between the British Government and the Raiput States, and left Government free to enter on new relations with them. The object of the treaties to be formed with them was the establishment of a barrier against the predatory system, and against the extension of the power of Sindhia or Holkar beyond the limits which Government designed to impose on it by other measures. It was not at that time proposed to acquire the power of exercising any interference in the internal administration of the Rajput States; but to subject only their political measures and external relations to the control of the British Government; to secure to Sindhia and Holkar the tribute payable to them in the event of their entering into the policy of the British Government; and to secure to the British Government such pecuniary aid as might be adapted to the means of the several States, in order to indemnify the British Government for the charges incidental to the obligation of protecting them.

Arrangements on this principle were made with the States of Udaipur, Jaipur, Jodhpur, Kotali, Bundi, Karauli, Banswara, Dungarpur, and Kishangarh; and the relations of Government with the more distant States of Jaisalmer and Bikaner were improved, but were on a less intimate sooting.

INTRODUCTION.

THE policy of non-interference which was introduced by Lord Cornwalls at the beginning of the nineteenth century left the States of Central India and Rainutana a prey to the Pindari freebooters, who gained in strength as the Maratha power decayed. They soon ventured to extend their depredations into British territory. No line of defence and no disposition of troops could protect the country from their incursions under the system of warfare which they pursued, and Government was therefore led to form a general system of political alhances for the entire suppression of the Pindaris. The Treaty of 1817 with Sindhia removed the restriction which had been placed upon the formation of alliances between the British Government and the Rasput States, and left Government free to enter on new relations with them. The object of the treaties to be formed with them was the establishment of a barrier against the predatory system, and against the extension of the power of Sindhia or Holkar beyond the limits which Government designed to impose on it by other measures. It was not at that time proposed to acquire the power of exercising any interference in the internal administration of the Rajput States; but to subject only their political measures and external relations to the control of the British Government; to secure to Sindhia and Holkar the tribute payable to them in the event of their entering 10to the policy of the British Government; and to secure to the British Government such pecuniary aid as might be adapted to the means of the several States, in order to indemnify the British Government for the charges incidental to the obligation of protecting them.

Arrangements on this principle were made with the States of Udaipur, Jaipur, Jodhpur, Kotali, Bundi, Karauli, Banswara, Dungarpur, and Kishangarh, and the relations of Government with the more distant States of Jaisalmer and Bikaner were improved, but were on a less intimate footing.

There are eighteen States, one Chiefship, and one Thakurate in Rajputana, all Rajput, except Bharatpur and Dholpur, which are Jat, and Tonk, which is Muhammadan. Twelve of them pay the following tribute to the British Government:—

| Name o | f State | :. | | Tribuli (Gorernmen | | .) | RESIANES. |
|------------|---------|----|---|-----------------------|---------|---------|--|
| Udaipur | • | • | • | Rs. 2,00,000 | n. o | p. o | The tribute under Article 6 of the Treaty, dated the 13th January 1818, was fixed for the first five years at one-fourth of the revenues of Udaipur, and thereafter at three-eighths in perpetuity. In 1826, it was fixed at 3 lakhs, Udaipur rupees. In consequence of financial embarrassments of the State, the tribute was reduced in June 1846 to Government Received. |
| Dungarpur | • | • | • | . 17,500 | 0 | 0 | dated the 11th December 1818, Salim |
| Banswara | • | • | • | 22,500 | ٥ | 0 | Shahi Rs. 35,000. The tribute payable under Article 9 of the Treaty, dated the 25th December 1818, was Salim Shahi Rs. 35,000=Government Rs. 17,500-0-0. In order to meet the cost of a separate Political Assistancy established at Banswara, the tribute was further increased by Salim Shahi Rs. 15,000 = Government Rs. 7,500-0-0. Any surplus from the enhanced tribute was to have been spent on works of public utility in the State. In 1889, however, in consequence of the financial embarrassments of the State, the enhanced tribute of Salim Shahi Rs. 15,000 was conditionally reduced to |
| Partabgarh | • | ٠ | | 36,350 | 0 | 0 | Government Rs. 5,000. The tribute is payable under Article 3 of Treaty, dated 5th October 1818, Salim Shahi Rs. 72,700=Government Rs. 36,350-0-0. The British Government acquired the right of this tribute from Holkar under the terms of the Treaty of Mandsaur, but it was decided that the amount should continue to be received by him, and accordingly, though levied by Government, it is still paid annually to Holkar from the British treasury. The payment is made one year in arrears, and amounts to Rs. 57,874-3-2, being the equivalent of Salim Shahi Rs. 72,700 at the time the decision was made. |

In addition to the above, the three States of Udaipur, Jodhpur and Kotah contribute towards the support of local corps in the following proportions:—

| 3 | | T |
|----------------|-----------------------------|---|
| Name of State. | Tribute (Government Re.) | Remare. |
| | Rs. a. p. | |
| Udaipur | | A contribution of Rs. 50,000 a year used to be levied from the State for the expenses of the Mewar Bhil Corps. The sum was realized from the revenues due to the Maharana on account of his share of the villages of Mewar-Merwara which are under British management. Difficulties having, however, been experienced in adjusting the accounts of the contribution with the State, it was resolved in 1881, that in future the revenues of Mewar-Merwara should be taken in full discharge of the contribution, and it was further stipulated that should the receipts from the villages at any time exceed Rs. 66,000, the surplus money should be paid in full to the Udaipur Darbar, to which, however, no accounts should be rendered. |
| Jodhpur | 1,15,000 0 0 | Under Article 8 of the Treaty, dated 6th January 1818, the Jodhpur State was under obligation to furnish a contingent of 1,500 horse whenever required. This was commuted by Agreement, dated 7th December 1835, to an annual payment of Rs. 1,15,000 towards the cost of the Jodhpur Legion which was then raised. The Jodhpur Legion mutinied in 1857, and its place is now supplied by the Erinpura Irregular Force. |
| Kotah | 2,00,000 O O | 'Under Article 6 of the Treaty, dated 10th April 1838, the Kotah State was required to maintain an auxiliary force, commanded and paid by British officers, at a cost of not more than 3 lakhs per annum. In consequence of repeated remonstrances, the contribution was reduced to Rs. 2 lakhs in 1844. The first auxiliary force was known as the Kotah Contingent, but it mutinied in 1857, and is now represented by the Deoli Irregular Force. |

Courts of Vakils, with definite rules for their guidance, have been established at Mount Abu, Udaipur, Jaipur, Jodbpur, and Deoli, with the special object of securing justice to travellers and others who suffer injury in territories beyond the jurisdiction of their own Chiefs, and to decide on offences against person and property which cannot be dealt with by any one State.

The Court of Vakils at Abu, composed of the vakils attendant on the Agent to the Governor-General is an appellate court, superior to those at the several Agencies. The decision of the Agent to the Governor-General on appeals is final.

The Courts of Vakils at Udaipur, Jaipur, Jodhpur and Deoli, are under the guidance respectively of the Political Officers of Mewar, Jaipur, Marwar and Haraoti. These Courts are composed of vakils from the neighbouring States, and are subordinate to the Upper Court of the Agent to the Governor-General.

Rules have been drawn up for the settlement of boundary disputes between the various States of Rajputana, between the States of Rajputana and those of Central India, and between the Rajputana States and States in the Punjab.

In 1870 the late Earl of Mayo proposed to the Chiefs of Rajputana that a . Chiefs' College should be established at Ajmer for the education of their sons and nobles. It was opened for the reception of boys in October 1875. The subscriptions of the Chiefs of Rajputana and others, amounting to over seven and a balf lakhs, form an endowment fund, the interest on which supplies the income of the College. In addition to these subscriptions, many States and Chiefs have built boarding houses and contributed towards the College in various ways. The Government of India presented the grounds in which the College stands; built the main building, which was opened by Lord Dufferin on the 7th November 1885, at a cost of Rs. 4,01,400, the residences of the Principal and Vice-Principal, and the Ajmer Boarding House for boys from the Aimer District, and for those boys who have not been provided with accommodation by their own States; and pay for the salaries of the English Staff, and the upkeep of the main roads and the four Government buildings. Up to April 1906 424 boys had been admitted, 375 from Rajputana and 49 from other provinces, including the ruling Chiefs of Alwar, Bikaner, Dholpur, Dungarpur, Jbalawar, Karauli, Kotah, Manipur, Tehri, Faridkot, Panna, Indore, Barwani, Dewas, Narsinghgarh, Sachin and the heirs-apparent of Bharatpur, Partabgarh, Shabpura, Tonk, Kuch Behar, Lunawada, Banswara, and Sailana. There are now (1906) 123 boys on the College roll. In January 1902 a conference was held at Calcutta, under the presidency of Lord Curzon, to discuss the question of increasing the efficiency of the Chiefs' Colleges in India. As a result of this the English staff now consists of one Principal, one Vice-Principal, and two Assistants, and the Native staff of 8 Assistants. Another conference was held at Ajmer in 1904, and in accordance with its resolutions the existing Council was reconstituted into a General Council and a Working Committee. His Excellency the Viceroy and the Agent to the Governor-General in Rajputana are ex-officio Presidents and Vice-Presidents respectively of the Council. An annual examination is held by the Inspector of Chiefs' Colleges, and to those boys of the first class who pass it, a diploma is given which is recognised by the University of Allahabad as equivalent to the certificate given by them for passing the Entrance and Matriculation Examinations at those institutions.

I.—THE MEWAR AGENCY.* (I.) UDAIPUR (MEWAR).

The Udaipur family is the highest in rank and dignity among the Rajput Chiefs of India. The ruling Chief is considered by Hindas to be the representative of Rama, the ancient King of Ajodhya, by one of whose deseendants, Kanak Sen, the present family was founded about A.D. 144. The States of Dungarpur, Banswara, Partabgarh, and Shahpura are offshoots from it. The Bhousla family and Shivaji, the founder of the Maratha power, were also descended from the House of Udaipur. No State in India made a more nuble and a more desperate resistance to the Muhammadans. It is the boast of the family that they never gave a daughter in marriage to any of the Muhammadan Emperors; and for many years they ceased to intermarry with the other Rajput families who had formed such alliances.

Rana Amara or Amar Singh II, who succeeded to the State in A.D. 1700, formed an alliance with the Rajas of Japur and Jodhpur for mutual protection against the Muhammadans. It was one of the conditions of this tripartite alliance that these Chiefs should regain the privilege of marriage with the Udaipur family, with the proviso that the sons of the Udaipur princesses should succeedt in preference to children by other wives. The quarrels to which this stipulation gave rise led to the conquest of the country by the Marathas, at whose hands Udaipur so lered more cruel devastations than it had even been subjected to by the Muhammadans. Rana Amara was succeeded in 1716 by Sangram Singh II, who was followed in 1734, by Jagat Singh II. On the departure of Nadir Shah, the Peshwa, baving received from Muhammad Shah the cession of the ehauth or fourth part of the revenues of the empire, demanded this tribute from Udaipur in common with the other States which had been tributary to the Emperor; and in 1736 Baji Rao Peshwa concluded a Treaty with Jagat Singh II, by which the Rana agreed to pay annually Rs. 1,50,000 on account of chauth.

The Agency is controlled by the Resident in Mewar, with head-quarters at Udaipur, of In 1851 an after not was made to revive this condition. In that year the Maharano of Kotah married a niece of the Naharano of Udaipur, and an agreement was signed by him and his son, according to which the latter was to succeed to the Rotah State, but on his death his children were to be set aside in layour of the children of the Maharana's niece. The Agent to the Governor-Cheental relieved to recognize the agreement.

Jai Singh, the Chief of Jaipur, had married a daughter of Sangram Singh II of Udaipur, having at the time a son, Isri Singh, whom, with the view of defeating the condition with Udaipur regarding the succession, he had married to a daughter of the Rawat of Salumbar, the most powerful of the Udaipur feudatories and the hereditary leader of the Udaipur forces. On the death of Jai Singh the power in Jaipur was assumed by Isri Singh. But the claims of Madho Singh, the son of the Udaipur princess, were supported by the Maharana, who called in the aid of Malhar Rao Holkar and agreed to pay him 80 lakhs of rupees on condition of his deposing Isri Singh. In part payment of this sum the Maharana made over to Holkar the district of Rampura. The loss of Rampura, however, was the least of the evils which followed. It became thereafter the custom, for the redress of any real or supposed wrong, to call in the aid of the Marathas, who thus obtained a firm footing in Mewar and became the referees in all disputes and the virtual rulers of the country.

On the withdrawal of British influence from Rajputana in 1806, under the policy of non-interference, which had been introduced by Lord Cornwallis, Udaipur was laid waste by the armies of Sindhia, Holkar, and Amir Khan, and by many hordes of Pindari plunderers. To such distress was the Maharana reduced that he was dependent on the bounty of Zalim Singh, the Regent of Kotah, who gave him an allowance of Rs. 1,000 a month, and was exposed to the insults of his own feudatories, the more powerful of whom had retired to their forts and were bent only on their own preservation.

In this state of degradation Maharana Bhim Singh was found in 1817 when the British Government entered on its general scheme of alliances for the suppression of the Pindaris. Bhim Singh had succeeded to power in 1778, and between Jagat Singh II and him there had been the following successions: Partab Singh II in 1752; Raj Singh II in 1755; Rana Arsi in 1762, whose insolent behaviour led to the estrangement of his nobles from him and the seizure of the districts of Jawad, Jiran, Nimach, and Morwan by Sindhia, of Nimbhera by Holkar, and of Godwar by Jodhpur; and Hamir in 1772, from whom Sindhia wrested the districts of Ratangarh, Kheri, and Singauli, while Holkar seized the districts of Jath, Bichor, and Nadomai.

By the Treaty concluded in 1818 (No. I) the British Government agreed to protect the territory of Udaipur, and to use its best exertions for the restoration of the territories Udaipur had lost when this could be done with propriety, the Maharana on his part acknowledged the British supremacy and agreed to abstain from political correspondence; to submit disputes to the arbitration of the British Government, and to pay one fourth of the revenues as tribute for five years, and thereafter three eighths in perpetuity. The object of the 7th Article of the 1 reaty, regarding the restitution to Udaipur of certain tracts claimed by the Darbar, was to leave to the British Government the right of acting on those claims as might be deemed just and expedient. This clause, however has furnished the Udaipur State with a never failing cause of complaint, particularly with respect to the district of Nimbhera This district, having been guaranteed to Amir Klian, could not be restored During the mutinies of 1857, Captain Showers, the Political Agent of Mewar, unauthorisedly allowed the troops of Udai, ur to occupy it, but after the return of peace the Maharana was compelled by the British Government to restore it to the Nawab of Tonk, and to account for the revenue during the time of his occupation

The district of Merwara, which was inhabited by predatory tribes, was subdued between 1819 and 1821 by a British fo ce nominally aided by Mewar and Marwir troops * Both these States put forwar I claims to share in the conquered territory. Ultimately the district was divided into the cunequal | ortions-four pargants, Beauar, Jik-Shamgarh, Bahar-Birkokra, and Bhailan, going to the Br tish Government three, Todgarh, Dewair, and Saroth, to Udaipur, and the remaining two Chang and Kat Kirana, to Jodhpur The British pargan is are now comprised in the British portion of the district of Ajmer-Merwara. This division appears to have been quite informal and the names of the pirganas assig el to each party are not given in the official correspondence connected with the part tion, nor are they recited in the treaties. but the distribution effected has been recognised ever since. In 1823, a formal settlement of minor claims was made, according to which the villages of Bill, Kukara and Sa oth were awarded to Mewar, while nine villages were held in trust by the British Government, to be eventually handed over to Mewar as a reward for steadfast adhesion to British interests In 1837 half the net revenues of these villages were assigned to Udaipur as a " special mark of favour"

See infra, Almer Merwara.

The triple government at first established on the subjugation of Mer-: wara proved ineffective. Accordingly, with a view to the pacification and improvement of the country, it was taken under British administration, and a local corps was raised to which Udaipur and Jodhpur were each to contribute annually Chitori Rupees 15,000 (Government Rupees 12,000). Although the Maharana of Udaipur acquiesced in the arrangement and transferred his villages to the British Government for ten years, he appears to have executed no formal engagement. He was required to pay nothing towards the expenses of management beyond his contribution of Chitori Rupees 15,000 to the local corps. The arrangement expired in 1833, when the Maharana, having profited largely by it, willingly made a new Engagement (No. II) for eight years, and agreed to raise his contribution to Chitori Rupees 20,000 (Government Rupees 16,000). This treaty expired on the 31st May 1841. It was not renewed, but the Maharana expressed his readiness to allow the district to remain under British management so long as it might suit the convenience of the British Government.

Much was done towards the civilisation of the Mers by the British Government, and in 1847 an effort was made to procure the perpetual cession of the Mewar and Jodhpur shares. The Maharana agreed to a permanent transfer of his villages, on condition of his receiving in farm the districts of Jawad, Jiran, Nimach, &c., which had been assigned to the British Government by Sindhia for payment of the Gwalior Contingent, and to the restoration of which the Maharana conceived he had a right under the 7th Article of the Treaty of 1818 (No. I). The Maharana's Government, however, was so inefficient and oppressive that it was considered objectionable to put additional districts under his control. In this unsatisfactory state the British occupation of Merwara remained for many years. In 1872 and 1874 claims to a readjustment were put forward by Udaipur; but it was resolved not to change the existing arrangements. In 1881 when the accounts for the management of the District, showing a debit balance of upwards of Rs. 76,000 against Udaipur, were submitted to the Darbar, Maharana Sajjan Singh took the opportunity to press his claim to be put in possession of the Mewar villages. The British Government, with the view of removing difficulties connected with the adjustment of accounts, proposed to accept in future the revenues of Mewar-Merwara in full discharge of the Udaipur State's contributions towards the cost of the administration of that tract, the expenses of the Mewar Bhil Corps (an account of which is given below) and of the Merwara Battalion and further agreed that no demand should be made on the Darbar for arrears of payments. His Highness demurred to these arrangements, being apprehensive that his sovereign rights over Mewar-Merwara would be impaired in the eyes of his subjects by the discontinuance of the old system of accounts, and that his State would pecuniarily be a loser if the current revenue settlement of the District were revised. His Highness suggested as an alternative plan that territorial exchanges should be arranged between the Maharija Sindhia and himself, by which certain villages possessed by the Gwalior Darbar in the neighbourhood of Nimach would, in exchange for villages of equivalent value in British territory, be transferred to Udaipur, in consideration for which arrangement he was willing to cede Mewar-Merwara to the British Government in full sovercignty

This plan of territorial exchanges was not feasible at the time, and it was finally resolved to abide by the arrangements proposed in 1881. His Highness want the same time given a distinct and definite assurance in a Kh rist dated the 16th October 1883 (No. 111) that his rights of soveren inty over Men ar Merwara were in no wise projud cod thereby. It was further stipulated that should the receipt show the Di triet at any time exceed Rs. 66 000, which sum represents the contributions payable by Udapeur for the administration of Mewai-Merwara and the expenses of two local corps the surplus money should be paid in full to the Udaipur Darbar, and that the Reside t, Mewar, should annually intimate to His Highness the Maharana, in a mina, the aggregate revenue derived from the District during the preceding twelve months. His Highness signified his assent to these arrangements in a Kharita addressed to His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General under date the 13th November 1883 (No. 1V)

. The hill districts of Udupur to the south and south west are inhabited by wild and restless tribes of Bhis and Grasius, under Rajput Chiefs owing a nominal allegiance to Udupur, holding rights of property in the land over which the Maharana has no power, and levying blickmail on neighbouring villages and a tax on the passage of goods and travellers, for whose safety they are considered responsible. Various injudicious attempts to interfere with the prescriptive rights of these tribes drove them to revolt, and necessitated the employment of British troops for their coercion. It was found that without the constant supervision of British officers permanent peace could not be restored. Accordingly, it was proposed in 1838 to raise a Bhil Corps to be stationed in these districts. The Maharana of Udaipur offered to contribute towards the expenses of the corps the revenues of his share of Merwara, estimated at Rs. 45,000 and the Girasia tributes estimated at Rs. 40,000, and to make over the district for ten years to British management. The corps was raised in 1841 at a cost of Rs. 1,20,000 a year, of which Udaipur agreed to pay Rs. 50,000, but the civil control of the district was left with the Maharana. Since the formation of the corps the outbreaks of the Bhils have been suppressed; but there has been a constant struggle between the native government seeking to oppress the Bhils and the Superintendent of Kherwara to protect In 1861 the cost of the corps was reduced to about Rs. 98,000 a year.

Captain Tod was the first Political Agent appointed to Udaipur. As the country was utterly disorganised, decided interference was necessary to restore the State to prosperity, and to enable it to perform with effect the stipulations of the Treaty of 1818 (No I) with the British Government. Captain Tod was therefore directed to take the whole control of affairs into his own hands. The result was that the net revenues which in 1819 were only Rs. 4,41,218, amounted in 1821 to Rs. 8,77,634. Towards 1821, however, this minute interference was gradually withdrawn. The consequence was that within two years the State was involved in debt, the British tribute remained unpaid, with arrears amounting to Rs. 7,90,747, and the incoming revenues of the State were anticipated. It became necessary again to place the State under the superintendence of the Political Agent. The Maharana was given an allowance of Rs. 1,000 a day, and certain districts were reserved for the regular payment of the tribute and the liquidation of arrears. The dependent state to which the Maharana was reduced, although the result of his own improvidence, was only authorised as a temporary measure, inasmuch as it paralyzed all spontaneous and individual action within the State. In 1826, therefore, the authority of the Maharana was re-established, and the interference of the Political Agent was withdrawn. Within a few months extravagance and oppression became as rife as they had ever been before, and the roads became almost impassable to single travellers

Maharana Bhim Singh died in 1828 and was succeeded by his son, Jawan Singh, who gave himself up to debauchery and vice. Within a few years the tribute again fell heavily into arrears, the State was overwhelmed with deht, and there was an annual deficit of two lakes of rupees. Accordingly in 1838 the Court of Directors ordered that if the Maharana should fail to his engagements to liquidate the arrears, a territorial or other sufficient security should be required.

In August of the same year Jawan Singh died without issue, and was succeeded by his adopted son, Sardar Singh He received an inheritance of debt amounting to Rs 19 67,500, of which nearly eight lakhs were on account of tribute Sardar Singh was very unpopular with his Chiefs, and in 1841 he proposed, with a view to strengthening his authority, to subsidize a regiment of infantry to be stationed at his capital, but the proposal was not accepted He died in 1842 and was succeeded by his younger brother, Sarup Singh, whom he had adopted.

The financial embarrassments in which the Udaipur State was involved had led to repeated applications for a reduction in the amount of tribute, which, in 1826, had been fixed at three lakhs of Udaipur Rupees In June 1846 it was reduced to two lakhs of Government Rupees by a kharita to the Chief dated 25th June 1846.

Sarup Singh died oo the 17th November 1861, and was succeeded by bis nephew and adopted son, Sambhu Singh, to whom the privilege of adoptioo was guaranteed (No V) in the following year. The administration was conducted during his minority by a Regeocy Council with the aid of the advice of the Political Agent. The members were, as usual in such case appointed by Government, but it became necessary to dismiss three of them for misconduct, and to coosequence of the gross perverson of justice by the Council, it was decided to confer judicial and revenue powers on the Political Agent during the minority of the Maharana

One of the members of the Regeocy Couocil, Mehta Ajit Singh, who had been guilty of great atrocities in the name of justice, was proscribed as an outlay by the British Government. He surrendered in 1870 on the promise that his life shoold be spared, and the case having been voluntarily

Sarup Singh died on the 17th November 1861, and was succeeded by his nephew and adopted son, Sambhu Singh, to whom the privilege of adoption was guaranteed (No. V) in the following year. The administration was conducted during his minority by a Regency Council with the aid of the advice of the Political Agent. The members were, as usual in such cases, appointed by Government, but it became necessary to dismiss three of them for misconduct, and in consequence of the gross perverson of justice by the Council, it was decided to confer judicial and revenue powers on the Political Agent during the minority of the Maharana.

One of the members of the Regency Council, Mehta Ajit Singh, who had been guilty of great atrocities in the name of justice, was proscribed as an outlay by the British Government. He surrendered in 1870 on the promise that his life should be spared, and the case having been voluntarily placed in the hands of the British Government by the Mewar Darbar, he was sentenced to a term of imprisonment sufficient to mark the determination of Government to visit with serious displeasure any quasi-judicial acts of cruelty by whomsoever committed. He was further declared incapable of serving the State in any capacity. The Rao of Kotaria, a feudatory of Mewar, who had afforded shelter to Mehte. Ajit Singh, died before any steps could be taken to mark the displessure of Government with his conduct.

Maharana Sambhu Singh was entrusted with the management of his State in November 1865, and in 1866 agreed to cede lands unconditionally for railway purposes, but no formal agreement was concluded with him. In 1869 a Treaty (No. VI) was concluded with the Udaipur State, providing for the mutual extradition of persons charged with certain specified offences of a heinous nature. The Maharana's liberality during the distress which prevailed in Rajputana in 1869 met with the cordial approval of Government.

Maharana Sambhu Singh, who had been created a Knight Grand Commander of the Star of India, died on the 7th October 1874, aged twenty-seven. Sajjan Singh, his first cousin, aged about fifteen years, was selected as his successor, and the choice was confirmed by the British Government, a Council of Regency being appointed to carry on the administration during his minority aided by the advice of the Political Agent. Objections to the succession were, however, raised by his uncle, Sohan Singh. In spite of repeated warnings Sohan Singh refused to tender his allegiance to the Maharana, and as he continued to set his authority at defiance, a small force of Udaipur troops, aided by a detachment of the Mewar Bhil Corps, was sent to reduce his fort of Bagor. Sohan Singh surrendered without firing a shot, and was removed as a State Prisoner to Benares. He was, however, allowed to return to Udaipur on certain conditions in 1880.

In 1879 an Agreement (No. VII) was concluded with the State providing for the suppression of the manufacture of salt in Mewar; for the prevention of the import and export of any but British duty paid salt; and for the abolition of any transit duty on such. In return the British Government undertook to pay yearly to the Maharana Rs. 45,000, and to deliver lagirdars and others, through the Maharana, Rs. 2,900, and to deliver annually at Pachbadra for the use of the Maharana 1,000 maunds of good salt free of all charges.

In lieu of the stipulation in the sixth Article of the agreement, which allowed the Mewar Darbar to purchase 125,000 British Indian maunds of salt at half the full rate of duty, and at a price not exceeding 8 annas a maund, it was subsequently arranged (Government of India, Financial Department's letter No. 1211, dated the 14th June 1870) that a yearly payment of Rs. 1,56,250 be made to the Darbar on the understanding that the British Government levy full duty upon the 125,000 maunds of salt which the Darbar is allowed to purchase under that Article. The money is paid to the Darbar from the Aimer Treasury on the 1st October in each year. The above arrangement is to continue so long as the British Government are satisfied that at least 125,000 maunds of salt paying British duty are annually purchased for the consumption of the people of Mewar. The Darbar on its part, with the view of benefiting its subjects, agreed (in 1880) to abolish the duties hitherto levied on many commodities, and retained them only on opium, cloth, cotton, tobacco, gur, iron, mahua (mhowa), and timber, gania, and silk cloth (Gazette Notification, dated 5th March 1880). On the 22nd February 1887, in commemoration of Her Majesty the Queen's Jubilee, the Maharana issued a proclamation aholishing transit dues within his State on all articles except opium. (Gazette Notification, dated 25th March 1887).

Maharana Sajjan Singh was present at the Imperial Assemblage at Delhi on the 1st January 1877, on which occasion he was granted a personal salute of twenty-one guns, and in 1881 he was created a Knight Grand Commander of the Stat of India.

On the 23rd December 1884 he died in his 26th year, leaving no issue. The Maharanis and Sardars unanimously selected for the gadi Fatch Singh who, through his father's adoption, belonged to the Sheorati branch of the ruling family. He was then 34 years old. This selection having been accepted and confirmed by the Supreme Government, Fatch Singh was installed on the 4th March 1885. He was invested with full powers of ndministration in August 1885, and created a Knight Grand Commander of the Star of India in February 1887.

In 1887 the Udaipur State concluded an Agreement (No. VIII) in modification of the Extradition Treaty of 1869 with the British Government. The new Agreement provided that in the surrender of offenders from British India to Udaipur the procedure for the time being in force in British India should be followed.

A line of railway from Chitorgarli on the Rajputana-Malwa Railway to Debari station, about 8 miles from Udaipur, was constructed by the State and opened for traffic in August 1895: it was extended to Udaipur in August 1899. The line is 67.30 miles long and the Maharana retains jurisdiction over it.

In January 1897 an agreement was concluded with Rai Bahadur Seth Sobhag Mal Dhadha, Banker of Ajmer, under which he receives the surplus collections of the Udaipur and Kherwara Post Offices to the extent of Government Rs. 1,50,000 a year for the purpose of disbursing the monthly pay of the Mewar Bhil Corps. The Seth is paid a sum of Rs. 100 a month by Government for the maintenance of branches at Kherwara and Kotra for the payment of the troops at those stations.

On the occasion of the celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of Her Majesty the late Queen Victoria's reign in 1897, the Imperial Order of the Crown of India was conferred on the Maharani Sahiba, consort of the present Maharana, while the salute of the Maharana was raised from nineteen to twenty-one guns as a personal distinction.

An agreement dated the 17th October 1901, but taking effect from the 1st January 1898, was entered into between the Bombay, Baroda and Central India Railway Company and the Udaipur State providing for running powers on the Udaipur-Chitor Railway between the Berach signal and Chitorgarh stations, and for the interchange of rolling stock and traffic and the working of the Chitorgarh Station.

A sum of Rs. 2,12,978 was granted to the Bhumat Chiefs of the Kherwara and Kotra districts by the Government of India in 1900 and 1902 as a famine loan, for the repayment of which the Mewar Darbar made themselves responsible to the British Government, and agreements were executed by the Chiefs concerned. Owing, however, to the general unsatisfactory condition of the Hilly Tracts, the Government of India subsequently remitted in 1903 a portion of the loan.

Maharana Sir Fatch Singh was present at Delhi on the 1st January 1903, but was unable to attend the Coronation Darbar owing to indisposition.

The area of the Udaipur State is 12 690 square miles and the population, according to the census of 1901, is 1,018,803 inclusive of Bhils, who number 118,138. The gross annual revenue of the State is estimated to be about Government Rs 75 00,000 of which Rs 25 50,000 belong to the Fisc, or State Treasury, and the balance is the income derived by jagirdars and muafidars.

The military force of Udaipur, including irregulars, but exclusive of the feudal quotas of jagirdars, consists (1905) of 56 serviceable and 72 unserviceable guns, 239 artillery men, 500 cavalry, 1,750 infantry, and 799 armed police

The Maharina of Udaipur is ordinarily entitled to a salute of 19 guns, which was finally approved in Her Majesty's Order in Council of the 25th June 1867.

Feudatory Chiefs of Mewar

Ever since the connection of the British Government with Udaipur the Chiefs of that State have been involved in disputes with their nobles, who enjoy privileges and rights which do not prevail to the same extent in any other part of Rajputana. The greater number of the Feudatory Chiefs are descendants of former Ranas. Of these the most important are the Chandawai Chiefs, who are descended from Chanda, and of whom the most powerful is the Rawat of Salumbar. This Chanda, about the middle of the fourteenth century, gave up his claim to the succession in favour of his younger brother, Mokal, reserving for himself the first place in the Councils of the State. The Rawat of Salumbar, therefore, claims the office of chief hereditary councillor, and when the Treaty of 1818 (No. 1) was concluded, an attempt was made, but witbout success, to obtain the guarantee of the British Government to this office being held by the Rawat

Next in importance to the Chandawat Chiefs are the Saktawats, descended from Sakta, brother of Rana Partab, who ruled about the middle of the sixteenth century

At the date of the first Treaty with the British Government these Chiefs had mide themselves virtually independent of the Maharina, and one of the first acts of the Political Agent, who was invested with full control, was to draw up the Agreement of May 1818 (No IV), between the Maharina and his Chiefs, by which the litter bound themselves to restore all the lands they bad usurped or otherwise acquired during the last fifty years. It was at the same time arranged that the Thakurs should hold available for the Maharana's service, for three months each year, quotas of two horsemen and four foot soldiers for every Rs. 1,000 of their revenue. The object of the Agreement was to restore territorial possession to the footing on which it stood in the year 1766, when the ruin of Udaipur commenced.

The quotas furnished under this agreement were notoriously inefficient. Shortly after it was framed, in addition to service, the Maharana levied chhatund or a tax of one-sixth of their revenues; this was utilised at first to meet the expenses of the marriage of his daughters, but afterwards for purposes of police. The Chiefs objected to this tax, which was taken without their consent and was not devoted to the purposes for which it was professedly raised. In 1827, therefore, a new Agreement (No. X) was framed, the principle of which was that the Chiefs should pay the tax of one-sixth of their revenues and be excused half their service; that is to say, they should in future be bound to serve for three months in the year with only one horseman and two footmen for every Rs. 1,000 of revenue. This agreement was sanctioned by Government as the act of the Maharana and his Chiefs, but was not guaranteed. It was as inoperative as the Agreement of 1818. The oppressive measures of the Udaipur Government drove many of the Chiefs into rebellion, while the Maharana on his part complained of the failure of his Chiefs to perform their obligations. In 1840 a third Agreement (No. XI) was signed, only to be replaced by another (No. XII) five years later. Within two years disputes were as violent as ever, the Maharana complaining that the Chiefs did not perform their stipulated service, and the Chiefs alleging that service was demanded of them beyond the period agreed upon, and that their villages were attached and fines imposed on them on groundless and frivolous pretences.

In 1850 the Maharana confiscated a large portion of the estates of the Rawats of Salumbar and Deogarh for non-performance of their obligations, but his troops were expelled by these Chiefs, who forcibly retook possession of the confiscated villages. The Maharana and his Chiefs applied for the mediation of the British Government, and a full enquiry took place into the causes of dispute. In 1854 Sir Henry Lawrence negotiated a new Agreement (No. XIII), but this was signed only by the Maharana and four of his principal Chiefs. Its conditions were never fulfilled, and eventually

Government declared it to be null and void, but guaranteed the protection of the British Government to the Chiefs who had signed it. Under this guarantee the Maharana was compelled in 1861 to restore the estates of Mehta Sher Singh which he had confiscated. In 1862 a dispute prose about the succession to Salumbar, Rawat Kesri Singh having died heirless. Eventually Jodh Singh, the Rao of Bamora, succeeded, much against the wishes of the majority of the Salumbar Sardars and the Mewar Council of Regency, who appealed in vain to the Government of India to eject the usurper in favour of the Rao of Bhadesar whom they considered the rightful heir. The accession of the present Maharana in 1884 was the signal for a renewal of the strife between the Chief and his feudatories, and their relations have continued unsatisfactory ever since

(II) DUNGARPUR

This family is an offshoot of the House of Udaipur On the fall of the Moghal Empire, Dungarpur, like other Raiput States, became tributary to the Marathas It was at first arranged to divide the tribute of Rs 35 000 levied from it between Sindhia, Holkar, and Dhar, but Dhar ultimately succeeded in establishing its exclusive right to the whole amount. This tributary claim was transferred to the British Government in return for its protection by the Treaty of 1818 (No XIV) with Jaswant Singh

The State having fallen into arrears of payment a separate Agreement (No XV) was concluded in 1820 by which a sum of Rs 35,000 (Salim Shahi) was accepted from the Maharawal in lieu of all arrears, while the annual tribute of the years 1819, 1820, and 1821 was to be paid in three instalments of Rs 17,000, Rs 20,000 and Rs 25,000 in 1820, 1821 and 1822. After 1822 the British Government was to fix the amount of tribute in accordance with the 9th Article of the Treaty of 1818 (No XIV). The tribute now paid is Rs 17,500 (Salim Shahi Rs 35,000). In January 1824 the Chief agreed (No XVI) to pay, in addition to the above subsidy, the sum of Rs 8400 a year for the maintenance of a local force. But this engagement was never enforced, and was subsequently declared to be obsolete.

As in other States inhibited by wild hill tribes, it became necessary at an early period of the British supremacy to employ a military force to coerce the Bhils, who had been excited to rebellion by some of the disaffected nobles. The Bhil Chiefs, however, submitted to terms in 1825 (No. XVII) before actual hostilities commenced.

The Maharawal, Jaswant Singh, was incapable as a ruler, and was besides addicted to degrading vices. For his incompetency and the disturbances of the peace which he created he was deposed (No. XVIII) in 1825, , and his adopted son, Dalpat Singh, grandson of Sawant Singh, Chief of Partabgarh, was made Regent. In 1844 the succession to Partabgarh devolved on Dalpat Singh. At this time it was under consideration whether it would be best to unite Dungarpur and Partabgarh in one. State, or whether a fresh adoption should be made by the Maharawal of Dungarpur, or whether Partabgarh should escheat to the British Government. Dalpat Singh was at last permitted to adopt, as his successor in Dungarpur, Udai Singh, the infant son of the Thakur of Sabli, and, while ruler of Partabgarh, to . continue to be Regent of Dungarpur, during the boy's minority. On this occasion Jaswant Singh made an attempt to recover his authority and to elevate to the gadi the son of Himmat Singh, Thakur of Nandli; but he was unsuccessful, and the attempt resulted in Jaswant Singh's removal to Muttra, where he was kept under surveillance with an allowance of Rs. 12,000 a year.

Maladministration was the necessary result of the arrangement by which the regency was left in the hands of Dalpat Singh, who resided at Partabgarh. Accordingly, in 1852, he was removed from all authority in Dungarpur, and the State was put under a Native Agent appointed by the British Government to hold charge of the administration during the remaining years of the minority.

Maharawal Udai Singh, who did good service during the mutiny, attained his majority in 1857. In 1862 he received a Sanad (similar to No. V), guaranteeing to him the right of adoption. Maharawal Udai Singh died in February 1898, and was succeeded by his grandson, Bijey Singh, the present Chief, who was born on the 17th July 1887. Maharawal Bijey Singh is being educated at the Mayo College. He was present at the Coronation Darbar held at Delhi in 1903. Owing to the minority of the Chief the State is under direct management, the administration being carried on, under the close supervision of the Assistant Resident in Mewar, whose head-quarters are at Dungarpur, by a State Council of which the Assistant Resident is also President.

In 1869 an extradition Treity (No XIX) was concluded with the Dungarpur State. But in 1887 an Agreement (No XX) was framed in modification of the Treaty of 1869, providing that in the extradition of offenders from British India to Dungarpur the procedure for the time being in force in British India should be followed. In Tebruary 1903, the Darbar accepted the Border Court Rules of 1879.

In 1903 the Darbar garranteed the Government Telegraph Department against loss in the construction of a telegraph line from Rutlam to Dungar- pur vid Banswara

The Salim Shahi and Chitori currencies were converted into British currency in 1904

The Maharawal has agreed to give lands for railway purposes free of cost, to code full jurisdiction in them short of sovereign rights, and to surrender all transit duties on goods passing through his tetritory. Thete is however no formal engagement to this effect

The area of Dungarpur is 1,447 square miles, with a population, according to the census of 1901, of 100,103, including Bhils who number 33 887. The gross Lhalsa revenue of the State is about Rs 1,70,000 No local corps or contingents are kept up at the expense of the State The military force consists (1905) of 2 serviceable and 5 unserviceable guns, and 204 armed police

The Chief is entitled to a salute of 15 guns, which was finally approved in Her Majesty's Order in Council, dated the 26th June 1667.

(III) BANSWARA

Banswara was originally part of Mewar, but became independent of it prior to the establishment of the supremacy of the British Government, who recognised Banswara as a separate power. In 1812 the Chief of Banswara offered to become tributary to the British Government on condition that the Marathas were expelled, but no definite relations were formed with him till September 1818, when a Treaty (No XXI) was concluded, by which, in consideration of the protection of the Pritish Government, Maharawal Umed Singh agreed to act in subordinate co operation with the British Government, and to settle his affairs in accordance with its advice; to abstain from disputes and political correspondence with other Chiefs, to pay a tribute equal to three-eighths of his revenues; and to furnish troops when required. The Maharawal, however, denied his obligation to be bound by this Treaty which was negotiated by his accredited Agent, and although it was declared to be binding on him, it was thought bestespecially as the Dhar State had in the meantime, by the Treaty of Badnawar, formally concluded on the 10th January 1819 (see Volume IV. Dhar) ceded to the British Government its tribute claims on Dungarpur and Banswara-to conclude a new Treaty (No. XXII), which was ratified on the 13th February 1819. By this treaty Banswara came formally under the protection of the British Government. The chief modifications it involved were, that the Maharawal was to pay to the British Government all arrears of tribute due to Dhar or any other State, and annually whatever tribute the British Government might deem adequate to cover the expense of protection, provided it did not exceed three-eighths of the revenues; and that the British Government was to assist in bringing under control any relatives or connections of the Chief, his heirs and successors, who might prove disobedient.

The above provisions were supplemented in 1820, as in the case of Dungarpur, by a separate Agreement (No. XXIII) by which the Maharawal was to pay, in 6 yearly instalments, a sum of Salim Shahi Rupees 35,000 in full satisfaction of all arrears due to Dhar or any other State, while the tribute to the British Government for the years 1819, 1820, 1821, was fixed at Salim Shahi Rupees 17,000, Rupees 20,000, and Rupees 25,000, respectively. On the 11th February 1823 another similar Agreement (No. XXIV) was made fixing the tribute for the years 1822 to 1825 as follows: Salim Shahi Rupees 24,000; Rupees 25,000; Rupees 26,000; Rupees 34,000. From 1825 to 1831 the demand was Salim Shahi Rupees 35,000. At the end of that time the settlement was to be liable to fresh revision in accordance with the 9th Article of the Treaty of December 1818 (No. XXII).

In 1831 a fresh arrangement was sanctioned (Government letter of 13th August 1831, to Resident, Indore); the tribute was again in arrears, and the settlement made was for five years. But the Maharawal failed to observe it. In 1836 he owed arrears of tribute amounting to about Salim Shahi Rupees 1,70,000; the country was badly governed, and was impoverished. The Government of India were somewhat inclined to assume the administration; but the Maharawal promised amendment, and in a Kharita dated the 9th June 1836 (No. XXV) undertook the payment of the tribute and arrears in instalments decreasing from Salim Shahi Rupees 55 000 in 1836 37 to Rupees 44,385 in 1843-44. Some time after this settlement the Banswura tribute proper is mentioned as being confined to Salim Shahi Rupees 35 000 a year, at which amount it has since stood

In 1824, an Engagement, identical with that made with Dungarpur, (No XVI) was effected with Banswara, by which the Chief agreed to pay, in addition to the subsidy, the sum of Rs 8,400 a year for the maintenance of a local force. The engagement however, was never enforced and was subsequently declared to be obsolete.

Umed Singh was succeeded by his son, Bhawani Singh, who in his turn was succeeded by his adopted heir Bahidur Singh. The latter adopted Lichhman Singh Lachhman Singh succession to the gadi was disputed by Man Singh, Thakur of Khandu, who conceived that a son of his own had preferable claims, but he eventually withdrew his opposition on receiving a remission of Rs. 1,300 a year in the tribute which he paid to the Banswara State In 1862, Maharwai Lachhman Singh was granted a Sanad (see No V) guaranteeing him the right of adoption

In 1866, a dispute took place between the Chief of Banswara and his feudators, the Rao of Kusalgarh, relative to an alleged attack by the latter on a Banswara police station, in the course of which a Kusalgarh prisoner was stated to have been released and three men to have been killed. The Rao of Kusalgarh was called upon to give up the released prisoner, and as he failed to comply, his villages in Ratlam were attached. It was subsequently dis covered that the whole story was a fabrication. As a punishment for the deceit practised by the special direction of the Maharawal, the salute to which he was entitled was reduced from fifteen to eleven guns for a period of six years from the 1st August 1869, and he was required to pay a sum of Rs 6 267 to the Rao of Kusalgurh as compensation for the loss inflicted on him by the attachment of his villages It was decided that this sum should be made good by annual remissions of the tribute due by Kusalzarh to Banswara. but the tribute was still to be tendered, so as to leave no ground for any future claim to exemption or independence on the part of Eusalgarh. The opportunity was taken about this time to make a rule that Banswara should exercise no interference with the internal administration of the affairs of Kusalgarh, and that the Rao should be allowed to collect his own pay a tribute equal to three-eighths of his revenues; and to furnish troops when required. The Maharawal, however, denied his obligation to be bound by this Treaty which was negotiated by his accredited Agent, and although it was declared to be binding on him, it was thought bestespecially as the Dhar State had in the meantime, by the Treaty of Badnawar, formally concluded on the 10th January 1819 (see Volume IV, Dhar) ceded to the British Government its tribute claims on Dungarpur and . On the occasion of the Delhi Darbar held on the 1st January 1877 the Chief's permanent salute was fixed at eleven guns; but this was restored in 1878 to one of fifteen guns, Maharawal Lachman Singh's personal salute, however, remaining at eleven guns till Fehruary 1880, when his full salute was re-granted to him,

In 1883 a set of rules for facilitating the surrender of criminals in the States of Banswara and Partangarh received the approval of the Government of India.

The differences which had existed between the Maharawal and his Thakurs regarding taxation and points of etiquette were amicahly settled in 1883 (No. XXVIII). It was decided that the ancient custom in regard to ceremonial observances should prevail in future. The land revenne was reduced by four annas in the rupee. The indefensible system of "Polri Chittis" and the issue of new "Pattas" to Thakurs on succession were aholished. The families and relatives of the Thakurs were allowed the right of adoption. The Sardars in return promised compliance in future with all reasonable behests of the Darhar, such as surrender of criminals, etc.

After the famine of 1900, it was found necessary, owing to serious financial emharrassment and mal-administration, to place the State under the direct control of an Assistant to the Resident and a Council selected hy Government. A loan of Rs. 2,50,000 was advanced by Government, which is heing repaid hy instalments of Rs. 25,000 a year. All miscellaneous debts have been paid off, and the administration is heing gradually reformed. In 1904 the depreciated Salim Shahi currency was converted into British currency.

In the same year the Darhar agreed to guarantee the Government Telegraph Department ngainst loss in the construction of a telegraph line Irom Rutlam to Dungarpur vid Banswara.

Maharawal Lachhman Singh died on the 29th April 1905, and was succeeded by his eldest son, the present Maharawal, Shimbhu Singh, who was born in 1869. He was invested with ruling powers on the 11th January 1906.

Including its feudatory of Kusalgarh, the nrea of Banswara is 1,946 square miles; its population, by the census of 1901, is 165,350, including customs within his estate: on the other hand, the tribute of Rs. 1,100 per annum due to Banswara from Kusalgarh was to be punctually paid, and all requisitions made upon the Rao by the representative of the British authority when they related to the lawful demands of Banswara were to be satisfied without demur. In addition to these measures a Political Assistant was deputed to Banswara in direct subordination to the Political Agent, Mewar. His salary and that of his office establishment were defrayed from an increase of Salim Shahi Rs. 15,000 (Government Rs. 11,741-10) made, under Article 9 of the Treaty of 25th December 1818 (No. XXII), to the yearly tribute levied from Banswara. Whatever balance remained of the increased tribute was to have been spent on works of public improvement. In 1884, however, it was decided that in future, as the Political Officer was also in charge of Partabgarh, not more than Rs. 500 a month of his pay, plus a fair proportion of his travelling and office expenses, should be charged against the Banswara tribute. In 1880, owing to the increasing financial embarrassments of the State, the enhanced tribute of Salim Shahi Rupees 15,000 was conditionally reduced to Government Rupees 5,000 and the accumulated savings from the enhanced tribute since 1884, amounting to about Rs. 18,000, were credited to Government in part payment of debt due on amount of arrears of tribute.

The Chief agreed in 1865 to give land free of cost for railway purposes; to cede full jurisdiction in them short of sovereign rights; and to surrender all transit duties on goods passing through his territory. No formal engagement, however, to this effect has been concluded.

An extradition Treaty (No. XXVI) was concluded with Banswara in 1868, but this was modified by the Agreement of 1887 (No. XXVII), which provided that in the extradition of offenders from British India to Banswara the procedure for the time being in force in British India should be followed.

In 1873 a serious affray took place between Banswara and Partabgarh relative to the possession of a border village. An enquiry into the circumstances of the case was held, and it was ascertained that Banswara had committed an unprovoked attack on a village which indisputably belonged to Partabgarh, and had supported its encroachments on Partabgarh territory by the production of false evidence. The Maharawal was therefore informed that his full salute could not be restored to him.

On the occasion of the Delhi Darbar held on the 1st January 1877 the Chief's permanent salute was fixed at eleven guns; hut this was restored in 1878 to one of fifteen guns, Maharawal Lachman Singh's personal salute, however, remaining at eleven guns till Fehruary 1880, when his full salute was re-granted to him.

In 1883 a set of rules for facilitating the surrender of criminals in the States of Banswara and Partahgarh received the approval of the Government of India.

104,329 Bhils; and its gross Khalsa revenue about Government Rs. 1,70,000. The State possesses (1905) 6 unserviceable guns.

The Chief is entitled to a salute of 15 guns, which was finally approved in Her Majesty's Order in Council, dated the 26th June 1867.

(IV) PARTABGARH.

The Maharawat of Partabgarh is descended from a junior branch of the Udaipur House. From the time of the establishment of the Maratha power in Malwa the Chief of Partabgarh paid tribute to Holkar. The first connection of the British Government with this State was formed in 1804 (No. XXIX), the Chief then on the gadi being Sawant Singh; but this alliance was dissolved under the policy introduced by Lord Cornwallis of withdrawing from connection with the Western Rajput States. Partabgarh, however, was again taken under protection by the Treaty of October 1818 (No. XXX). In lieu of the local force of fifty horse and two hundred foot, stipulated for in Article 4 of the Treaty, the Chief engaged (No. XXXI) in 1823 to pay an annual subsidy of Rs. 12,000 till the year 1826, after which the subsidy was to be doubled. But this engagement was never enforced, and in 1840 it was abrogated and the original obligation of the 4th Article of the Treaty of 1818 was declared to be still operative (Government letter No. 1480, dated the 30th November 1840).

Under the 4th Article of the Treaty of Mandsaur (Mandisor) (see Vol. IV, Indore), the British Government acquired a right to the tribute levied by Holkar in Partabgarh. In consideration, however, of the political influence lost by Holkar under that Treaty it was resolved to account to him annually for the amount of the tribute, which is therefore paid to him from the British treasury. The present tribute is Rs. 36,350 (Salim Shahi Rupees 72,700), but the British Government continues to pay to the Indore State Rs. 57,874-3-2, which was the equivalent of Salim Shahi Rupees 72,700 at the time when the original arrangement with Holkar was made.

Sawant Singh died in 1844 and was succeeded by his grandson, Dalpat Singh. The latter had previously succeeded to the State of Dungarpur on the deposition of Jaswant Singh by whom he had been adopted. On his succession to Partabgarh he relinquished Dungarpur to Udai Singh, son of the Thakur of Sabli. In 1862 Dalpat Singh was guaranteed (see No. V) the right of adoption.

The Darbar agreed in 1865 to give land for railway purposes free of cost; to cede in them full jurisdiction short of sovereign rights; and to surrender all transit duties on goods passing through their territory. But no formal agreement was concluded on either point.

Maharanat Dalpat Singh died in 1864 and was succeeded by his son, Udai Singh, then seventeen years of age. Udai Singh died without issue on the 15th February 1890. Raghunath Singh, Maharaj of Arnod (under Parlabgarh), aged 32, being the nearest surviving relative of the late Chief, was selected as his successor, and the choice was confirmed by the British Government. He was invested with full powers on the 10th January 1891, but owing to the extravagances of Udai Singh and to the loss of tevenue caused by the famine of 1899-1900 it has become necessary for the British Government to exercise through its Political Officers some control over the finances of the State.

An extradition Treaty (No. XXXII) was concluded with Partahgarh in 1869, but this was modified in 1887 by an Agreement (No. XXXIII) which provided that in the extradition of offenders from British India to Partabgath the procedure for the time being in force in British India should be followed.

In 1883 a set of rules for facilitating the arrest and surrender of criminals in the States of Banswara and Partabgarh received the approval of the Government of India. An agreement was recorded by the State on the 7th September 1993 notifying its acceptance of the Border Court rules of 1877.

In 1904 the local Salim Shahi currency was replaced by British

The area of the State is 886 square miles; the population, according to the census of 1901, is $2,025, including 11,513 Bhils; and the gross Khalaa revenue Rs, 2,20,000. No local corps or contingents are maintained at the expense of the State.

The military force of the State, excluding jagirdars' levics, consists [1905] of 13 gunners, 19 unserviceable guns, 22 cavalry, and 76 infantry.

The Chief receives a salute of 15 guns, which was finally approved in Her Majesty's Order in Councit of the 26th June 1867.

KHARITA from HIS EXCELLENCY the VICEROY and GOVERNOR-GENERAL of INDIA to HIS HIGHNESS MAHARANA DHIRAJ SAJJAN SINGH, G C.S I, of OUDEYPORE, dated the 16th October 1882

MY HONOURED AND VALUED FRIEND,

I have had under long and careful consideration the 'Kharita' which Your Highness addressed on the 24th February 1882 to my Officiating Agent in Raipputana with reference to the district of Meywar-Mairwarra In the year 1881 a somewhat similar representation from Your Highness received my full attention. I then caused my Agent in Raipputana to communicate to Your Highness my opinion that the tenure on which the British Government administers the district of Meywar Mairwarra was a matter involving questions of intricacy, and that a discussion about it did not appear to be expedient. At the same time I expressed my desire of removing as far as possible, all difficulties connected with the adjustment of the accounts of the district. With this view I determined that the revenues of Meywar.

of contributions due

Corps, the Mairwar

district itself I further consented to forego a claim on Your Highness for arrears amounting to more than Rs 76 ooo on the understanding that in future the system of rendering accounts of the district to Your Highness should be discontinued as tending to give rise to unprofitable discussions about small matters

Your Highness, while cordially recognising the liberal spirit in which this decision I ad been conceived, expressed an apprehension lest your rights of sovereignty over Meywar Mairwarra should be impaired in the eyes of your subjects by a discontinuance of the former system of rendering accounts. Moreover, Your Highness anticipated, in view of a revision of the current revenue settlement of the district, that the new arrangements the Oudeypore State. Your plan that territorial exchan ss and the Maharaja Sindia

in order to transfer to you certain outlying villages, which are now posses sed by the Gwallor Darbar, and in consideration for which Your Highness (would be prepared to cede Meywar Mairwarra to the British Government in full sovereignty

My friend † It will always give the greatest gratification to the representative of Her Majesty the Queen Empress in this country to meet to the utmost the wishes of a Chief so loyal and enlightened as Your High ness But the careful enquiries which I have instituted have shown that the territorial exchanges indicated by Your Highness could not at the present time be conveniently carried out I have therefore reluctantly been compelled to give up the idea

It has, however, been suggested to me that the arrangements made in the year 1881 would be more agreeable to Your Highness if they were rendered more explicit by distinct assurance that they were not intended to prejudice or affect in any way Your Highness's rights of sovereignty over the Meywar-Mairwarra District. Such an assurance I now readily give, and I trust that it may remove from Your Highness's mind all uneasiness in this matter. The revision of the current settlement in the whole of Ajmere-Mairwarra has recently been under my consideration, and I am of opinion that in Meywar-Mairwarra no great enhancement of the revenue demand can be expected. But to provide against such a contingency, I am willing to undertake that, if the receipts from the district should at any time exceed Rs. 66,000 per annum, which sum represents the amount of the contributions payable by Your Highness on account of its administration and of the Meywar Bhil Corps and the Mairwarra Battalion, the surplus proceeds shall be paid over to the Oudeypore State. The Resident in Meywar will also be instructed to annually inform Your Highness in a "Kharita" of the amount of the revenues of the Meywar-Mairwarra District during each year as it closes. I need not, however, explain to Your Highness that this statement will be furnished not in order to revive the system of rendering and examining accounts which has been found inconvenient in the past, but merely for Your Highness's perusal and information,

I feel assured that Your Highness will receive this statement of my views on an important and difficult matter in the cordial and loyal spirit which has always marked Your Highness's relations with the British Government.

I beg to express the high consideration which I entertain for Your Highness, and to subscribe myself.

Your Highness's sincere friend,

SIMLA;
The 16th October 1883.

RIPON,

Viceroy and Governor-General of India.

After compliments.—I have received, in reply to the request which I addressed to Your Excellency with reference to the arrangement notified in 1881, affecting the district of Meywar-Mairwarra, Your Excellency's kind and friendly Kharita, dated the 16th October 1883, in which you assure me that the wish of the Darbar for the exchange of the district is not conveniently at the present time practicable, that the arrangement which has now been made is not intended to interfere with or affect the sovereign rights of the Darbar over the tract, that if at any time the revenue of the district shall exceed the sum of Rs 66,000 yearly, which sum is payable by the Darbar on account of management charges, the Meywar Bhil Corps and the Mairwarra Battulion, the surplus will be paid to the Oodey pore State, and that the Resident in Meywar will be instructed to convey by Kharita at the end of each year intimation regarding the revenue of Meywar-Mairwarra, while with regard to myself, after alluding in courteous terms to my loyalty, you were good enough to say that you would always find much pleasure in being able to gratify my wishes

2 Regarding Meywar-Mairwarra requests have for a considerable period been prefeired, but it has been reserved for Your Excellency's administration to take the matter into consideration, and to devise an arrangement favorable to me so far as from the first felt assured of your kind .

has been further strengthened by th that, in the future, the Representative of Her Mujesty the Queen Empress in this country will, in the matter of the achievement of my wishes, evince the utmost consideration. For which assurance I have the pleasure to tender Your Excellency my thanks

No. VII.

MEYWAR SALT AGREEMENT, dated the 12th February 1879. RATIFIED THE 8TH MAY 1879.

ARTICLE 1.

His Highness the Maharana of Oodeypore agrees to suppress and absolutely prohibit and prevent the manufacture of salt within any part of the Meywar State, from the date on which this Agreement comes into force.

Provided that if at any subsequent time His Highness the Maharana desires to reconstruct and re-open works sufficient for the manufacture of a quantity of edible salt not exceeding 15,000 maunds annually, the British Government, on receiving notice not less than twelve months beforehand, will allow certain works selected by officials of the Maharana to be re-opened under proper safeguards and conditions. Returns of the outturn of such works shall be furnished annually to the British Government.

ARTICLE 2.

His Highness the Maharana agrees to prevent the import into, and export from, Meywar of any salt whatever other than salt on which duty has been levied by the British Government and the one thousand maunds of salt mentioned in Article 6.

ARTICLE 3.

No transit duty shall be levied within the Meywar State upon salt upon which duty has been levied by the British Government.

ARTICLE 4.

In consideration of the faithful and effective observance of the conditions specified in Articles 1 and 2 of this Agreement, the British Government agree to pay yearly to His Highness the Maharana of Oodeypore the following sums in British currency:—

For compensation for loss of revenue to the State, and to landholders caused by the suppression of the salt-works so long as all salt-works shall remain closed in Meywar—Rupees two thousand and nine hundred (2,900). And His Highness the Maharana agrees to distribute out of the sum of rupees two thousand and nine hundred aforesaid, the sums allotted to the several jagirdars and others entitled to compensation in accordance with Schedule A attached to this agreement.

For the charges which may be incurred by His Highness the Maharana in preventing the re-opening of the suppressed works or the extension of any works hereafter opened by permission, and in preventing the illicit export of salt—Rupees ten thousand (10,000).

ARTICLE 5.

In consideration of the effective observance by His Highness the Maharana of Oodeypore of the conditions specified in Article 3 of this Agreement, and having regard to the probable diminution of the Maharana's present revenue from transit duties upon salt, which is to be anticipated from the levying of the British duty at the salt sources in Marwar, and elsewhere, the British Government agree to pay to His Highness the Maharana annually the sum of Rupees thirty-five thousand (35,000)

ARTICLE 6

The British Government agree to permit His Highness the Maharana of Oddej pore to purchase annually from the salt-works at Pachbadra, for the consumption of the people of his State, at a price which shall not exceed a maximum of eight annas per maund, one hundred and twenty-five thousand (1,25,000) British Indian maunds of salt, in equal half yearly instalments. The British duty on the salt thus purchased shall be levied at half the full rate of duty at the time leviable at the works from which the salt is supplied.

Provided that, in the event of any salt-works being re-opened in Meywar, under the 1st Article of this Agreement, the estimated yield of those works may, if the British Government so desire be deducted from the quantity of salt allotted under this Article

The British Government also undertake to deliver annually at Pachbadra, for the use of His Highness the Maharana, one thousand maunds of salt of good quality, free of all charges whatsoever

The salt mentioned in this article shall be forthwith removed into the Meywar State, and shall not be re-exported therefrom

ARTICLE 7.

If any considerable stocks of salt be proved to exist within the Meywar State, when this Agreement comes into force, the Maharana will, if so required by the British Government, take possession of such stocks, and will give the owners thereof the option either of transferring the salt to the British Government at such equitable valuation as His Highness may fix in concurrence with the Political Agent, or of paying the said Agent such duty not exceeding two rupees eight annas per maund on such salt as the Governor-General in Council may fix. In the event of the owners aforesaid accepting the latter alternative, they shall be allowed to retain the salt on which duty so provided may be paid, but not otherwise

ARTICLE 8

In the event of its being proved by experience that the arrangements made in accordance with this Agreement by His Highness the Maharana of Oodeypore for the safety of the British salt revenue are practically insufficient, or in the event of its being proved to the full satisfaction of the British Government, that the quantity of salt provided for the consumption and use of the people of the Meywar State in Article 6 is materially insufficient, this Agreement will be open to revision

'ARTICLE 9.

This Agreement is to come into force from a date to be fixed hereafter by the British Government.

Whereas a treaty relating to the extradition of offenders was concluded on the 22nd January 1869 between the British Government and the Oodeypore State: And whereas the procedure prescribed by the treaty for the extradition of offenders from British India to the Oodeypore State has been found by experience to be less simple and effective than the procedure prescribed by the law as to the extradition of offenders in force in British India. The Covenant between the Maharana Bheem Singh and the Chiefs, Jaghiredars, &c., of Meywar, which was contracted in 1818 and received the sanction of the British Government, having been found insufficient to regulate the relative rights and duties of the respective parties, His Highness and the Chiefs unanimously agree to the following additional Articles, and solicit for them the sanction of Government:—

No. XI.

KAULNAMAH OF AGREEMENT between the MAHARANA and his CHIEFS, signed in presence of MAJOR ROBINSON, OFFICIATING POLITICAL AGENT IN MEYWAR, on the 1st February 1840

On Bysack bud 14th, Sumbut 1874, or May 1818, a Kaulnamah of the Articles was concluded through the mediation of Captain Tod bearing the signature of the Maharana and his Chiefs for the mutual benefit of the contracting parties

As in several instances the Chiefs have lost sight of the terms of that agreement, and their conduct has been at variance with it the Maharana has agreed that a new Kaulnamah should be drawn up with the advice and concurrence of Captain Cobbe, introducing therein the clauses of the original agreement with such additional Articles as may be deemed beneficial both for His Highness and the Chiefs that on the Dusserah festival the whole of the Chiefs shall assemble and the Articles of the Kaulnamah be read and explained to every Chief, and their signature affixed to the same, as also that of His Highness that the Political Agent should also be requested by the Maharana and the Chiefs to sign and witness, to ensure the due observance of the terms of the Kaulnamah. This agreement was drawn up several years ago but was not signed either by the Maharana, the Chiefs, or the Political Agent Now, at the request of the Nobles and Chiefs of Meywar, His High ness the Maharana Sirdar Singb approves and confirms the said Kaulnamah without making any additions or alterations to it, and the same has been formally executed in the presence of Major Robinson, Officiating Political Agent in Meywar, on Mahbud 13th Sumbut, 1896, or 1st February 1840; and has been duly signed by the Maharana and the Nobles and Chiefs of Meywar.

Additional Articles for the benefit of both parties.

- t. In the 9th Article of the first Kaulnamah, it is written that no Chiefs shall oppress or commit violence on their ryots; that all new dund, barar exactions, levied in times of commotion, shall cease. As they have not acted up to this engagement, and through their oppression many ryots have been driven from Meywar, it is ordained that they shall in future desist from such proceedings, which will induce the ryots to re-settle and tend to the increase of the revenue of their puttahs and the prosperity of the country.
- 2. It is customary for every Chief to remain with his quota of troops in attendance on the Durbar for three months in the year. This shall continue in force, and no Chief shall be detained at Oudeypore beyond the stipulated period of service, as by their detention the Chiefs are subjected to additional expense and trouble. It is optional with the Durbar to excuse the attendance of any Chief; however, in doing so, the Durbar will not send for another in his room until the expiration of the period the Chief thus excused from duty was to attend. The Chiefs shall be bound to maintain the full number of followers; if they furnish a less number they will subject themselves to the displeasure of His Highness.
- 3. The three-eighths from the revenue collections of the khalsa lands: are paid by the Durbar to the British Government for the protection of Meywar from foreign enemies; not a fraction is taken from the jaghiredars. on this account. The payment of the tribute as here stated is exclusively for the protection of the country against foreign invasion, as the troops of the Chiefs are wholly inadequate for this purpose, the Chiefs participating largely in the benefit thus secured. In former times, a chout was paid to the Dhukhnees, who were a source of great annoyance to the country; this. evil is removed. The troops furnished by the Chiefs are only half the number they are bound to maintain, and are altogether unfit for duty; on which account the Durbar is obliged to issue rozeena and dustuk on the villages of the Chiefs, which subject them to trouble and expense. As the. Durbar pays the tribute from the revenue of his khalsa possessions to the British Government, it was but fair for the Chiefs to have made a similar payment from the proceeds of their estates to the Durbar; but knowing that they can ill-afford such a demand in consequence of the heavy expenses. they are subject to for the maintenance of their relations and dependants, His Highness has thought proper to discharge the tribute from the revenue collections of the crown lands, without making any demands on that account His Highness has now resolved that the service of half from the Chiefs. the troops the Chiefs are bound to furnish, agreeably to the rekh or rentroll, be discontinued, and, in commutation of the above half service, a money payment, amounting to 2 annas 7½ pie in the Rupee, be made, which is to be termed chuttoond, that from this fund a body of troops shall be raised for the service of the State. The Chiefs are not to suppose that the amount to be paid by them is tall en in lieu of the tribute payable to Government as no portion of it will be appropriated to any other purpose than the maintenance of a body of troops. The payment of the chuttoond will not bear hard upon the Chiefs, considering the performance of twelve months service with their full quoty of troops which, no doubt, is more expensive and troublesome to them. On urgent occasions if the Durbar requires the attendance of the full number of troops and detaches them on duty beyond the Mey war limits, a remission will be made in the amount of the chuttoond of the Chiefs furnishing such troops.

4 His Highness the Maharana declares that he will not, without cause, confiscate the villages belonging to a Chief and bestow the same on another.

5 As several Chiefs wilfully withhold and delay the payment of the chuttoond on which account the Durbar is compelled to send dustuks of horse and foot on the estates of the Chiefs, to enforce payment of the dues of the State which subjects the Chiefs to a loss of hundreds of Rupees and is by no means profitable to the Durbar, His Highness has resolved to invite agents on the part of the whole of the Chiefs and in conjunction with the minister, to make a settlement for five years for the payment of chiefs toond by two instalments, by doing so there will be no occasion to send rozeena or dustu's that if any of the Chiefs fail to pay the chuttoond ten days after it has been due they would render themse wes hable to the confiscation of their lands and villages to the extent of the defalcation, which shall not be restored to them

Period of the payment of chuttoond 1st 11stalment on Mungsirsood Poonum, 2nd instalment Jeytsood Poonum

KAULNAMAH between MAHARANA SUROOP SINGH of Oudeypore and his NOBLES and CHIEFS, mediated by LIEUTENANT-COLONEL ROBINSON, dated Mah sood dooj, Sumbut 1901, or 8th February 1845

Formerly an agreement was entered into between Maharana Bheem Singh and the Meywar Chiefs in Captain Tod's time, consisting of ten Articles Afterwards another Kaulnamah of five Articles was drawn up in Captain Cobbe's time, and lastly one was concluded between Maharana Sirdar Singh and the Chiefs in the presence of Colonel Robinson, and duly signed by both parties. As the Chiefs have failed to act up according to the terms of the Kaulnamali, the Maharana, in order to the due observance of the same in future, has, in conjunction with the Chiefs and His Highness's authorities, drawn up the following additional Articles, and which have been mediated by Colonel Robinson and in his presence signed by both parties.

- 1. All the Articles of the former agreement are to continue in force. Every year, ten days before the Dusserah festival, a general assembly of the Chiefs shall take place. After the inspection of their troops, the Durbar will order such Chief as he pleases for three months' duty, and distinctly name the Chiefs and periods they are required to attend, and permit them to return to their homes. The troops of the Chiefs to make no excuse in the performance of their duties. Should they fail to attend at the appointed time, or be found negligent or deficient in numbers, the Chief in whose service they may be shall be called upon to make a money payment in lieu of troops to the Sree Durbar.
- 2. The Chiefs are to pay chuttoond at the rate of 2 annas 7½ pie in the Rupee, in commutation of half the troops they are bound to furnish, regularly at the stipulated periods according to the terms of the first Kaulnamahi.
- 3. The Chiefs are to use their best endeavours for the suppression of thefts and robberies in their respective puttahs; they are not to harbor thieves, outlaws, or dacoits belonging to foreign jurisdictions, but to apprehend all such offenders who may attempt to enter their elaquas, and make them over, together with such plundered property as may be found in their possession, to the State whose subjects they may be, agreeably to the course adopted with the concurrence of this Durbar by the governments of Jeypore and Jodhpore.
- 4. The Durbar has agreed, at the request of the Chiefs, that, whenever any dispute may arise among them concerning boundary or other matters, a punchayet will assemble at the scene of dispute, consisting of four persons on the part of the Chiefs and one to be nominated by the Durbar. It will be their duty to enquire into and settle the dispute with justice and equity, and their decision to be binding on both parties.
- 5. This agreement has been entered into with the free will and pleasure of both parties and to be mutually observed. All the Chiefs shall continue to pay chuttoond and perform service with pleasure and satisfaction according to the Kaulnamah, and as in Maharana Juwan Singh's time; any instance of carelessness or departure from the terms of this agreement shall render the Chiefs liable to the displeasure of the Sree Durbar as set forth in the first Kaulnamah.

KAULNAMAH OF 1854.

For thirty-four years the Mabarana and bis Chiefs have been at variance The first has perpetually complained of disloyalty, the latter as often of tyranny

With no other motive than the peace of the country and the happiness of all ranks, the various representatives of the Supreme Government have been from time to time permitted to arbitrate between the parties

Several Kaulnamahs have been accordingly prepared, signed, and agreed to, yet all by each side have been continually broken

The Maharana's answer to the Chiefs' complaints of encroachment on their lands proves that he has not only encroached on their estates, but even established villages in them His Highness's treatment of Lawa also shows he has punished guilt with undue severity. On the other hand it is not denied that the Chiefs have been disobedient and many of them even rebellious.

Such conduct must cease on both sides, and as it is the desire of the Government of India that all subjects of Meywar should know that it will support the legitimate authority of the Maharana, so long as he acts justly and to their satisfaction and in accordance with the counsel and advice of the Political Agent the Government orders the promulgation and enforcement of the following. In future I shall use my utmost exertions in bringing into order the troublesome and refractory Bheels of my territory, and to prevent all complaints being made against them by the authorities of the neighbouring States. Should they attempt to resist my authority, and continue to follow their lawless practices, I will adopt such measures as may be available to inflict punishment on them, and cause compensation to be made for such outrages as they may commit. At the same time I engage to act agreeably to what is stated in the following articles:—

ARTICLE 2.

In order to enable me to be punctual in the discharge of the arrears of tribute due to Government, agreeably to the instalments hereafter specified, I will, to the best of my ability, make arrangements to reduce my personal expenses and those of my Government, so as to enable me to liquidate the amount due to Government as arrears of tribute.

ARTICLE 3.

Being unable to clear off the whole amount of arrears at once I have proposed the foregoing arrangement, which I hope will meet with your approval. At the same time I beg you will take into consideration and represent to Government the impoverished state of my country, and the reduced circumstances I am in at present, so that I may be relieved from the charge of interest, which I can by no means afford to pay.

The area of Jaipur is estimated at 15,579 square miles; and the population, by the census of 1901, is 2,658,666, including 1,032 Bhils. A large portion of the revenues of the State is alienated in jagirs and religious grants, but the available receipts are seventy lakhs of rupees. No local corps or contingents are paid from the resources of Jaipur. The military forces, excluding Imperial Service troops, consist (1905) of 629 artillery men, 166 serviceable and 115 unserviceable guns, 3,912 infantry, and 567 cavalry; there are 31 forts in the State. The Maharaja maintains an Imperial Service Transport Corps of a sanctioned strength of 600 carts, 840 men and 1,200 ponies.

The ordinary salute of the Maharaja of Jaipur is 17 guns, which was finally approved in Her Majesty's Order in Council of the 26th June 1867.

Kot-Putls (Khetri).

Suhordinate to the Maharaja of Jaipur are several petty Chiefs of Shaikhawati, one of whom, the Raja of Khetri, holds the pargana of Kot-Putli as a fief of the British Government. Kot-Putli was granted hy Lord Lake in 1803 to Raja Ahhai Singh of Khetri and his descendants in istimrar tenure, subject to an annual payment of Rs. 20,001 (No. XLV). In 1806 the pargana was made over absolutely to the Raja of Khetri as a free gift in perpetuity (No. XLVI). The conditions of the grant were the immediate payment of Rs. 40,000; the promise of allegiance to the British Government; the preservation of good government; and the promotion of the welfare of the inhabitants.

In order to put an end to the continued disorders in Khetri consequent on the contumacy and misconduct of the Rani, mother of the then Raja, the Jaipur troops entered Khetri in March 1857, and arrangements were made for the administration of the country through officials appointed by the Jaipur State. On the subsequent expulsion of these officials by the Rani the Jaipur troops attacked and took the fort of Kot-Putli. The Jaipur State was thereupon required by the British Government to withdraw its troops from Kot-Putli, and to restore that territory to the Raja of Khetri.

The Raja of Khetri, Fatch Singh, died in 1870, when the adoption of Ajit Singh, then ten years of age, was recognised by the British Government in so far as it affected the succession to the pargana of Kot-Putli.

At the request of the Raja a special survey and revenue settlement of Kot-Putli was made in 1889 by a British officer. On the expiry of this settlement a new one was made by the Darhar, with the concurrence of the Resident, and completed in August 1905.

Raja Ajit Singh Bahadur died on the 18th January 1901, and was succeeded by his son, Jai Singh, who was eight years of age, and who is being educated at the Mayo College, Ajmer. During his minority the estate is under the management of the Jaipur Darbar.

The revenue of Kot-Putli is about Rs. 1,00,000 a year; its approximate area is about 290 square miles; and its population, according to the census of 1901, is 52,388.

Mediation between the Chief and the Thakurs was also authorised, but the terms agreed upon were not to be guaranteed. The Maharaja meanwhile took up his residence at Ajmer, whither he was followed by his Chiefs, who agreed to leave the dispute to the arbitration of the Maharaja of Jodhpur, provided the decision received the guarantee of the British Government; but this guarantee was refused. The Chiefs then proclaimed the heir-apparent as Maharaja; laid siege to the town of Kishangarh; and were on the point of capturing it, when the Maharaja accepted the mediation of the Political Agent, through whom terms with the nobles were adjusted. The reconciliation with the nobles, however, was not sincere, and shortly afterwards Kalian Singh retired from Kishangarh and abdicated in favour of his son, Mokam Singh.

The next Chief, Prithi Singh, who had been adopted by Mokam Singh, succeeded in 1840. He received the right of adoption (see No. V) in 1862.

In 1867 the Chief was granted a sum of Rs. 20,000 a year as compensation for the loss of income his State was expected to suffer owing to the introduction of the railway (No. XLVIII).

In 1868 an extradition Treaty (No. XLIX) was concluded with the Kishangarh State for the mutual surrender of persons charged with certain specified offences. This was modified in 1887 by an Agreement (No. L) with the British Government, providing that in cases of extradition of offenders from British India to Kishangarh the procedure for the time heing in force in British India should be followed.

In 1873 the Thakur of Fatehgarh asserted his independence of the Maharaja, and refused to pay allegiance to him. The Maharaja solicited the help of the British Government, and the Thakur of Fatehgarh was warned that, in the event of his failing to comply with the legitimate demands of his feudal superior within six months, he would be coerced by force of arms; the submission of the Thakur rendered this unnecessary.

In a Treaty concluded in 1879 (No. LI) the Maharaja agreed to suppress the manufacture of salt throughout Kishangarh territory; to prohibit the import or consumption within the State of any but British dutypaid salt; and to abolish all transit duties and dues of any kind on all exports and imports. MEMORANDIIM.

The Maharaja of Jeypore having requested that something definite may he laid down as to the disposal of the salt necessarily evolved in the process of saltpetre manufacture the undersigned has the honour to explain that this is a matter which the British Government desire to leave to the discretion of His Highness.

The British Government would, however, suggest that the Maharaja of Jeypore should cause a duty to be levied on all such salt at the same rate as may at the time be levied on salt manufactured at the Sambhur Lake, and that the duty thus levied, less, say, to per cent for costs of collection, should he credited to the British Government If, however, the Maharaja of Jeypore preferred it, he could take possession of the salt and make it over to some official of the British Government at Sambhur or Kuchor-Rewasa; or he could cause it to he sold by auction on the spot, making over any surplus in excess of the duty to the producer.

The amount, however, is so small that, as I have already explained, the British Government would desire to leave the matter wholly in the hands of the Maharaja of Jeypore, and it was on this account that no mention of the matter was deemed necessary in the Agreement.

III,-WESTERN STATES AGENCY.*

(I) JODHPUR OR MARWAR.

The State of Jodhpur ranks among the first three States of Rapputana. It was founded in A D 1450 by Jodha, a reputed descendant of the Rathor Raiput Kings of Kanauj Jodlipur became tributary to the Emperor Akbar. The family gave several daughters in marriage to the Imperial family, and furnished some distinguished generals to the Imperial army. Ahout the beginning of last century Raja Ajit Singh hecame a party to the triple alliance with Udaipur and Jaipur to throw off the Muhammadan yoke It was one of the conditions of this alliance that the Chiefs of Japur and Jodhpur should regain the privilege of marriage with the Udaipur family, which they had forfeited by contracting matrimonial alliances with the emperors, on the understanding that the offspring of the princesses of Udaipur should succeed to the State in preference to all other children. The quarrels to which this stipu ation gave rise induced the aspirants to power to invoke the help of the Maratha leaders in support of their claims, and ultima elviled to the subjection of all the Rajput States to the Court of Poons Judhpur was conquered by Sindhia, who levied from it a tribute of sixty lakhs of rupees and took from it the fort and city of Aimer

At the commencement of the war of 1803 Man Singh had just been elected by the nobles to be Chief of Jodhpurafter a long struggle with his cousin Bhim Singh. The alliance of the British Government was offered to him and a Treaty (No. LIII) was concluded in 1803. But instead of ratifying it M. in Singh proposed another. In the meantime he had also given assistance to Holkar. The treaty was therefore formally concelled in May 1804, and Man Singh was left to his own resources. There after Jodhpur was runed by internal displaces from the succession of Dhinukal's nighter reputed son of bling in many and by a disastrous war with Jaipur and then the freebooter, Amir Khan, especied first the cruse of Jaipurand then of Jodhpur, terrified the Maharija into abdiction and pretended insanity assumed the management of the State himself for two years, and ended by plundering the treasury and leaving the country with its resources completely exhausted.

Chhatar Singh, the only son of the Maharaja, assumed the regency on the withdrawal of Amir Khan in 1817. With him negotiations were commenced at the outbreak of the Pindari war, and a Treaty (No. LIV) was concluded in January 1818, by which Jodhpur was taken under the protection of the British Government, to which Government the tribute payable to Sindhia was transferred, and the Maharaja engaged to furnish 1,500 horse for general service whenever required, and the whole forces of the Jodhpur State when necessary. Chhatar Singh died from the effects of dissipation shortly after the conclusion of the treaty, whereupon his father threw off the mask of insanity and resumed the administration.

In 1824 twenty-one villages in the parganas of Chang and Kot-Kirana in Merwara were made over (No. LV) to the British Government for eight years, with a view to bringing the lawless Minas and Mers into submission, the Maharaja agreeing to pay Rs. 15,000 a year towards the expenses of the local corps which was then raised (see Mewar Agency, Udaipur). The engagement was renewed (No. LVI) in 1835 for nine years, and seven additional villages were put under British administration. This lease expired in 1843. The Maharaja then resumed the seven villages, but expressed his readiness to leave the remaining twenty-one under the administration of the British Government for such time as might suit their convenience. But no definite arrangements were made; and on this unsatisfactory footing the administration of these villages remained until 1885, when the British Government and the Darbar agreed that Marwar should retain its sovereign rights in the villages and receive Rs. 3,000 a year for them, and if ever a net profit should be derived from them by Government, Marwar should receive 40 per cent. of it. On these conditions Government retains full and permanent administrative control over the villages (Kharita, dated 2nd August 1885, No. LVII).

The tract of Malani also was taken under the superintendence and control of the Resident, Jodhpur, in the year 1836, owing to the acknowledged inability of the Darbar to maintain order within its limits. It belongs to Jodhpur, but all its 450 villages, except one, are in the hands of Thakurs, who pay a fixed annual tribute of 10,013 Akhai Shahi rupees (about 10,000 British rupees), which, with other sources of revenue, has always been collected by the Resident and paid over to the Darbar. In 1891 the civil and revenue jurisdiction of Malani was re-transferred to the Darbar under certain specified conditions, the Resident retaining in his own hands the administration of criminal justice and police, and special arrangements being made for the management of the finances. This concession was made at the urgent request of the Maharaja, and in view of the improvement effected in recent years in the administration of the Jodhpur State. In 1898 the entire administration of the tract was handed over to the Darbar

By the 8th Article of the Treaty of 1818 the Jodhpur State was bound to furnish a contingent of 1,500 botse. Under this article a demand was made in 1832 for a force to co operate against freebooters who occupied Nagar Parkar The contingent failed in its duty and proved perfectly useless In 1835, therefore, the obligation to furnish the contingent was commuted (No LVIII) to an annual payment of Rs 1,15,000 towards the Jodhpur Legion, which was then raised The Legion mutinied in 1857 Its place is now supplied by the 43rd Erinpura Regiment, formerly styled the Erinpura Irregular force

Within a few months after his resumption of power Maharaja Man Singh put to death or imprisoned most of the Chiefs who, during his assumed imbecility, had shown any unfriendly feeling towards him Many of the other nobles fled from his tyrauny and found refuge in neighbouring States The exiled party appealed for aid to the British Government Aid was refused but an accommodation (No LIX) was effected in 1824 with the Maharaja through the mediation of the British Government In 1827 the recusant nobles assembled their followers, and putting the pretender Dhaukal Singh at their head, prepared to invade Jodhpur from the Jaipur territory By giving facilities for this attack on Jodbpur, the Jaipur State was considered to have violated its treaty engagements in such a manner as to justify the British Government in adopting any measures which might seem expedient, both for resenting the infraction of a positive engagement, and for preventing its mischievous effects. Strong remonstrances were, therefore, addressed to the Maharaja of Jaipur Although the attack on Jodhpur was headed by Marwar nobles, the Maharaja looked on it as a foreign aggression, and claimed protection under the Treaty of 1818 Dhaukal Singh was therefore called on by the British Government to retire from the confederacy withdrew to Jhajjar, and the Chiefs settled their differences among themselves At the same time Government declared that although it might perhaps be required to protect the Maharaja against unjust usurpation, or wanton but too powerful rebellion, there was no obligation to support him against universal disaffection and insurrection caused by his own injustice. incapacity, and misrule, the withdrawal of Amir Khan in 1817. With him negotiations were commenced at the outbreak of the Pindari war, and a Treaty (No. LIV) was concluded in January 1818, by which Jodhpur was taken under the protection of the British Government, to which Government the tribute payable to Sindhia was transferred, and the Maharaja engaged to furnish 1,500 horse for general service whenever required, and the whole forces of the Jodhpur State when necessary. Chhatar Singh died from the effects of dissipation shortly after the conclusion of the treaty, whereupon his father threw off the mask of insanity and resumed the administration.

In 1824 twenty-one villages in the parganas of Chang and Kot-Kirana in Merwara were made over (No. LV) to the British Government for eight years, with a view to bringing the lawless Minas and Mers into submission, the Maharaja agreeing to pay Rs. 15,000 a year towards the expenses of the local corps which was then raised (see Mewar Agency, Udaipur). The engagement was renewed (No. LVI) in 1835 for nine years, and seven additional villages were put under British administration. This lease expired in 1843. The Maharaja then resumed the seven villages, but expressed his readiness to leave the remaining twenty-one under the administration of the British Government for such time as might suit their convenience. definite arrangements were made; and on this unsatisfactory footing the administration of these villages remained until 1885, when the British Government and the Darbar agreed that Marwar should retain its sovereign rights in the villages and receive Rs. 3,000 a year for them, and if ever a net profit should be derived from them by Government, Marwar should receive 40 per cent. of it. On these conditions Government retains full and permanent administrative control over the villages (Kharita, dated 2nd August 1885, No. LVII).

The tract of Malani also was taken under the superintendence and control of the Resident, Jodhpur, in the year 1836, owing to the acknowledged inability of the Darbar to maintain order within its limits. It belongs to Jodhpur, but all its 450 villages, except one, are in the hands of Thakurs, who pay a fixed annual tribute of 10,013 Akhai Shahi rupees (about 10,000 British rupees), which, with other sources of revenue, has always been collected by the Resident and paid over to the Darbar. Within a few months after his resumption of power Maharaja Man Singh put to death or imprisoned most of the Chiefs who, during his assumed imbecility, had shown any unfriendly feeling towards him. Many of the other nobles fled from his tyranny and found refuge in neighbouring States The exiled party appealed for aid to the British Government refused, but an accommodation (No LIX) was effected in 1824 with the Maharaja through the mediation of the British Government In 1827 the recusant nobles assembled their followers, and putting the pretender Dhaukal Singh at their head, prepared to invade Jodhpur from the Jaipur territory By giving facilities for this attack on Jodhpur, the Jaipur State was considered to have violated its treaty engagements in such a manner as to justify the British Government in adopting any measures which might seem expedient. both for resenting the infraction of a positive engagement, and for preventing its mischievous effects Strong remonstrances were, therefore, addressed to the Maharaja of Jaipur Although the attack on Jodhpur was headed by Marwar nobles, the Maharaja looked on it as a foreign aggression, and claimed protection under the Treaty of 1818 Dhaukal S ngh was therefore called on by the British Government to retire from the confederacy He withdrew to Jhajiar and the Chiefs settled their differences among themselves At the same time Government declared that although it might perhaps be required to protect the Maharaja against unjust usurpation, or wanton but too powerful rebellion, there was no obligation to support him against universal disaffection and insurrection caused by his own injustice, incapacity, and misrule,

In 1839, in consequence of disputes with the nobles and the subjection of the Maharaja to priestly influence, the misgovernment of Jodhpur was such that the British Government was compelled to interfere. A force was marched to Jodhpur, of which it held military occupation for five months, and in 1839 Man Singh executed an Engagement (No. LX) to ensure future good government. The engagement was not binding on his successors.

Man Singh died on the 5th September 1843 without sons of his body and without adopting a son. The succession lay between the Chiefs of Idar and Ahmadnagar in the Bombay Presidency, Idar being the nearest of kin. It was left to the widows, the nobles, and the State officials interested to select the Chief whom they should desire to rule over them. Their choice fell on Takht Singh of Ahmadnagar, whom with his son Jaswant Singh they invited to Jodhpur. At this time Dhaukal Singh, the suppositious son of Bhim Singh, revived his claims, but they were set aside.

On his removal to Jodhpur Takht Singh left his son, Jaswant Singh, at Ahmadnagar and claimed the right to retain Ahmadnagar in his family, on the ground that the former ruler, Prithi Singh, had adopted Jaswant Singh and he, Takht Singh, had only been regent and not actual ruler of Ahmadnagar. Inquiry, however, proved that for two years Takht Singh had been, and had been recognised as, the ruler of Ahmadnagar, and that by the customs of Rajputana and Gujarat, and by Hindu law, the right of succession of his family in Ahmadnagar was cancelled by his acceptance of power in Jodhpur. It was therefore decided in 1848 that Ahmadnagar should lapse to Idar from which State it had been severed in 1784, and that Takht Singh should remove his family from Ahmadnagar and abstain from all interference in its affairs.

By the treaty of 1818 (No. LIV) the tribute due from the Jodhpur State was Rs. 1,08,000, but in 1847 this was reduced to Rs. 98,000 in consideration of the cession (No. LXI) to the British Government of the rights of Jodhpur to the district and fort of Umarkot. This district fell to the possession of Jodhpur in 1780, but it was wrested from that State in 1813, by the Talpur Amirs of Sind. After the conquest of Sind the British Government promised to restore it to the Maharaja. But as the fort of Umarkot was a valuable frontier post, and the district could not be controlled by Jodhpur, it was considered best for the British Government to retain possession of it, and to give to Jodhpur a money compensation in the shape of remission of trioute.

Maharaja Takht Singh did good service during the mutinies, and in 1862 he was guaranteed the right of adoption (see No V), but under his rule the affairs of Marwar fell into the utmost confusion From the time of his accession to power he never relaxed his endeavours to resume the villages which his predecessor had been compelled to restore in 1839. His unjust confiscations and exactions led to constant disputes with his nobles, which terminated in 18 8 in open hostilities between the parties principal nobles solicited the intervention of the British Government Accordingly, while the nobles were given to understand that the interference of Government, if found necessary, would be carried out in a manner calculated to bear down all opposition, the Maharma was informed that unless he consented within a given period, to be guided by the advice of the British . authorities, he would be deprived of all authority for the rest of his life Under these circumstances the Maharaja signed an Agreement in 1868 (No LXII), by which he appointed a ministry to conduct the affairs of the country, and placed at their disposal fifteen lakhs of rupees for public expenditure He also agreed to manage all the State villages through the ministers, to place under them the whole civil and criminal administration of the State, and to restrict his private expenditure to a certain sum Provision was made for the maintenance of the eldest and other sons of the Maharaja, who also bound himself to abide by the decision of Government in regard both to the succession tax to be levied from the nobles, and to the disputes between the Maharaja and certain of their number This agreement was to remain in force for four years unless a continuance of misrule should compel the British Government to interfere actively.

In conformity with the terms of Article 9 of this agreement certain rules for determining the levy of succession tax (hukmnama) were accepted in 1869 by the Maharaja, who notified his adherence to them by proclamation, and ordered their adoption throughout his territories. The territorial disputes between the Maharaja and the leading nobles, and differences with minor feudatories, involving the proprietorship of nearly 250 villages, were temporarily adjusted by the Political Agent on the basis of actual possession at the time of Maharaja Takht Singb's accession to power. The Maharaja endeavoured on various pretexts to evade the fulfilment of bis promises, but eventually appointed a committee to adjudicate on the respective claims: as, however, the scope of the enquiry excluded many villages in dispute, the measure was only partially successful in allaying the discontent. Under Article 8 of the agreement of 1868, the pargana of Godwar, estimated to yield a revenue of one lakh of rupees per annum, was set aside for the maintenance of Jaswant Singh, the eldest son of the Maharaja.

In 1866 the Maharaja agreed (No. LXIII) to cede lands for railway purposes. All rights, short of sovereignty rights, were yielded to the British Government in such lands. Duty was relinquished on all goods passing through the State without breaking bulk.

In 1868 an extradition Treaty (No. LXIV) was concluded with the Jodhpur State. This was modified in 1887 by an Agreement (No. LXV), which provided that in the extradition of offenders from British India to Jodhpur the procedure for the time being in force in British India should be followed.

In 1869 the Maharaja entered into an Agreement (No. LXVI) with the British Government in connection with the construction of an Imperial road running through the Marwar State.

In 1870 a Treaty (No. LXVII) was concluded with Maharaja Takht Singh, for the lease of the Jodhpur share of the joint jurisdiction possessed by it and Jaipur of the salt manufactured at Sambhar. The terms of the lease were a payment of Rs. 1,25,000 per annum, with a royalty of 20 per cent, on the amount of all sales beyond $8\frac{1}{4}$ lakes of maunds of salt per annum; the annual supply of 7,000 maunds of salt, free of all charges, for the use of the Darbar; and the abolition of transit duty on salt manufactured by the British Government. A second Treaty (No. LXVIII) was signed in April of the same year, by which the Jodhpur State agreed to lease to the British Government the Nawa and Gudha salt marts, which are also situated on the Sambhar Lake, at a rent of Rs. 3,00,000 per annum, with a royalty of 40 per cent. on sales in excess of 900,000 maunds of salt per annum. There were similar conditions as in the former treaty, as to the free supply of 7,000 maunds of salt a year, and the non-levy of transit duties. In 1879 an Agreement (No. LXIX) was concluded with Maharaja Jaswant Singh for the lease to the British Government of the four principal Daribas or salt sources of Marwar, all other salt sources being suppressed, with the exception of two, whose annual out-turn was to be limited to 20,000

In May 1884 an agreement was concluded between the Rajputana-Malwa Railway and the Jodhpur Railway for interchange of traffic at Jodhpur Junction; it was subsequently slightly modified in October 1901.

In 1884 the civil and criminal powers of the principal jagirdars were regulated and defined by mutual agreement. Under the scheme there are three grades of powers—the highest giving power to imprison for 6 months and to fine up to Rs. 300, with jurisdiction in civil suits up to Rs. 1,000. The Courts throughout the State have been re-organised, and the system of farming out the land revenue to contractors has been abolished. The settlement of village boundaries was completed in 1905. The border with Mewar has been defined throughout, and the demarcation of that with Jaisalmer has been recently completed. A Forest Department has been constituted. The Public Works Department of the State bas been placed under a European engineer. The actual length of railway line in Marwar belonging to the State 18463'89 miles and further extensions have been proposed.

In 1886 transit duties were partially, and in 1890 entirely, abolished. The customs system was entirely reformed in 1882 and 1883.

In 1889 an Agreement (No. LXX) was concluded with the Darbar for the construction of a railway between Jodhpur and Bikaner at the joint expense of the two States. Clause 10 of this was supplemented in 1890 by a short subsidiary Agreement (No. LXXI). In 1895 the Jodhpur-Bikaner Railway and the Bombay, Baroda and Central India Railway made an Agreement for the interchange of coaching and goods traffic at Kuchawan Road Station, and rolling stock viā Kuchawan Road, and for joint working at that station. In 1903 and 1904 some modifications were made in the agreement.

Maharaja Jaswant Singh died on the 11th October 1895 at the age of 57. He was succeeded by his only son, Maharaja Sardar Singh, who was born in February 1880. During his minority the administration was carried on by his uncle Maharaj Dhiraj Sir Pratap Singh as Musahib Ala. Sir Pratap Singh had been made a Knight Commander of the Star of India in 1886, and an Honorary Lieutenant-Colonel in the British Army on the 21st June 1887, and in 1898 an Honorary Colonel in the British Army and an Honorary Companion of the Most Honourable Order of the Bath for his services as Extra Aide-de-Camp during the operations on the North-West Frontier. In 1902 he succeeded to the Idar Gadi.

Maharaja Sardar Singh was invested with ruling powers on the 18th February 1898. In 1901 he proceeded to Europe for the benefit of his health, the administration of the State being carried on by the Council under the Resident's supervision, and in 1902 he joined the Imperial Cadet Corps for 18 months. In 1903 he was deprived temporarily of his powers owing to his unsatisfactory conduct, and the administration of his State was placed under the Mehkma Khas, acting under the general supervision of the Resident; but in November 1905 the Maharaja was allowed to return to the State and restricted powers were restored to him.

An extradition Treaty (No. LXXVIII) was concluded with the Jaisalmer State in 1870, but this was modified by the Agreement of 1887 (No. LXXIX), which provided that in the extradition of offenders from British India to Jaisalmer the procedure for the time being in force in British India should be followed. In 1891 rules for facilitating the extradition of offenders between the States of Bikaner and Jaisalmer were introduced with the approval of the Government of India.

In 1879 an Agreement (No. LXXX) was concluded with the State, providing for the abolition of all dues upon British duty-paid salt. By this engagement the Darbar also undertook to prevent the export of Jaisalmer salt from the State, and to limit the local manufacture of it to 15,000 maunds a year for local consumption.

In April 1903 rules, similar to those adopted in 1891 between the States of Jaisalmer and Bikaner, were introduced regarding the extradition of offenders between Jaisalmer and Marwar.

The area of Jaisalmer is 16,062 square miles; the population, according to the census of 1901, is 73,370, including 1,551 Bhils; and the revenue, excluding alienations, amounts to about Rs. 1,00,000. (III.) SIROHI.

The ruling family of Sirohi are Deora Rajputs and belong to the junior branch of the Chohans of Sambbur and Ajmer. They are said to be descended from Prithi Raj, the Choban King of Delhi. The reputed founder of the Sirohi house was Deoraj, the first of the Deora clan of Rajputs who lived in the thirteenth century. The present capital Sirohi was built in

The weakness of the Sirohi State rendered it necessary for the British Agent to exercise at first an unusual interference in its internal affairs. Many of the Thakurs were in rebellion supported by the wild Minas of the bills. To enable the Rao to keep up a force to be employed in preserving order a loan of half a lakh of rupees without interest was made to him, for order a loan of half a lakh of rupees without interest was made to him, for the repayment of which he mortgaged (No. LXXXII) three-fourths of his customs duties. One of the most refractory of the nobles was the Thakur of Nimbaj, with whom, after the Minas had been reduced by a British force, an Engagement (No. LXXXIII) was mediated by the Political Agent in 1824, an Engagement (No. LXXXIII) was mediated by the Political Agent in 1824, an Engagement (No. LXXXIII) was mediated by the Political Agent in 1824, those of Bhatana, Garwal, Momal, Madar, Patwura, and Jilwara, had transtered their allegiance to Palanpur, a State under the Bombay Government of Wimbai, and the Rao of Sirohi claimed their restoration, but it was decided that all should remain under Palanpur, except the Thakura of Madar and Jilwara, abould remain under Palanpur, except the Thakura of Madar and Jilwara, whose allegiance had not been transferred to Palanpur till after the year A. D. 1817.

In 1854, at the earnest request of the Rao (No. LXXXIV), with a view to the liquidation of bis dehts, theo amounting to about two lakhs of rupees, the State was taken under the direct management of the British Government for a period of eight years, or such longer time as might be necessary. In coosequence of the incapacity of the Rao the general control of affairs was in 1861 made over to his son, Umed Singh, the old Rao retaining the dignities and honors of office. He died shortly after, and was succeeded by Umed Singh. The three hrothers of the young Rao declined the provision which was made for them hefore their father's death, and went into rebellion; but they afterwards tendered their submission and accepted a provision in land.

Rao Sheo Singh did good service in the mulinies of 1857, in consideration of which he received a remission of half his tribute, which had heen fixed at Bhilari Rupees 15,000 or Government Rupees 13,762-8-0. The Sirohi tribute is therefore now only Bhilari Rupees 7,500 or Government Rupees 5,881-4-0. He also received, in 1862, the right of adoption (see No. V).

Rao Umed Singh was entrusted with the management of his State in 1865. Owing to his weakness of character, combined with apathy and superstition, the affairs of the State very soon fell into confusion, and the disorganization was increased by the proceedings of the outlawed Thakur of Bhatana, who resisted all offers of mediation and successfully evaded the pursuit of both British and Sirohi forces. In 1860 the Rao of Sirohi intimated his wish to make over the management of his State for a term of eight years, in order that it might he extricated from its pecuniary emharrassments. The negotiations, however, fell through, chiefly because the Rao would not agree to the continuance of British management for twelve years, although that was the shortest period within which it was calculated the State could he relieved of its difficulties, and because he was dissatisfied with a proposal to restrict his personal allowances. It hecame necessary therefore to require the Rao to carry out the necessary reforms, and he was warned that, in the event of his proving obstructive or apathetic, such measures of direct interference as might he necessary would be resorted to. This warning had the desired effect, and the Rao took steps to reduce his expenditure and discharge the liabilities of the State.

As a means of putting an end to the brigandage which prevailed in Sirohi, the Political Superintendency of the State was transferred from an Assistant to the Agent to the Governor-General to the Commandant of the Erinpura Irregular Force; and he was authorised to station temporarily small detachments of the force at Sirohi so as to relieve a portion of the Rao's police for service in the outlying districts; the direct interf rence, of the force, at the State were cleutly unable to cope. The measures adopted by the however, was not to be called in except in emergencies with which the police. Political Superintendent for the extermination of brigandage on the Sirohi, wewar and Marwar frontiers were temporarily successful; but a fresh outbreak in 18,9 which continued for about three years, led to the Erinpura Force being employed in the suppression and arrest of dakaits. Since then Force being employed in the suppression and arrest of dakaits. Since then the country has been firtly orderly, the most troublesome boundary cases have been a tile!, and the cus one system has been reformed.

Rao Umed Singh died in Soptember 1875, and his son, Kesri Singh, was recognised as his successor.

Rao Sheo Singh made over to the British Government in 1845 some lands on Mount Abu for the establishment of a sanitarium. The grant was fettered by several conditions (No. LXXXV), one of which nas that no kine should be killed. The Chief has on several occasions been requested to cancel this condition, but has always refused. In 1865 and 1867 the Rao Consented (Nos. LXXXVI and LXXXVII) to the extension of certain Acts to Gonernted (Nos. LXXXVI and LXXXVIII) to the extension of certain Acts to proper to delegate to him. Since 1870 these powers in Mount Abu have proper to delegate to him. Since 1870 these powers in Mount Abu have secretised by an Assistant to the Agent to the Governor-General. In accordance with arrangements made with the Rao of Sirohi the Government of India in 1884 issued a Notification declaring certain Acts to be in force in Abu and Anadra (including the road leading to the Abu Road Railway Station, and to the Bazar at Kharari), and defined the civil and criminal jurisdiction to be exercised within those limits.

The Rao also agreed to give lands for railway purposes'free of cost; to transit duties on goods carried through his territory. No formal agreement transit duties on goods carried through his territory. No formal agreement

On the completion of the railway line between Ajmer and Ahmadabad in 1880 the Government of India granted (No. LXXXVIII) an annual compensation of Rs. 10,000 to the Sirohi Darbar for loss of transit duties. But this concession was withdrawn in May 1886, on the Resident's showing that the State had not suffered from the opening of the railway. The remaining transit dues levied by the Sirohi Darbar were relinquished in April 1886, an example which the Thakurs of the State were soon induced to follow with regard to certain dues which they had the right to levy No transit dues are now levied in Sirohi, except a duty of rupees five per maind levied by the Darbar on opium.

In 1857 an extradition Treaty (No. LXXXIX) was concluded with Sirohi, but this was modified by the Agreement of 1887 (No. XC), which provided that in the extradition of offenders from British India to Sirohi the procedure for the time being in force in British India should be followed.

In 1879 an Agreement (No XCI) was concluded with the Darbar providing for the suppression of the manufacture of salt within the State, the prevention of the export or import of any salt other than that which has paid British duty, and for the abultion of transit dues on salt. In return for this the Rao was to receive an annual payment of Rs. 1,800, and was allowed to purchase annually at half-duty rates, for the consumption of the people of the State, 13,000 maunds of salt. This arrunt was increased in 1882 to 18000 maunds (No. XCII). In 1884 a cash payment of Rs. 9,000 a year was substituted for the half duty salt on condition that the Rao freed the salt trade in the State from all imposts of every description (No. XCIII).

In 1879 the political charge of Sirohi was amalgamated with the command of the Erinjura Trregular Force and the Political Agency for Jodhpur and Jasalmer But in 1841 it was decided to revive the Western Rajputana Agency consisting only of the folice I Agency of Jodhpur and Jasalmer and the Political Superintendency of Sirohi

On the 1st January 1889 the side of Mahario was conforced on Kesri Singh as a hereaftary distinction—the was creat doa Knight Commander of the Star of India in 1895, and a Knight Grant Commander of the Indian Empire in 1901—His only surviving so 1 is Sarup Singh, who was born in 1888.

In August 1903 measures for the conversion of the State Silver coin into British rupees were sinctioned.

The area of Sirobi is 1 964 square miles, and the population, according to the census of 1901, was 154,544, including 10,372 Bhils The annual revenue amounts to about 34 lakhs of rupees. The military forces consist (1905) of 5 serviceable and 3 unserviceable guns, 5 artillery men, 77 cavalry and 705 infantry, mostly irregulars.

The Chief is entitled to a salute of 15 guns, which was finally approved in Her Majesty's Order in Council, dated the a6th June 1867.

Arrangement with Jodhpur regarding Marwar-Merwara-1885.

From HIS EXCELLENCY the VICEROY and GOVERNOR GENERAL of INDIA to HIS HIGHNESS RAJ RAJESHWAR MAHARAJ ADHIRAJ JASWANT SINGH BAHADUR, G.C.S.I., JODHPORE, —dated Simla, and August 1885.

MY HONORED AND VALUEO FRIEND,

Towards the end of last year my Agent in Rajputana represented to me that the debt due from Your Highness's State to the British Government on account of the Merwara Battalion had been liquidated by the 31st March 1884, and that an opportunity offered itself of settling in a satisfactory manner the tenure on which the British Government administers the district of Marwar-Merwara. I approved of certain terms of settlement which had been suggested by Sir Edward Bradford, and I authorised him to ascertain Your Highness's wishes on the subject. In reply I have received a copy of a communication addressed under Your Highness's orders on the 1st May 1885, to the Resident in the Western States of Rajputana I understand from this letter that Your Highness is willing to leave Marwar-Merwara to the permanent occupation and full administrative control of the British Government, subject to the following conditions, namely—

- (i) that the sovereign rights of the Marwar State over the tract shall be fully recognised by the British Government,
- (2) that the surplus revenue of the tract accumulated from past years, and now in the possession of the British Government, shall be handed over to the Marwar State.
- (3) that the Marwar State shall in future receive an annual payment from the British Government of three thousand rupees on account of the revenue of the tract, without regard to the amount actually realised from the villages by the British Government;
- (4) that if hereafter the annual revenue derived by the British Government from the villages more than covers the stipulated payment of three thousand rupees, and the cost of management and any charges for improvements specially sanctioned by the Government of India, a share of the net surplus amounting to forty per centum shall be paid to the Marwar State under the name of 'Royalty.'

TRANSLATION of a KHUREBTA from HIS HIGHNESS the MAHA-RAJA OI JODHPOOR, G. C. S. I., to the address of the AGENT to the GOVERNOR GENERAL for the STATES of RAJPOOTANA, dated the 19th July 1866.

I have had the pleasure to receive and understand your khureeta of the 19th February last to this effect, that Government considers the stipulations contained in my former letter to amount to a virtual refusal by this Durbar to have a Railway. I wish you to know that I never wished to disapprove of the Railway; indeed, I feel how many benefits it will confer on Marwar. What I first wrote regarding the loss of customs duties was founded on this that very little foreign goods are expended in Marwar, and that, besides salt, there is no other export of importance produced in Marwar, therefore the chief income of this State is derived from transit dues on articles which pass through it (i.e., without breaking bulk), and from the loss of this item my revenue will certainly suffer heavily. Still in deference to your address to me, to the wishes of the British Government, and to the benefit of all my subjects, I accede to the Railway passing through Marwar on the following conditions:—

ARTICLE 1.

Ground averaging 200 feet in area will be granted free for the line or stations, whatever loss is incurred by villages, wells, or gardens in this land will be borne by this Durbar.

ARTICLE 2.

ik 90

In this land the proprietary right will remain with this Durbar, all other rights will be yielded to the British Government, but no criminal of this State can take refuge in this land, any refugee in this land is to be surrendered to the officials of this State. Any criminal, being a resident of another State, taking refuge in this State, to be surrendered to and dealt with by the Political Agent of this State,

ARTICLE 3.

All goods passing through the State without breaking bulk will pass or goods laden in Marwar, or goods laden in Marwar, and proceeding beyond it, will be liable to pay duty to this State.

ARTICLE 4.

As timber is scarce in Marwar wood cannot be supplied from it for the Railway passing through it.

Whenever a line of rail passing through Marwar may be decided on, every possible aid will be given towards its construction.

IV—HARAOTI AND TONK AGENCY.* (1.)—BUNDI

The ruling family of Bundi belong to the Hara tribe of Rajputs. The first Chief with whom the British Government had any intercourse was Umeda (or Umed Singh), who gave most efficient assistance to Colonel Monson's army in its retreat before Holkar in 1804, and brought down on himself the vengeance of Holkar, he died in 1804 after a rule of upwards of fifty years, and was succeeded by his infant son, Bishan Singh During the Maratha supremacy this State suffered much at the hands of Sindhia and Holkar, who virtually assumed the management of its revenues

The territory of Bundi was so situated as to be of great importance during the war in 1817 in cutting off the flight of the Pindaris Maharao Raja Bishan Singh early accepted the British alliance, and a Treaty (No XCIV) was concluded with him on the 10th February 1818 Although his forces were inconsiderable he co operated heartily with the British Govern-It was this connection with the British Government that raised Bunds from the lamentable condition to which it had been reduced by the Marathas By the Treaty of 1818 the tribute paid to Holkar and the lands in Bundi held by Holkar were relinquished to the Maharao Raja, who engaged to pay to the British Government the share of tribute he had hitherto paid to Sindhia The tribute was fixed at Rs 80 000, of which half was on account of two thirds of the pargana of Patan held by Sindhia, the remaining one third of the pargana which had been held by Holkar was restored to Bundi under Article 4 of the Freaty It had been the intention of Government to restore to Bundi the territories usurped by Sindhia as well as by Holkar and under the belief that the two thirds of Patan had been so usurped these districts were entered in the schedule of the Treaty lt was not known at the time that the whole pargana of Patan had been ceded to the Peshwa during the ministry of Nana Farnavis for assistance rendered in expelling an usurper from Bundi, and that the Peshwa had conferred twothirds of it on Sindhia and the rest on Holkar The real state of the case, however, was afterwards discovered, and the tribute of Rs 40,000 on account of the two-thirds of Patan was never exacted from Bundi As compensation to Holkar for the share of Patan of which he was deprived an annual payment of Rs 30,000 is made to him by the British Government In 1844 Sindhia transferred to the British Government the twothirds of Patan as part of the territories ceded in trust for the support of the contingent; the Chief of Bundi thereupon revived the question of its cession to him. Sindhia was unwilling to give up the suzerainty, but in 1847 an Agreement (No. XCV) was effected with the consent of the Gwalior Darbar, by which the district was made over in perpetuity to Bundi on payment of Rs. 80,000 a year to be credited to the Gwalior Darbar. Under the Treaty of 1860 with Sindhia the sovereignty of the two-thirds of Patan was transferred to the British Government, so that Bundi now holds the district as a perpetual fief from the British Government, subject to a payment of Rs. 80,000 in addition to the tribute of Rs. 40,000 payable under the Treaty of 1818 as the "chauth of Bundi and other places." The whole sum of Rs. 1,20,000 is now realised at the same time.

Bishan Singh died on 14th July 1821, and was succeeded by his son, Ram Singh, who was then about eleven years of age. During the long minority which ensued the British Government had on more than one occasion to interfere in the internal administration of the State. Maharao Raja Ram Singh's attitude towards the British Government during the mutinies of 1857 was one of apathy and lukewarmness, which, in the case of the rising of the Raj troops at Kotah, amounted almost to an open support of the rebels' cause. This was due in some measure to the fact that the Chief was not on good terms with the Maharao of Kotah.

In 1862 the Chief was guaranteed the right of adoption (see No. V).

In 1869 an extradition Treaty (No. XCVI) providing for the mutual surrender of persons charged with certain specified offences was concluded with the Bundi State. But this was modified by the Agreement (No. XCVII) of 1888, by which it was arranged that in cases of the extradition of offenders from British India to Bundi the procedure for the time being in force in British India should be followed.

The Chief was created a Knight Grand Commander of the Star of India and a Councillor of the Empress of India on the 1st January 1877, and a Companion of the Indian Empire in 1878.

In 1882 an Agreement (No. XCVIII) was made for the suppression of the manufacture of salt in the State; the prevention of the import and export of any salt excepting that on which duty has been levied by the British Government; and the abolition of all and any kind of duties thereon. In return the British Government undertook to pay the Maharao Raja Rs. 8,000 annually.

Mabarao Raja Ram Singh died on the 28th March 1889, and was succeeded by his eldest son, Maharaj Kuowar Ragbubir Singh, who was born on the 27th September 1869. Maharao Raja Raghubir Singh was invested with full governing powers on the 9th January 1890, and was created a Knight Commander of the Indian Empire in 1894, a Knight Commander of the Star of India in 1897, and a Knight Grand Commander of the Indian Empire in 1901. His only son died at the age of nine years in March 1899. His brother, Maharaj Raghu Raj Singh, who died in December 1905, has left a son, born in 1893.

In 1905 the Chief agreed to code lands for railway purposes for the construction and working of the Nagda-Muttra Railway passing through his territories.

The area of Bundi is about 2,220 square miles; the population, according to the ceosus of 1901, is 171,227, including 2,787 Bbils; and the annual tevenue averages nearly Rs. 7,00,000. The military force of the State, excluding Jagirdars and irregular troops which amount to about 400, coosists (1905) of 100 cavalry, 200 infantry, 50 artillery men, 48 serviceable and 19 unserviceable guns and 636 armed police. Bundi pays no contribution to any local corps or contingeot.

The Chief receives a salute of 17 guns, which was finally approved in Her Majesty's Order in Council of the 26th June 1867.

(II.)-TONK.

The present Nawab is the great-grandson of the famous predatory leader Amir Khan, the companion in arms of Jaswant Rao Holkar, who played a most conspicuous part io all the distractions which preceded the British settlemeot of Malwa. Amir Khan was by connection, habit, and disposition essentially a Pindari. On the cotrance of the British into Malwa he made overtures to be admitted to protection, but the conditions he proposed were too extravagant to be acceded to. He was, however, offered a guarantee of all the lands he held under grants from Holkar and the protection of the British Government, on condition of his abandoning the predatory system, dismissing his army, surrendering his artillery, with the exception of forty guns, to the British at a valuation and furnishing a body of troops to co-operate with the British force. It was deemed both just and expedient that the price of reclaiming Amir Khan from his predatory habits of life should be paid by the Holkar State, whose weak

the contingent; the Chief of Bundi thereupon revived the question of its cession to him. Sindhia was unwilling to give up the suzerainty, but in 1847 an Agreement (No. XCV) was effected with the consent of the Gwalior Darbar, by which the district was made over in perpetuity to Bundi on payment of Rs. 80,000 a year to be credited to the Gwalior Darbar. Under the Treaty of 1860 with Sindhia the sovereignty of the two-thirds of Patan was transferred to the British Government, so that Bundi now holds the district as a perpetual fief from the British Government, subject to a payment of Rs. 80,000 in addition to the tribute of Rs. 40,000 payable under the Treaty of 1818 as the "chauth of Bundi and other places." The whole sum of Rs. 1,20,000 is now realised at the same time.

Bishan Singh died on 14th July 1821, and was succeeded by his son, Ram Singh, who was then about eleven years of age. During the long minority which ensued the British Government had on more than one occasion to interfere in the internal administration of the State. Maharao Raja Ram Singh's attitude towards the British Government during the mutinies of 1857 was one of apathy and lukewarmness, which, in the case of the rising of the Raj troops at Kotah, amounted almost to an open support of the rebels' cause. This was due in some measure to the fact that the Chief was not on good terms with the Maharao of Kotah.

In 1862 the Chief was guaranteed the right of adoption (see No. V).

In 1869 an extradition Treaty (No. XCVI) providing for the mutual surrender of persons charged with certain specified offences was concluded with the Bundi State. But this was modified by the Agreement (No. XCVII) of 1888, by which it was arranged that in cases of the extradition of offenders from British India to Bundi the procedure for the time being in force in British India should be followed.

The Chief was created a Knight Grand Commander of the Star of India and a Councillor of the Empress of India on the 1st January 1877, and a Companion of the Indian Empire in 1878.

In 1882 an Agreement (No. XCVIII) was made for the suppression of the manufacture of salt in the State; the prevention of the import and export of any salt excepting that on which duty has been levied by the British Government; and the abolition of all and any kind of duties thereon. In return the British Government undertook to pay the Maharao Raja Rs. 8,000 annually.

Maharao Raja Ram Singh died oo the 28th March 1889, and was succeeded by his eldest son, Maharaj Kuowar Ragbubir Singh, who was born on the 27th September 1869. Maharao Raja Raghubir Singh was invested with full governing powers on the 9th January 1890, and was created a Knight Commander of the Indiao Empire in 1894, a Knight Commander of the Star of India in 1897, and a Knight Grand Commander of the Indian Empire in 1901. His only son died at the age of nine years in March 1899. His brother, Maharaj Raghu Raj Singh, who died in December 1905, has left a son, born in 1893.

In 1905 the Chief agreed to cede lands for railway purposes for the construction and working of the Nagda-Muttra Railway passing through his territories.

The area of Bundi is ahout 2,220 square miles; the population, according to the census of 1901, is 171,227, including 2,787 Bhils; and the annual revenue averages nearly Rs. 7,00,000. The military force of the State, excluding Jagirdars and irregular troops which amount to about 400, consists (1905) of 100 cavalry, 200 infantry, 50 artillery men, 48 serviceable and 19 unserviceable guns and 636 armed police. Bundi pays no contribution to any local corps or cootingeot.

The Chief receives a salute of 17 gons, which was finally approved in Her Majesty's Order in Council of the 26th June 1867.

(II.)-TONK.

The present Nawab is the great-grandson of the famous predatory leader Amir Khan, the companion in arms of Jaswant Rao Holkar, who played a most conspicuous part in all the distractions which preceded the British settlement of Malwa. Amir Khan was by connection, habit, and disposition essentially a Pındari. Oo the entrance of the British into Malwa he made overtures to be admitted to protection, but the conditions he proposed were too extravagant to be acceded to. He was, however, offered a guarantee of all the lands he held under grants from Holkar and the protection of the British Government, on condition of his abandoning the predatory system, dismissing his army, surrendering his artillery, with the exception of forty guns, to the British at a valuation and furnishing a body of troops to co-operate with the British force. It was deemed both just and expedient that the price of reclaiming Amir Khan from his predatory habits of life should be paid by the Holkar State, whose weak and dishonest course of policy had raised him to his actual power. The request of Amir Khan to be confirmed in lands similarly obtained from different Rajput States under every circumstance of violence and extortion was positively rejected. To the terms offered him, Amir Khan agreed, and they were embodied in a Treaty (No. XCIX) in November 1817. To the territories thus guaranteed the fort and district of Rampura were added by the British Government as a free gift; and a loan of three lakhs of rupees, afterwards converted into a gift, was made to him. The district of Palwal was also conferred on his son in jagir for life. In lieu of the revenue of this district, which it was found inconvenient to make over to the management of the Nawab's son, a monthly stipend of Rs. 12,500 was assigned.

Amir Khan died in 1834, and was succeeded by his son, Wazir Muhammad Khan. Wazir Muhammad Khan did good service during the mutinies; and in May 1862 he received a Sanad (No. C) guaranteeing the succession to his family according to Muhammadan law in the event of the failure of natural heirs. Wazir Muhammad Khan died in 1864, and was succeeded by his son, Muhammad Ali Khan.

In 1866 the Nawab agreed to cede lands for railway purposes, but no formal engagement was concluded.

Muhammad Ali Khan was deposed in November 1867 by the British Government, by a Proclamation (No. CI), as a punishment for his complicity in the attack on the uncle and followers of his tributary, the Thakur of Lawa.* As a further mark of displeasure the salute of the Ruler of Tonk was reduced from seventeen to eleven guns, while the number of mercenary troops maintained by the State was reduced, and it was prohibited from raising any such levies in future. Nawab Muhammad Ali Khan was placed under surveillance at Benares, and an annual allowance of Rs. 60,000 was assigned for his support out of the revenues of the Tonk State. Hakim Sarwar Shah, a Tonk official who had taken an active part in the murder, was sent as a State prisoner to Chunar. The arrangement made respecting the Bhum rights held by the Lawa Chief within the Tonk territory is described in the account of Lawa (Jaipur Agency).

Muhammad Ibrahim Ali Khan, the ex-Nawab's son, who was born on the 8th November 1849, was placed on the masnad in 1867, and the State was administered by Ibadulla Khan, eldest surviving son of Nawab Amir ^{*} See Lawa supra, Jaipur Agency.

Khan, assisted by a Council of Regency and controlled by the authority of a British officer specially deputed to Tonk

In 1869 an extradition Treaty (No CII) was concluded with the Tonk State for the mutual surrender of criminals, but this freaty was modified by an Agreement (No CIII) settled in 1887, which provided that in cases of the extradition of offenders from British India to Ionk the procedure for the time being in force in British India should be followed Nawab Muhammad Ibrahın Alı Khan was entrusted with the management of his State in 1870 subject during the first year to the presence of a British officer. The original salute of seventeen guns was re-granted to him for life only on the occasion of the Delhi Darbar held on the 1st January 1877, but it was permauently restored to the State in 1878.

In 1882 an Agreement (No CIV) was entered into with the Tonk State for the suppression of the manufacture of salt, the prevention of the import or export or consumption of any salt except, that on which British duty had been levied, and for the abolition of all dues thereon. In return for this the British Government agreed to pay the Nawab Rs. 20,000 annually

Nawab Muhammad Ibrahim Ali Khan attended His Royal Highiness the Frince of Wales' Darbar at Agra in 1876. He was present at the Imperial Assemblage at Delhi on the 1st January 1877, and at the Coronation Darbar at Delhi in 1903, and was made a Knight Grand Commander of the Indian Empire in October 1890. His uncle, Obaidulla Khan, who was appointed Wazir when the Nawab assumed the administration, died in 1900. In 1897 he had been attached is an honorary Political Officer to the Chief. Political Officer in the Mohmand expedition The Nawab has eleven sons, the eldest of whom is Muhammad Abdul Hafiz Khan, born on the 28th January 1877.

In 1886 owing to the State being in debt to the extent of about Rs 15 50 000 it became necessary to place its finances under the control of the Political Agent

In 1899 the Nawab entered into an Agreement (No CV) with the Indian Midland Railway Company, Limited, which received the approval of the Government of India, for the working of the portion of the Guna Baran Railway lying within the Tonk State

In January 1900 extradition rules between the States of Fonk and Jaipur were introduced tentatively for one year with the sanction of the Government of india. They are now (1906) under revision

The famine of 1899-1900 again seriously embarrassed the State, and in July 1903 it was found necessary once more to insist upon the close association of the Political Agent with the financial and revenue administration of the State.

In September 1904 the Darbar consented to surrender land free of charge for the construction and working of the Nagda-Muttra Railway. In March 1905 the negotiations for the sale to the Gwalior Darbar of that section of the Guna-Baran Railway which lies within the Tonk State were completed with the approval of the Government of India (No. CVI).

The area of Tonk is 2,553 square miles; the population, according to the census of 1901, is 273,201, including 2,477 Bhils; and the revenue about 12 lakhs of rupees. With a view to the better administration of their affairs four out of the six parganas of the State, vis., Nimbahera, Sironj, Chabra, and Pirawa, are included in the Political Agencies of Mewar in Rajputana, and of Bhopal, Gwalior, and Malwain Central India, respectively.

The State pays no tribute to the British Government, nor are any local corps or contingents maintained from its resources. The military force, including irregulars, consists (1905) of 243 artillery men, 443 cavalry, 1,046 infantry, 74 serviceable and 8 unserviceable guns, and 883 armed police.

The Chief is entitled to a salute of 17 guns, which was finally approved in Her Majesty's Order in Council, dated the 26th June 1857.

(III.) - SHAHPURA (CHIEFSHIP).

The Raja Dhiraj of Shahpura belongs to the Sisodiya Rajput clan, and is immediately descended from a former Rana of Udaipur. The founder of the House of Shahpura was Suraj Mal, a younger son of the Rana, from whom the late Chief, Raja Lachhman Singh, was tenth in direct lineal descent. Suraj Mal received as his portion the pargana of Kharar in Mewar, and his son also acquired from the Emperor Shah Jahan, in reward for his gallant services, a grant out of the Crown lands of Ajmer of the pargana of Phulia, upon condition of furnishing certain horse and footmen for service. He abandoned the town of Phulia, and founded the present town of Shahpura.

The Chief thus holds Kharar, the Kachola pargana of Mewar under the Maharana of Udaipur, and Shahpura, as part of Ajmer, under the British Government.

In 1848 the Chief, Jagat Singh, received a Sanad (No. CVII) from Government, fixing the amount of his tribute at Rs. 10,000 per annum.

but with the proviso that, if the customs duties levied in Ajmer were abolished, he should also cease to collect such duties, and, in consideration of such loss of revenue, the tribute payable by him should be reduced to Rs 2,000. Under the terms of his Sanad he is permitted to exercise civil and criminal jurisdiction in the Phulia pargana independently of the Ajmer Courts but is required to report all cases of beinous crime, involving the punishment of death or imprisonment for life to the Political Agent, Haraoti and Tonk, and to adjudicate upon them with his advice and concurrence

In March 1862 the Chief received a Sanad (see No V) guaranteeing to him the right of adoption

In 1869 on the redistribution of the Rajputana Agency, Shahpura was transferred from the control of the Commissioner of Ajmer to the charge of the Political Agent, Haraoti and Tonk

Raja Lachhman Singh died in November 1869, having, it was alleged, adopted on his death-bed the son of the Thakur of Bishnia a distant branch of the Shahpura family. The balance of evidence went to show that no adoption was really made by the deceased Chief but that the ceremony was performed after his death by the Minister Fauj. Mal. In these circumstances it was necessary that the recognition of a successor to the deceased Chief should be based on the usual principle of selection from among the nearest of I mand those best qualified for the administration of the State. The wishes of the Thakurs and the interests of the State pointed to Nahar Singh of Danop, a minor, and he was accordingly recognised as Chief of Shahpura by the British Government. The claims of a posthumous son of Kishan Singh of Kheri were disregarded on the ground of his father's prior adoption into a more distant branch of the family

Pretensions were advanced by the Maharana of Udaipur to a right of interference in this succession on the ground of Shahpura being a feudatory of Mewar, but the Maharana was informed that his arguments were untenable, as the pargana of Shahpura was originally a grant from the Emperors of Delhi and was now held directly by grant from the British Government, the fact that the Chief also held estates in Mewar gave the Udaipur State no voice in the succession. The British Government does not interfere in regard to well known and defined relations between Udaipur and Shahpura in so far as concerns that portion held by the Raja from the Maharana of Udaipur, but the demands made on the Raja by the Udaipur State must be limited to what is legitimate and fair having reference to the revenues of the Mewar portion only. In 1903 the question of the feudal service due from the Chief to the Maharana of Mewar on account of this portion was at last settled by the Government of India. In future the Maharana will invite the attendance of the Raja Dhiraj at Udaipur in each alternate year for a period of about one month, at the end of which the Chief will, as a matter of course, be released, and he will be relieved of attendance altogether in the intervening years. The Raja Dhiraj, on the occasions when he is personally excused, will send one of his family or a high Sardar to represent him.

The field by the Raja under Mewar consists of 74 villages with a population of about 16,000, and a revenue of Rs. 35,000; a tribute of Rs. 3,000 is paid to the Mewar Darbar.

In 1882 an Agreement (No. CVIII) was entered into with the Chief for the suppression of the manufacture of Khari salt; the prevention of the import or export of any salt other than that which had paid British duty; and for the removal of all duties thereon. In return for this the British Government agreed to pay the Chief Rs. 5,000 a year.

Raja Nahar Singh, who was born on the 7th November 1855, was entrusted with the management of his State in 1875. He was created a Knight Commander of the Indian Empire in January 1903. He attended the Darbar of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales at Agra in 1876, and the Delhi Darbars of 1877 and 1903. His eldest son is Umed Singh, born 7th March 1876.

The area of Shahpura is 405 square miles; the population, according to the census of 1901, amounts to 42,676, including 1,360 Bhils; and the revenue to about Rs. 3,00,000. The military force consists (1905) of 27 cavalry, 60 infantry, and 10 serviceable and 16 unserviceable guns,

The Chief is not entitled to any salute.

PROCLAMATION-1867

Be it known to the Nobles, Chiefs, and people of the Principality of This that things of the outrage which was perpetrated on the 1st of August last on the person of the uncle and certain followers of the Chief of Lawa, have been reported to the Viceroy and Governor General of India in Council

His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-General, from the full evidence taken on the spot, has been forced with pain to the conviction that the traged, could not have taken place without the knowledge, and, indeed, without the instigation of the Nawab, the present Ruler of Jonk.

The Viceroy and Governor-General in Council has resolved, both as a punishment of this crime, and because, since its commission, the Govern-ment of India could repose no confidence in his administration, that the Nawab shall be removed from his Government, and that his son shall be proclaimed successor

During the minority of the young Nawab the British Government will administer the government through Ibadoolla Khau, the uncle of the ex-Nawab, or make such other similar arrangement as it may see fit. But beyond the separation of Lawa from Tonk no alteration will be made in the constitution of the State. Lawa will now become a separate Chiefship, and will so remain for ever under the protection of the British Government. The heirs of the murdered men will receive maintenance through the British Government out of the revenues of Tonk.

The Viceroy and Governor-General in Council accordingly now proclaims to the Nobles, Chiefs, and people of Touk the change in the succession, and calls upon them to submit to the Government of the new Nawab, and during his minority to the administration which will temporarily be introduced by the Agent to the Governor-General.

The Governor-General in Council entertains the hope that the present lesson will not be lost upon the country, but that it will lead, both in Tonk and throughout the Province of Rajasthan, to the well-being and prosperity of all concerned, both of those who govern and of the people.

By Order of the Viceroy and Governor-General of India.

TRANSLATION of a SUNNUD continuing PERGUNNAH PHOOLEA to RAJAH JUGGUT SING JEO, Chief of Shahpoora, dated 27th June 1848.

Whereas the question of fixing the tribute of Pergunnah Phoolea, payable by the Chief of Shahpoora, has been under the consideration of the British Officers for a long time, and from the enquiries which have now been made, it appears that at first Pergunnah Phoolea was granted in jaghire by Aurungzeb Alumgeer, King of Delhi, to Rajah Soojan Singh Jeo, the founder of the family of the Chief of Shahpoora; and from that period to the present day the Pergunnah has been in the possession and enjoyment of the descendants of the said Rajah, and Rajah Juggut Sing Jeo, son of the late Rajah Madho Sing Jeo, holds it now as a right of succession to his father: Therefore the Government, with reference to the foregoing circumstances, has decided that Pergunnah Phoolea shall as before remain in the possession. of Rajah Juggut Sing Jeo and his heirs, and has fixed a sum of ten thousand Company's Rupees as its annual tribute, which should be paid annually by the Chief of Shahpoora to the Government. As it is the wish of the British Officers to lay down certain stipulations with regard to the administration of the affairs of the Illaga, it has been deemed proper to insert in this Sunnud the following conditions, for future observance, viz.:-

If the customs duties shall not be abolished entirely, but only a portion thereof cease to be levied, the annual revenue now fixed shall be reduced in proportion to the loss which may be found to be entailed upon the Chief by the abolition of the duties. It will likewise be understood that the amount which the Government will take as its revenue shall, on no account, be less than two thousand rupees.

and.—That all the rules and regulations which are now existing in respect to the civil and criminal cases shall remain in force, but in a criminal case no one shall be liable to punishment which may be deemed unjust and against the established chas is sometimes inflicted in Native States.

This Jat principality was founded by a freebooter named Biri, who held the village of Sinsani in the pargana of Dig; but the power of the State was chiefly extended during the decline of the Mughal Empire by his greatgrand-son, Suraj Mal, who was killed in 1763. Suraj Mal left five sons, three of whom administered the State of Bharatpur in succession. During the rule of the third son, Nawal Singh, the fourth son, Ranjit Singh, rebelled and called in the aid of Najaf Khan, who stripped the family of all their possessions except the fort of Bharatpur, which was held by Ranjit Singh. At the intercession of the widow of Suraj Mal, however, he restored to the family lands yielding nine lakhs of rupees. On the death of Najaf Khan Sindhia possessed himself of all his territories including Bharatpur, but again, at the intercession of the widow of Surai Mal, he gave to Ranjit Singh eleven parganas yielding ten lakhs of rupees, to which three parganas yielding four lakhs were subsequently added as a reward for services rendered to General Perron. These fourteen parganas now constitute the State of Bharatpur.

At the commencement of the Maratha war in 1803 the British Government concluded a Treaty (No. CIX) with Ranjit Singh, and in October 1933 conferred upon him the districts of Kishangarh, Kattawa, Rewari, Gokul and Sahar. After the battle of Dig Holkar took refuge in the fort of Bhalturu, whither he was pursued by Lord Lake. His surrender was demanded, but Ranjit Singh refused to give him up. The fort was besieged. Ranjit Singh made a memorable defence and repelled four assaults with a loss to the besiegers of 3,000 men. Fearing eventual defeat, however, and being unable from the exhaustion of his resources to continue the war, Ranjit Singh surrendered the fort and agreed to expel Holkar from his territories A new Treaty (No. CX) was concluded with him in 1805, by which he agreed to pay an indemnity of twenty lakhs of rupees, seven of which were subsequently remitted, and was guaranteed in the territories which be held previously to the accession of the British Government. This lat principality was founded by a freebooter named Birj, who held the village of Sinsani in the pargana of Dig; but the power of the State was chiefly extended during the decline of the Mughal Empire by his greatgrand-son, Suraj Mal, who was killed in 1763. On the death of Najaf Khan Sindhia possessed himself of all his territories including Bharatpur, but again, at the intercession of the widow of Suraj Mal, he gave to Raniit Singh eleven parganas yielding ten lakhs of rupees, to which three parganas yielding four lakbs were subsequently added as a reward for services rendered to General Perron. At.the commencement of the Maratha war in 1803 the British Government concluded a Treaty (No. CIX) with Ranjit Singh, and in October 1903 conferred upon him the districts of Kishangarh, Kattawa, Rewari, Gokullad Sahar. A new Treaty (No. CX) was concluded with him in 1805, by which be agreed to pay an indemnity of twenty lakhs of rupees, seven of which were subsequently remitted, and was guaranteed in the territories which be held previously to the accession of the British Government. which had been granted to him in 1803 were resumed. Notwithstanding the leniency with which he had been treated, and the protection secured to him by this alliance from the rapacity of the Marathas, neither Ranjit Singh nor his successor ever showed any attachment to the British Government, Maharaja Ranjit Singh died in 1805, leaving four sons; he was succeeded by the eldest, Randhir Singh, who died in 1823, and was succeeded by his brother Baldeo Singh. After a rule of about eighteen months Baldeo Singh died leaving a son, Balwant Singh, then six years of age, whose succession was recognised by the British Government; he was opposed and cast into prison by his cousin Durjan Sal, who had laid claims to the succession on Raudhir Singh's death. The Resident at Delhi moved out a force for the support of the rightful heir, but the operations were stopped by Government, who did not consider that the recognition of the heir-apparent during the life of his father imposed on it any obligation to maintain him in opposition to the wishes of the Chiefs and people. While Durjan Sal professed to leave the decision of his claims to the British Government, he made preparations to maintain them by force and was secretly supported by the neighbouring Rajput and Maratha States. excitement threatened to end in a protracted war, and accordingly, with a view to the preservation of the public peace, Government ultimately determined to depose the usurper and place Balwant Singh in power. The fort of Bharatpur was stormed on the 18th January 1826 and dismantled; Durjan Sal was carried a prisoner to Allahabad; and the young Maharaja was established in the succession, under the regency of his mother and the superintendence of a Political Agent. The Rani was removed in 1826, and the Ministers of the State were formed into a Council of Regency.

In 1835 Balwant Singh was put in charge of the administration; he died in 1853, and was succeeded by his only son, Jaswant Singh, then a minor. The administration was conducted by a Council consisting of five Sardars under the superintendence of a Political Agent. In March 1862 the Chief received a Sanad (See No. V) guaranteeing to him the right of adoption.

In 1865 the Bharatpur State agreed to cede land required for railway purposes free of cost; to compensate the owners of the land to make over to the British Government full jurisdiction short of soverfeign rights in the land; and to abolish all transit duties on goods passing through by railway; but no formal engagement was concluded.

In 1868 an extradition Treaty (No. CXI) was concluded with the Bharatpur State for the mutual surrender of persons charged with certain specified offences. This treaty was modified in 1887 by an Agreement (No. CXII), providing that in cases of the extradition of offenders from British India to Bharatpur the procedure for the time being in force in British India should be followed in future.

The administration of the State was made over to the Maharaja in 1869, subject to his observance of certain rules which had been framed for the conduct of affairs during his minority. The restrictions imposed by these rules were withdrawn in 1871.

In 1873 the Maharaja questioned the power of the Council to assent to the railway agreement of 1865 during his minority; but he was informed that, subject to the general control which the British Government exercises over Native States, and the special control which is incumbent on it during a minority, the administration of Bharatpur in 1865 were competent to enter on all the functions and to exercise all the powers belonging to the government of the State.

In 1879 the Maharaja agreed (No. CXIII) to suppress the manufacture of salt, and the import or consumption of any but British duty-paid salt in the State. Arrangements were at the same time made to abolish all duties on salt, and also upon sugar and other saccbarine produce, except such local cesses as octroi, choongi, etc., levied on those articles when imported for consumption into towns of above 5,000 inhabitants. In return the British Government undertook to deliver yearly at Sambhar, free of cost and duty, 1,000 maunds of good salt for the use of the Maharaja, and to pay to him Rs. 1,50,000 a year, and to certain salt manufacturers and others, through the Maharaja, the sum of Rs. 2,26,000 as compensation for their loss.

In 1882 a set of rules for facilitating the arrest and surrender of criminals was introduced in the States of Bharatpur and Alwar with the approval of the Government of India. In 1883 the Bharatpur Darbar entered into similar agreements with the States of Karauli and Dholpur, and about the same time with the State of Jaipur. *

In 1884 the Bharatpur Darbar abolished all transit duties, with the exception of those on liquor, opium and other intoxicating drugs, throughout the Bharatpur State.

Government of India's letters of 15th July 1883, 7th April 1883, and 11th June 1883.

In 1885 arrangements were made for the transfer of five Bharatpur villages in exchange for five Alwar villages. Details will be found in the account of the Alwar State (infra).

In 1888 the Maharaja offered to place a regiment of 600 cavalry, and another of 800 infantry, at the disposal of the Government of India, for Imperial Service.

Maharaja Jaswant Singh died on the 12th December 1893. He was present at the Delhi Imperial Assemblage on the 1st January 1877, on which occasion he was created a Knight Grand Commander of the Star of India, and in 1890 his salute was raised from seventeen to nineteen guns as a personal distinction. He was succeeded by his son, Ram Singh. In 1895 it was found necessary to take the administration out of the hands of Maharaja Ram Singh, and the control of affairs was vested in a Council, working under the general supervision of the Political Agent.

In 1896 the Darbar abolished internal customs duties.

In 1897 an agreement was entered into between the State and the Government of India for the introduction of postal unity in Bharatpur.

An Agreement (No. CXIV) was made in 1899 between the British Government and the Maharaja for the effective control and discipline of the Imperial Service troops maintained by the State when serving beyond its frontier, and in the following year the Chief's offer to substitute a transport corps of 300 carts and 600 mules for the Imperial Service cavalry was accepted. In 1900 the services of the Imperial Service troops were offered for the China War.

In June 1900 the Maharaja in a fit of passion killed one of his private servants at Mount Abu, and was thereupon deposed. He was subsequently removed from Bharatpur to Deoli, where he at present (1906) resides. Ram Singh was succeeded on the 27th August 1900 by his infant son, Kishan Singh, born on the 4th October, 1899. The infant Maharaja is in the care of his mother and of his foster father, Dhau Bakhshi Raghubir Singh, a member of the State Council. The administration of the State continues to be conducted by the Council under the control of the Political Agent:

In 1901 the Darbar abolished the import duty on food grains of every kind except rice, and also import and export duties on oil seeds, tobacco, cotton, etc.

In 1903 the State, with the consent of the Government of India, agreed to the permanent adoption of the rules, which had been tentatively introduced in 1883, for facilitating the extradition of criminals between Bharatpur and Jaipur.

In the same year the Imperial Service troops were offered for service in Somaliland.

In 1904 the Darhar ceded to the British Government full and exclusive power and jurisdiction of every kind (No. CXV) over the lands in the State which were, or might thereafter be, occupied by the Agra-Delhi Chord Railway. They also agreed to surrender land, free of charge, for the construction and working of the Nagaa-Muttra Railway.

In the same year the Imperial Service transport corps took part in the Tibet expedition, Export duty on grain was totally abolished by the Darbar in 1905, along with export and import duties on certain other articles.

In May 1905 a long-standing dispute between the Alwar and Bharatpur Darbars, regarding the irrigation of certain villages by the waters of the Ruparel river, was settled by the Government of India, by whose award Alwar obtained complete control of the cold weather flow from the 1st October in each year, while Bharatpur received a fixed share of the flow in the rains,

The area of Bharatpur is 1,982 square miles; the population, according to the census of 1901, is 626,655; and the revenue Rs. 27,00,000. Bharatpur pays no tribute and no contribution to any local corps or contingent. The State maintains 653 Imperial Service infantry, and a transport corps of 389 men, 600 mules and 7 ponies. and 558 carts. In addition to these, and including irregulars, the military forces consist (1905) of 1,546 infantry, 512 cavalry, 150 artillery men, with 42 serviceable and 40 unserviceable guns, and 753 armed police.

The ordinary salute of the Maharaja of Bharatpur is 17 guns, which was finally approved in Hcr Majesty's Order in Council, dated the 26th June 1867.

(II).—KARAULI.

This State formerly paid a tribute of Rs. 25,000 to the Pesbwa, by whom it was ceded to the British Government under the 14th Article of the Treaty of Poona in 1817. The Maharaja had made over the village of Machalpur and its dependencies to the management of the Peshwa in lieu of the tribute; but, as it was inconvenient for the British Government to take possession of villages so isolated, the tribute was relinquished in November 1817, at the time of the conclusion of the Treaty (No. CXVI) by which the State of Karauli was taken under the protection of the British Government. In consideration of the relinquishment of the tribute the Maharaja, Harbakhsh Pal, was bound by the 5th Article of the Treaty to furnish troops at the requisition of the British Government according to his means. When the treaty was being considered the Maharaja wished for a guarantee that some of his old possessions south of the Chambal, then under the government of Sindhia, should be restored to him, subject to an annual tribute, if they should ever come into the possession of the British Government: this was refused. In 1825 when Durjan Sal rebelled against his cousin, Balwant Singh, the legitimate heir to the State of Bharatpur, the rebel was supported by the Maharaja of Karauli. the fall of Bharatpur, however, the Maharaja made humble professions of submission, and it was not thought necessary to take serious notice of his conduct.

Beyond the adjustment of some boundary disputes between Karauli and Jaipur, no communications of any importance took place with Karauli till the death of Harbakhsh Pal in 1838. He was succeeded by his adopted son, Partab Pal, who died in 1848, leaving no son and no near male relative. consequence of the factions which prevailed during the government of Partab Pal, a British officer was on four occasions deputed to Karauli to mediate between the parties, but without much success. Narsingh Pal, a minor, was adopted by the family as the successor of Partab Pal. Although there were many disputes regarding the guardianship of the boy, there was none regarding his selection. The Karauli State was at this time in debt to the British Government, and the recognition of the adoption of Narsingh Pal was withheld till the first instalment should be paid. This debt was originally incurred by the Maharaja of Karauli to the State of Bharatpur, which was indebted to the British Government. In arranging for the liquidation of the Bharatpur debts Government gave credit for the amount due from Karauli, and took upon itself to recover it from that State. In 1844 the Karauli debt amounted to Rs. 1,54,312. Very advantageous terms were given to the Maharaja; he was allowed twelve years to pay off the debt by instalments, and no interest was to be charged except on instalments remaining unpaid. Up to 1847, however, nothing had been paid, and a further period of a year and a half was allowed before the first instalment should be demanded. After some delay the young Chief offered payment of the first instalment, but as it was not made unconditioually, and was advanced by a speculator for employment in Karauli, the money was not accepted. The factions at Karauli, however, were daily gaining strength, and, therefore, Government deemed it expedient to recognise the succession of Narsingh Pal, warning him at the same time that payment of the debt would be exacted, and as mediation between the factions had hitherto been unsuccessful, it was determined to send an Agent of the British Government to Karauli to control all parties and exercise the direct management of affairs

Narsingh Pal died on 10th July 1852, having adopted the day before his death a distant kinsman named Bharat Pal It was first proposed to treat the State as a lapse, but finally the adoption of Bharat Pal was recog-In the meantime a strong party was formed in favour of Madan Pal, a nearer relative, whose claim was supported by the opinions of the Chiefs of Bharatpur, Dholpur, Alwar, and Jaipur. An inquiry was ordered, by which it was ascertained that the adoption of Bharat Pal was informal by reason of the minority of Narsingh Pal, and the omission of certain necessary ceremonies As Madan Pal was nearer of kin than Bharat Pal and was accepted by the Ranis, by mne of the most influential Thakurs, by three-fourths of the minor feudal retainers of the State, and by the general feeling of the country, he was recognised in 1854 as successor to the Karauli Chiefship. The direct interference of the Political Agent in the internal administration was withdrawn and the Agency was removed in 1855, but Madan Pal was warned that, in the event of his ailing the regular payment of the annual instalment of the debt, then rest adoption

In 1859, in consequence of the pecuniary embarrass April 1882. a Political Agent was deputed as a temporary measure

In 1906, owing to the indebted condition of the State, the control over its finances was temporarily placed in the hands of the Political Agent, Eastern Rajputana States.

The area of Karauli is 1,242 square miles; and the population, according to the census of 1901, is 156,786. The revenue from all sources is about Rs. 5,00,190. The military force of the State consists (1905) of 259 cavalry, 1,774 infantry, 35 guns classed as serviceable and 21 as unserviceable, 32 artillery men and 28 armed police. These figures include irregulars.

The Chief receives a salute of 17 guns, which was finally approved in Her Majesty's Order in Council, dated the 26th June 1867.

(III). DHOLPUR.

Lokendar Singh, better known as the Rana of Gohad, was the first Chief of Dholpur with whom the British Government formed political relations. The family belong to the Jat tribe, and first rose to notice under the Peshwa Baji Rao. After the overthrow of the Marathas at Panipat the uncle of Lokendar Singh rebelled and possessed himself of the fort of Gwalior. During the Maratha war, which ended with the peace of Salbai in 1782, the British Government (in 1779) formed a Treaty (No. CXX) with Lokendar Singh, both as a barrier against invasion of the British territories and as a basis for creating a diversion in favour of the military operations from Bombay. By this Treaty Government agreed to furnish the Maharana with a force for the defence of his dominions or for their enlargement by conquest from the Marathas; to share with him their joint conquests, except the territories constituting his jagir and not then in possession of the Marathas; and to include the Maharana in any peace concluded with the Marathas. Article 8 of the Treaty also guaranteed that, whenever peace should be concluded, the Maharana should retain his present possessions together with the fort of Gwalior "which of old belongs to the family of the Maharana", if it should then be in his possession, and also such acquisitions as it should be stipulated to leave in his hands. Accordingly, in the 4th Article of the Treaty with Sindhia of 13th October 1781 (Volume IV, Gwalior), it is stipulated that Sindhia shall not interfere with the territories of Maharana Lokendar Singh so long as the Maharana observes his Treaty with the English. After the peace of Salbai, however, the Maharana was abandoned on the ground that he had beten guilty of treachery, and Sindhia re-possessed himself of Gohad and Gwahior.

On this basis the Treaty with Sindhia of 22nd November 1805 (Vol. IV, Gwalior) was concluded, and by a separate Treaty (No. CXXIII), settled in 1806, the paraganas of Dholpur, Bari and Rajkhera were assigned to the Maharaj Rana of Dholpur. The river Chambal thus became the boundary between Sindhias territories and Dholpur.

Maharaj Rana Kirat Singh lived to a great age. He died in 1836 and was succeeded by Maharaj Rana Bhagwant Singh. This Chief rendered assistance to the fugitives from Gwalior in 1857; but his minister Del Hans incurred the displeasure of Government by plundering villages in the Agra District. In 1862, in consequence of the intrigues of Deo Hans and his attempts to subvert the authority of his Chief, it was found necessary to remove him to Benares, where he was placed under surveillance. Attempts were subsequently made by Deo Hans to regain his position at Dholpur by the payment of a large sum of money to the Maharaj Rana, but it was intimated to the Chief that direct communication with Deo Hans would subject him to the displeasure of Government.

In 1860 Sindhia consented to the construction of a bridge over the Chambal, by the agency of the British Government, in connection with the trunk road then being made by him on the right bank of the river. Ir this arrangement the Maharaj Rana of Dholpur also acquiesced, on the understanding that the cost of the construction of the bridge should be borne in equal shares by the two States; that they should share equally in the net profits; and that, in the event of the failure of the bridge, the ferry at Rajghat should revert to Dholpur, Sindhia retaining the ferry at Khantri. It was also arranged that the British Government should collect the tolls and maintain the bridge so long as the two States could not come to an understanding in respect to its management. At the close of 186c Sindhia relinquished the construction of the trunk road through Gwalion the hands of the British Government, and it was then settled that, on the b 'dge being constructed, both Chiefs. should enjoy the privilege of a when crossing in person with their suites. It had been at first decided + . States, any

In the meantime disputes had arisen between Sindhia and the Maharaj Rana of Dholpur relative to the management and division of profits from the Rajghat and Khantri ferries, Dholpur laying claim to a share in the profits of the Khantri ferry which belonged to the Gwalior Darhar. To this Sindhia eventually agreed, and it was decided that the ferry at Rajghat should he worked and a hridge of boats constructed by the British Government, the net profits on the combined ferry and bridge being divided annually between Gwalior and Dhelpur. Government has no concern with the Khantri ferry, which remains as before under Sindhia's management, beyond taking care that Dholpur is held to be an equal sharer in the rights appertaining to it.

In 1862 Maharaj Rana Bhagwant Singh was guaranteed the right of adoption (see No. V).

In 1266 the land revenue of the villages of Saji, Sathwa, and Patharwa, in the Benares district, was assigned to Rao Gangadhar Rao Ragionath, Minister of Dholpur, in consideration of the transfer of Mauza Kheria by the Maharaj Rana of Dholpur in full sovereignty to the British Government.

Belenging to Diolpur is the pargana of Jhiri held in rent-free tenure by the Rao of Sar Mattra, a feedatory of Dholpur, the suzerainty of which was claimed both by Karaelli and Dholpur. Both Jhiri and Sar Mattra formerly belonged to Karaelli, but the claims of that State were completely entirguished during the Maratha supremacy. Jhiri is situated in the district of Pari, which was received by the British Government from Sinfilia and afterwards made over to Dholpur under the Treaty of 1806. Its emission from the schedule of villages attached to that Treaty is explained by the fact that it is held on rent-free tenura, and that all rent-free villages are excluded from the schedule.

In 1888 the Dicipur State agreed to give the land required in Talway Empose free of cost; to code full jurisdiction short of sovereign rights in this land; and to surrender all transit and other faties or goods carried through in tention; but no formal engagement was concluded. The Dates has been permitted to levy a small ruyally on stone quantied for talkay proposes.

is 1993 a constition Treaty (No. CXXIV) was consisted with Distiput for the name installed of passons charged with contain specified commen.

This was modified in 1887 by an Agreement (No. CXXV), providing that in the extradition of offenders from British India to Dholpur the procedure for the time being in force in British India should be followed.

Maharaj Rana Bhagwant Singh was created a Knight Grand Commander of the Star of India. On his death, in February 1873, his grandson, Nihal Singh, a minor nine years of age, whose father had died in 1870, was recognised as his successor. Raja Sir Dinkar Rao was appointed guardian of the young Chief, and was invested with general powers of control and supervision in the administration of the State, subject generally to the control of the British authorities. Ill health compelled Sir Dinkar Rao to retire from this office towards the close of the same year, when a British officer was appointed to the political charge of Dholpur and to supervise the education of the young Chief.

In 1879 an Agreement (No. CXXVI) was concluded with the Dholpur Darbar for the suppression of the manufacture of salt within the State; and for the prevention of the import or consumption within its territories of any salt excepting that on which British duty had been levied, and of the export of bhang, ganja, spirits, opium or other intoxicating drug or preparation. At the same time the Darbar, which had already, in 1871, abolished all transit duties on the Agra-Gwalior road passing through its territories, relinquished all duties on articles imported into, exported from, or passing through, the State save only on sulphur, saltpetre, tobacco, opium, bhang, ganja, spirits and other intoxicating drugs. In return the British Government undertook to pay the Maharana Rs. 60,000 a year, which included yearly compensation to the Rao of Sar Mattra and others, and, through the Maharana, to certain salt manufacturers a sum of Rs. 300 as compensation, and to deliver yearly at Sambhar, free of cost and duty, 300 maunds of good salt for the use of the Maharana.

In 1883 rules for facilitating the arrest and surrender of criminals between the Dholpur State and the States of Karauli and Bharatpur were adopted with the approval of the Government of India.

Maharaj Rana Nihal Singh was appointed an Honorary Major in the British Army in 1882, and was invested with full powers of administration on the 19th February 1883.

In 1898 he was created an Honorary Companion of the Most Honorable Order of the Bath in recognition of his services as extra orderly officer during the operations on the North-West Frontier. He died at Mashohra near Simla on the 20th July 1901, and was succeeded by his son the present Chief, His Highness the Maharaj Rana Ram Singh, who was born on the 26th May 1883. The administration of the State was conducted by a Superintendent, assisted by selected officials, under the general direction of the Political Agent. The young Chief, after four months at the Mayo College, at Ajmer, joined the Imperial Cadet Corps in July 1902, and was present at the Delhi Coronation Darhar in January 1903. He was invested with ruling powers on the 2nd March 1905.

In December 1905 Secretary of State sanctioned the construction, at the cost of the Dholpur State, of a line of railway, on the 2' 6" gauge, from Dholpur station on the Indian Midland Railway to the town of Bari, a distance of about 19 miles. The line is known as the Dholpur-Bari Railway.

The area of Dholpur is 1,155 square miles, with a population, according to the census of 1901, of 2,70,973. The gross revenue amounts to Rs. 10,58,000. The military force consists (1905) of 187 cavalry, 971 infantry, with 11 serviceable and 21 unserviceable guns and 39 gunners.

The Maharaj Rana receives a salute of 15 guns, which was finally approved in Her Majesty's Order in Council, dated the 26th June 1867.

VI.—ALWAR AGENCY.* ALWAR.

The Alwar State is composed of petty Chiefships, which till the middle of last century owed allegiance to Jaipur and Bharatpur. The southern portion was usurped about 1780, during the minority of the Maharaja of Jaipur, by Partab Singh of the clan of Naruka Raiputs, who was holding Macheri as a fiel from Jaipur with the title of Rao. Partab Singh was succeeded by his adopted son, Bakhtawar Singh, with whom the first relations of the British Government were formed. Ahmad Baksh Khan, the Alwar vakil, joined Lord Lake at the commencement of the war with the Maratbas, and received the grant of Loharu from Alwar and of Firozpur from Lord Lake as a reward for his services (see Loharn, Vol. VIII). The Maharao Raja accepted the protection of the British Government in 1803, and a Treaty (No. CXXVII) of offensive and defensive alliance was concluded; Alwar was to pay no tribute, but its troops were to co-operate with those of the British Government. As a reward for the assistance which Alwar rendered in the campaign, the districts, which had been granted to Bharatpur and afterwards resumed, were conferred in 1803 on the Maharao Raja by a Sanad (No. CXXVIII) from Lord Lake. In 1805 an exchange of territories was effected (No. CXXIX) with Alwar for mutual convenience.

It was discovered in 1811 that the Chief of Alwar had interfered in the affairs of Jaipur, and engaged to be security for the payment of Rs. 1,50,000 a month to a Pathan adventurer, Muhammad Shah Khan, for the supply of troops to establish one Khushhali Ram as Minister of Jaipur. Although the obligation to form no such engagements without the knowledge and consent of the British Government necessarily resulted from the nature of the relations practically subsisting between the two Governments, it was not specifically included among the provisions of the treaty. 'A fresh Engagement (No. CXXX) was therefore made in 1811 with the Maharao Raja, expressly prohibiting political intercourse with other States without the cognizance and approval of the British Government. In 1812 Bakhtawar Singh took possession of the forts of Dhobi and Sikrawa and adjoining territory belonging to Jaipur, and refused to restore them on the remonstrance of the Resident at Delhi. As this was a direct violation of bis engagements, it became a question whether to dissolve the alliance with him. To this course there were many objections, and chiefly that the Alwar State would have been left exposed to the invasion of Pindari leaders; it was therefore resolved to compel the Maharao Raja to restore the forts and territory to Jaipur. A force was moved against him, and when the troops were within one march of his capital Bakhtawar Singh yielded, restored the usurped territory, and paid three lakhs of rupees as the expenses of the British expedition. It was the intention of Government, had actual hostilities taken place, to have punished the Chief by resuming the districts conferred on him by Lord Lake, and even annexing his entire territories had his conduct justified such a measure.

Bakhtawar Singh died in 1815, and the question was raised whether the lands granted in 1803 should lapse; Government, however, decided not to interfere with them. On Bakhtawar Singh's death a dispute arose as Banni Singh, the nephew and adopted son of the late to the succession. Maharao, was supported by the Rajput nobles, while Balwant Singh, an illegitimate son, was supported by a Muhammadan faction headed by Ahmad Bakhsh Khan. A compromise was effected, and it was agreed that the nephew should enjoy the title while the illegitimate son should exercise the power of the State; this arrangement was sanctioned by the British Government. Both parties were minors at the time of this agreement, and when they grew up Maharao Banni Singh seized the reins of the administration and made his cousin a prisoner. Moreover an attempt was made on the life of Ahmad Bakhsh Khan while he was a guest of the Resident at Delhi. The crime was traced to the instigation of persons at the Court of Alwar, and the Chief was required to surrender them, but it was not till 1826, after the fall of Bharatpur and the advance of a British force on Alwar, that the Chief complied. The Maharao Raja was then required (1826) to agree (No. CXXXI) to make a provision, half in land and half in money, for Balwant Singh and the lawful heirs of his body. lands reverted to Alwar on the death of Balwant Singh without issue.

In 1831 a negotiation was discovered between Alwar and Jaipur, originating in the desire of the Chief of Alwar to do fealty to Jaipur and receive a khilat of investiture. This correspondence was considered to be a breach of treaty engagements, but not to be in itself of much importance.

Banni Singh died in 1857 after the outbreak of the mutinies. After his death the Muhammadan Ministers acquired an ascendancy over his son, Sheodan Singh, then thirteen years of age. Their influence, however, was obnoxious to the Rajput nobles who rose and expelled them. The Ministers were compelled to reside at Benares under surveillance, and a Political Agent was appointed to Alwar to advise and assist the Council of Regency which was formed to conduct the administration during the young Chief's minority. Sheodan Singh attained his majority in September 1863, and was put in charge of the administration, but it was resolved to retain the Politital Agent at Alwar for a further period of two years.

In 1862 the Chief was guaranteed the right of adoption (see No. V).

In 1865 the Alwar State consented to give the land required for railway purposes, free of cost; to compensate the owners; to cede full jurisdiction over this land, short of sovereign rights, to the British Government; and to surrender all transit and other duties on goods passing through the State. No formal agreement, however, has been concluded to this effect.

In 1867 an extradition Treaty (No. CXXXII) was concluded with Alwar. But this was modified in 1887 by an Agreement (No. CXXXIII) providing that, in the extradition of offenders from British India to Alwar, the procedure for the time being in force in British India should be followed.

The affairs of the State soon after the Chief's accession to power fell into confusion: the Muhammadan Ministers, who had been permitted to return from Benares to Delhi, on condition of their having no communication with Alwar, regained their ascendancy and wielded the real power of the State. The discontent of the Maharao Raja's subjects showed itself in an unsuccessful insurrection headed by Thakur Lakhdhir Singh; a settlement was temporarily effected, but the extravagance of the Chief, his Muhammadan sympathies, and his resumption of numerous hereditary holdings and religious grants widened the breach, and the authoritative interference In 1870, therefore, the of the British Government became necessary. Maharao Raja was deprived of power and a Council of Management, presided over by a British officer, was formed; a sum of Rs. 15,000 per mensem was fixed for the personal expenditure of the Chiel, and an establishment on a reasonable scale was allotted for his use; but the Maharao Raja continued to oppose all measures of reform and to foment dissension among the Thakurs, until at length he was warned that, if any disturbance took place, he would be removed from Alwar. This warning proved sufficient to check all overt opposition, but the Chief could not again be entrusted with the management of his State, and the administration continued to be carried on by the Council.

Sheodan Singh died in October 1874 without an heir either lineal or adopted. The State consequently escheated to Government; but, in view of all the circumstances of the case, it was decided to allow the selection of a ruler from the collateral branches of the former ruling family. The choice between Thakur Mangal Singh of the Thana family and Thakur Lakhdhir Singh of Bijwar, who appeared to have the strongest claims to the vacant gadi, was left to the twelve Kotris, as the Naruka families are called. A majority was in favour of Mangal Singh, who was therefore recognised by the British Government as ruler of Alwar. Maharao Raja Mangal Singh being a minor, the affairs of the State continued to be conducted by a Council presided over by the Political Agent, until December 1877, when the Chief was invested with full governing powers.

In 1873 British copper coin was introduced into the State.

The Alwar State agreed in January 1875 that the code of rules drawn up in 1873, for regulating the pursuit and extradition of criminals on the Patiala and Jaipur border (see Jaipur), should be reciprocally observed between Alwar and Patiala or any other Punjab State touching or closely adjoining Alwar. On the 22nd March 1879 these rules were formally declared to be in force between Patiala, Nabha and Alwar. In 1882 a set of rules for facilitating the arrest and surrender of criminals was introduced in the States of Alwar and Bharatpur with the approval of the Government of India; and in 1889 similar rules were approved as a tentative measure for one year with the Jaipur State. In 1891 the latter were extended for another year, and were finally and permanently adopted in 1894. Similar rules were also introduced between Alwar and Bikaner in 1899.

In 1877 the Maharao Raja entered into an Agreement (No. CXXXIV) with the Government of India under the Native Coinage Act of 1876 for the supply to the State, from the Calcutta Mint, of silver coins bearing the Alwar device, and to abstain from coining silver in his own mints for 30 years.

In 1879 an Agreement (No. CXXXV) was entered into with the Alwar Darbar for the suppression of the manufacture of salt within the State; for the prevention of the importation or consumption in the State of any but be admitted, the Chief of Nimrana should pay an annual sum fixed for terms of thirty years to the Maharao Raja of Alwar, who should receive it as a full compensation for all conditions of feudal subjection. This sum for the first thirty years was Rs. 3,000 per annum. It was further decided that the Chief of Nimrana has the right to adopt; but is bound, in the first instance, to consult the Maharao Raja of Alwar. In case of disagreement the decision rests with the British Government. The first period of 30 years having expired on the 31st December 1898, the Raja was required to pay to the Alwar Darbar an enhanced sum of Rs. 4,300 a year for a second period of 30 years, commencing from the 1st January 1899.

Raja Mokand Singh died at the Mayo College, Ajmer, in December 1885, and was succeeded, with the sanction of the Government of India, by his first cousin Janak Singh, who was born on the 3rd November 1875 and educated at the Mayo College. During the minority the estate was under the superintendence of the Political Agent in Alwar.

Raja Janak Singh was invested with powers on the 16th October 1896. $\dot{\,}$

The income of the Chiefship is Rs. 38,000 per annum; and its population, according to the census of 1901, is 8,799. Maharaja Sawai Jai Singh was invested with ruling powers on the 10th December 1903.

In 1904 the Maharaja ceded to the British Government full and exclusive power and jurisdiction of every kind over the lands in his State which were, or might thereafter be, occupied by the Rewari-Phulera Chord Railway (No. CXXXVII).

In September 1904 rules for ensuring satisfactory co-operation between the State police and those of the adjoining British District of Gurgaon in the Punjab were introduced tentatively for one year. Their permanent adoption was sanctioned by the Government of India in June 1906.

The area of Alwar is 3,141 square miles; and the population, according to the census of 1901, is 828,487. The revenue from all sources is about Rs. 30,50,000. The State pays neither tribute nor contribution.

The military forces, including irregulars, consist (1905) of 559 Imperial Service cavalry, and 893 Imperial Service infantry, with a complete transport of 211 men, 555 ponies, mules, and camels, and 103 carts; 180 artillery men, 272 guns, all serviceable, 70 cavalry and 519 infantry.

The Chief receives a salute of 15 guns, which was finally approved in Her Majesty's Order in Council, dated the 26th June 1867.

Wimrana.—Among the lands granted to Alwar by Lord Lake in 1803 was the district of Nimrana. The Chief of this district for many years urged claims to independence of Alwar which were frequently rejected; they were again brought forward in 1860. A full investigation was made, and it was clearly proved that the Alwar Chief had conferred the district on Chandarbhan, Raja of Nimrana, subject to a payment of Rs. 8,648; being the amount of tribute levied by the Marathas on Nimrana; that in consequence of Chandarbhan's rebellion, the lands were afterwards resumed by Alwar with the consent of the British Government, and held till 1815, when a portion of them was restored; and that when the Nimrana Chief claimed the restoration of the remainder, the British Government declined to interfere. It was, therefore, finally decided in 1862 that Nimrana is a fiel of Alwar. The measure of feudal subjection, however, remained undecided for years; finally, after a lengthened correspondence, it was agreed (No. CXXXVIII) in 1868 that, though his claim to independence could not be admitted, the Chief of Nimrana should pay an annual sum fixed for terms of thirty years to the Maharao Raja of Alwar, who should receive it as a full compensation for all conditions of feudal subjection. This sum for the first thirty years was Rs. 3,000 per annum. It was further decided that the Chief of Nimrana has the right to adopt; but is bound, in the first instance, to consult the Maharao Raja of Alwar. VII.-BIKANER AGENCY.* BIKANER.

The ruling family of Bikaner belongs to the Rathor clan of Raiputs. The origin of the family is traced to Maharaja Jai Chand of Kananj, whose great grandson Rao Siaji came to Pali in Marwar in A. D. 1211. His descendant Rao Jodhaji founded Jodhpur, and Rao Bikaji, the sixth son of the latter, founded the State of Bikaner. Bikaner was originally inhabited by various small tribes of Jats and others, the quarrels among whom led to the conquest of the country in A. D. 1465 by Rao Bikaji. After consolidating his power he conquered Bagor from the Bhattis of Jaisalmer, and founded the city of Bikaner in A. D. 1488. He died in A. D. 1504. Rai Singh, the sixth ruler, succeeded to power in 1571, and in his time began the connection of Bikaner with the Delhi Emperors. Rai Singh became a leader of horse in Akbar's service and took part in the Nagaur, Attock and Deccan campaigns. He received a grant of 52 parganas including Hansi and Hissar, and also the title of Raja. Raja Karan Singh, the 9th ruler, who succeeded to power in A. D. 1631, and his sons, Padam Singh and Kesri Singh, rendered great services to the Emperor Aurangzeb and received a grant of land in the Deccan. Raja Anup Singh, the 10th ruler, also rendered important services to the Delhi Emperors and was made a Maharaja.

The first Treaty (No. CXXXIX) of the British Government with Bikaner was concluded in 1818 with Surat Singh, who had succeeded to power in 1801. This Chief had applied for the protection of the British Government in 1808 when his territories were invaded by a force from Jodhpur and other States, but interference on the part of the British Government was contrary to the policy which then prevailed of withdrawing from all connection with the Chiefs to the west of the Jumna. Bikaner, however, was embraced in the general scheme of alliances formed at the beginning of the Pindari war. The Maharaja was bound by the Treaty of 1818 to subordinate co-operation, and the British Government engaged to protect his territories and to reduce his rebellious subjects to obedience. No tribute was exacted; the Bikaner State had paid none to the Marathas.

Surat Singh died in 1828 and was succeeded by his son, Ratan Singh. The chief discussions with Bikaner had been regarding disputed boundaries, but in 1829 the Maharaja, in violation of his treaty engagements, invaded

The Agency is controlled by the Political Agent in Bikaner, with head-quarters at Bikaner.

Jaisalmer to revenge some injuries committed by subjects of the latter. Jaisalmer prepared an army to repel the invasion, and both parties had applied to neighbouring States for assistance when the British Government interfered, and through the arbitration of the Maharana of Udaipur the dispute was settled, both parties making reparation for the injuries done. In 1830 also preparations were made by the Resident at Delhi to send a force to Bikaner to assist the Chief in reducing some rebellious nobles. The Resident acted under a misapprehension of the tenor of the 6th and 7th Articles of the Treaty of 1818, regarding the claims of the State upon the British Government for assistance. These Articles referred to temporary circumstances and effect was given to their provisions at the time. gave the Chief of Bikaner no right to call on the British Government for military aid against his disaffected subjects at any future period. Government was of opinion that the case was not one in which they were called on to interfere, and reminded the Resident that military aid should never be given to Native States for the suppression of internal disturbances except under the specific authority of Government.

In 1844 the Bikaner State agreed to a scale of duties on goods passing by the route of Sirsa and Bahawalpur through Bikaner. The transit trade of Bikaner was at one time considerable. The principal route from Kabul to India lay through Bikaner, and one of the chief advantages secured by the Treaty of 1818 was the protection of trade on that route.

Maharaja Ratan Singh was succeeded in 1852 by his son, Sardar Singh. He did good service during the mutinies of 1857, both by sheltering European fugitives and by co-operating against the rebels in the districts of Hausi and Hissar. As a reward for these services he received in 1861 a grant (No. CXL) of forty-one villages, which some years before had been declared to belong to the Sirsa district and were of the annual value of Rs. 14,291. In consequence of complaints by the inhabitants of the transferred villages, the Maharaja was required in 1868 to abstain from interference with the rights secured to them under a twenty years' settlement, which had been made with the British Government in 1856. In the following year (1869) the Maharaja signified his intention to exempt these villages from all but the usual customs duties; to uphold the Government settlement; and, in compensation for the losses sustained by the villagers during the seven years which had elapsed since the transfer of the lands to his State, to continue the settlement for seven years beyond the date of its expiry Sanads were accordingly issued by the Maharaja to the villagers and corresponding agreements were taken from them An example of each of these will be found on pages 353 and 354.

In consequence of outrages committed from Bikaner on subjects of Jodhpur, the Chief of Bikaner was in 1861 reminded of his treaty obliga-During the first years of Maharaja Sardar Singh's rule the State had been administered with integrity and ability by the Minister, Ram Lal On his removal from office the affairs of the State fell into confusion, a large amount of debt was incurred, and the exactions of the Maharaja in his anxiety to increase the reveoue gave rise to much discontent. This rose to such a pitch that in 1871 some of the Thakurs feft Bikaner and took refuge at Sirsa in British territory. A British officer was deputed to Bikaner to enquire into the state of affairs, adjust the differences between the Maharaja and his nobles, and endeavour to introduce some reforms which the exertions of the Minister, Pandit Manphul, CSI, were powerless to effect The Maharan promised to reduce his expenses, laid down a scale for regulating the State expenditure, and appointed a Council to assist Pandit Manphul in the management of affairs. These promises were not fulfilled and the misgovernment of the State continued.

Maharaja Sardar Singh died in May 1872 without issue. He had received a Sanad of Adoption in 1862 (see No V' His widow and the principal persons of the State selected as his successor Dungar Singh, a descendant of Chhatar Singh, brether of Maharaja Surat Singh, and then about eighteen years of age. The choice was allowed and confirmed by the British Government, and Dungar Singh was installed as ruler of Bikaner. He was entrusted with the management of his State, which had been temporarily administered by a British officer assisted by the Council, in January 1873. Mahaministration and the discontent of the Thakurs did not, however, cease with the accession to power of Maharaja Dungar Singh, and it became necessary to impress upon him the necessity of carrying out the reforms promised by his predecessor.

This and other repeated warnings had a salutary effect for a time only. Gradually the affairs of the State refused into confusion until in 1883, an attempt to raise the "rekh," or money payment taken from the Thakurs in commutation of service, brought matters to a crisis. Most of the nobles rose in open rebellion against their Chief, and though a British officer was deputed to enquire into and effect a settlement of their differences the Thakurs refused to come to any amicable agreement. It became necessary at length to support the authority of the Chief by marching a small British force into the country, when the Thakurs quietly submitted. A resident Political Agent was appointed to Bikaner, and the Maharaja was required to conform to certain conditions so as to ensure to the Political Officer the power of removing abuses and of controlling the administration.

An extradition Treaty (No. CXLI) was concluded with Bikaner in 1869. But this was modified in 1887 by an Agreement (No. CXLII), providing that in the extradition of offenders from British India to Bikaner the procedure for the time being in force in British India should be followed.

In 1879 an Agreement (No. CXLIII) was entered into with the Darbar for the suppression of the manufacture of salt within the State, except at two works whose annual outturn was to be limited to 30,000 maunds; for the prevention of the import and export of any but British duty paid salt; for the abolition of transit duty on British salt; and for the prohibition of the export of bhang, ganja, spirits, opium or other intoxicating drugs or preparations. In return the British Government agreed to pay the Maharaja Rs. 6,000 a year, and to supply to the State 20,000 maunds of salt a year from the salt works at Phalodi and Didwana, at a price not exceeding eight annas a maund.

In 1883 the Darbar consented, with the approval of the Government of India, to the extension of the extradition rules of 1873 in force between the States of Patiala and Jaipur to Bikaner in its relations with the States of Patiala, Jind, and Loharu. Rules regulating the pursuit of offenders had been framed for Bikaner and other Rajput States in 1874.

Maharaja Dungar Singh died without issue in August 1887, having previously adopted his only brother Ganga Singh, who was born in 1880. The adoption was confirmed by the British Government, and the State was administered during the minority by a Council of Regency under the presidency of the Political Agent.

In 1889 an Agreement (No. CXLIV) was concluded with the Darbar for the construction of a railway between Jodhpur and Bikaner at the joint expense of the two States. The line was opened to public traffic on the 9th December 1891. In 1893 the section from Merta Road to Kuchaman Road was opened. A further section of 41 miles from Bikaner to Khari (now called Dulmera) was opened in 1898; and another of 72 miles to Suratgarh in January 1901. In April 1901 the Government of India granted the State a loan of Rs. 12,00,000 for the construction of the Suratgarh-Bhatinda section, 88 miles in length, and this was opened in September 1902. In December 1899 the Maharaja ceded to the British Government full and exclusive jurisdiction of every kind over the lands in the Bikaner State which were, or thereafter might be, occupied by the Jodhpur-Bikaner and Bikaner-Bhatinda Railway Systems (No. CXLV), and in January 1900 he ceded similar jurisdiction as regards the Southern Punjab Railway (No. CXLVI).

In 1891 rules for facilitating the extradition of criminals between the States of Bikaner and Jaisalmer were introduced with the sanction of Government. Similar rules were introduced between the States of Bikaner and Jodhpur, Patiala, Nabha, Alwar, and Faridkote in the years 1889, 1895, 1897, 1899, and 1904, respectively.

VIII — KOTAH AND JHALAWAR AGENCY.* (I) KOTAH.

The principality of Kotab is an offshoot from Bundi, and was formed about the year A. D. 1579, when Madho Singh, second son of Rao Rattan of Bundi, conquered the country round and about the present city of Kotah, and held it under a grant from the Emperor Jehangir. The limits of the State were subsequently extended by conquest to the east and south, and the State continued in the family of Madho Singh, until the time of Umed Singh, when the British Government formed their first connection with Kotah. Like all the other Rajput States Kotah had been despoiled by the Marathas, and was under obligations, which it was too poor to fulfil, to pay tribute to each of the three great Maratha families of Malwa, the Puars, Sindhia, and Holkar, as well as to the Peshwa.

Kotah was saved from absolute rum by the talents of the Minister, Rai Rana Zalim Singh, into whose hands Maharao Umed Singh surrendered all power. In the course of forty-five years he raised Kotah to the position of one of the most powerful and flourishing States in Rappulana. He was one of the first of the Rajput Chiefs to co-operate with the British Government for the suppression of the Pindaris in 1817. Through Zalim Singh a Treaty (No. CXLIX) was concluded with the Kotah Chief in December 1817, by which Kotah was taken under the protection of the British Government; the tribute formerly paid to the Marathas was made payable to the British Government, who accounted to Sindhia for his share, and the Maharao was to furnish troops according to his means when required. A supplementary Article was added to the Treaty, vesting the administration in Zalim Singh and his descendants, the Chiefship being continued to the descendants of Maharao Umed Singh. The tributary claims on Shahabad, the personal estate of Zalim Singh, were remitted on Kotah restoring to Udaipur some lands held from that State as security for a bond debt of nine lakhs of rupees The fidelity and active zeal of Zalim Singh in the Pindari war were further rewarded in 1819 by the permanent annexation to the State (No. CL) of four districts ceded by Ilolkar. It was at first intended to make a separate grant of these districts to the Minister, but he insisted that they should be annexed to the Kotah State.

VIII — KOTAH AND JHALAWAR AGENCY* (I) KOTAH.

The principality of Kotah is an offshoot from Bundi, and was formed about the year A D 1579, when Madho Singh, second son of Rao Rattan of Bundi, conquered the country round and about the present city of Kotah, and held it under a grant from the Emperor Jehangir. The limits of the State were subsequently extended by conquest to the east and south, and the State continued in the family of Madho Singh, until the time of Umed Singh, when the British Government formed their first connection with Kotah. Like all the other Rajput States Kotah had been despoiled by the Marathas, and was under obligations, which it was too poor to fulfil, to pay tribute to each of the three great Maratha families of Malwa, the Puars, Sindhia, and Holkar, as well as to the Peshwa Kotah was sayed from absolute ruin by the talents of the Minister, Raj Rana Zalim Singh, into whose hands Maharao Umed Singh surrendered In the course of forty-five years he raised Kotah to the position of one of the most powerful and flourishing States in Rajputana He was one of the first of the Raiput Chiefs to co operate with the British Government for the suppression of the Pindaris in 1817 Through Zalim Singh a Treaty (No CXLIX) was concluded with the Kotah Chief in December 1817, by which Kotah was taken under the protection of the British Government, the tribute formerly paid to the Marathas was made payable to the British Government, who accounted to Sindhia for his share, and the Maharao was to furnish troops according to his means when required A supplementary Article was added to the Treaty, vesting the administration in Zahm Singh and his descendants, the Chiefship being continued to the descendants of Maharao Umed Singh The tributary claims on Shahabad, the personal estate of Zahm Singh, were remitted on Kotah restoring to Udaipur some lands held from that State as security for a bond debt of nine lakbs of rupees The fidelity and active zeal of Zalim Singh in the Pindari war were further rewarded in 1819 by the permanent annexation to the State (No CL) of four districts ceded by Holkar. It was at first intended to make a separate grant of these districts to the Minister, but he insisted that they should be annexed to the Kotah State.

[•] The Agency is controlled by the Polit cal Agent in hotah and Jhalawar, with head quarters at hotah

During the life of Maharao Umed Singh no inconvenience was felt from the arrangements made by the Treaty of 1817, by which one person was recognised as the titular Chief and another was guaranteed as the actual ruler; but on his death in 1820 his successor, Kishor Singh, attempted to secure the actual administration by force. An accommodation was effected after the defeat of Kishor Singh by a British force. Kishor Singh received an allowance of about Rs. 1,64,877, and on his part recognised in 1821 the perpetual succession to the administration of Zalim Singh and his heirs (No. CLI).

Zalim Singh died in 1824, and his son, Madho Singh, succeeded him. The unfitness of Madho Singh for office was a matter of notoriety; but he received undisputed charge of the administration under the Treaty. 1828 Maharao Kishor Singh was succeeded by his nephew, Ram Singh. In 1834 the disputes between Ram Singh and his Minister, Madan Singh, the son and successor of Madho Singh, broke out afresh. There was danger of a popular rising for the expulsion of the Minister; and it was therefore resolved, with the consent of the Chief of Kotah, to dismember the State and to create the new principality of Jhalawar as a separate provision for the descendants of Zalim Singh. Seventeen parganas, yielding a revenue of twelve lakhs of rupees, were made over to Madan Singh. This arrangement formed the basis of a new Treaty (No. CLII) concluded with Kotah in 1838. The Maharao's tribute was reduced by Rs. 80,000, which sum was to be paid by Jhalawar, and he agreed to maintain an auxiliary force at a cost of not more than three lakhs of rupees. It was with much reluctance that the Maharao agreed to the formation of this force; and in consequence of his repeated remonstrances the payment for it was reduced to two lakhs in 1844, and it was agreed that if this sum should prove insufficient the difference would be paid from the Kotah tribute. the same time the Chief was warned that, if he failed to make his payments punctually, a territorial security would be required both for the tribute and the payments for the auxiliary force,

The auxiliary force was known as the Kotah Contingent. These troops mutinied in 1857. The Maharao's troops also mutinied and murdered the Political Agent and his two sons at the Kotah Residency. The Maharao made no earnest attempt to offer assistance to the Political Agent, and as a mark of the displeasure of Government his salute was reduced from seventeen to thirteen guns. The Kotah Contingent is now represented by the 42nd Deoli Regiment.

Maharao Ram Singh, who was guaranteed the right of adoption in 1862 (see Addendum to No V), died in April 1866, and was succeeded by his orly son, Bhim Singh, who took the family name of Shatru Sal In recognising the succession of Maharao Shatru Sal Government restored to him the full salute of seventeen guns

In 1869 an extradition Treaty (No. CLIII) was concluded with Kotah providing for the mutual surrender of criminals. This was modified in 1887 by an Agreement (No. CLIV), which provided that in the extradition of offenders from British India to Kotab the procedure for the time being in force in British India should be followed.

For some years before the death of Maharao Ram Singh in 1866, the affairs of Kotah bad been in an unsatisfactory condition. The adv inistration was conducted by irresponsible and unprincipled ministers, and the debts of the State at his death amounted to 27 lakhs of rupees Somo slight improvement took place on Maharao Shatru Sal's succession to the gadi, but it was not of long duration. The tribute and military contribution due to the British Government fell repeatedly into arrears, and the debts of the State increased to eighty lakks of rupees. The intemperate habits of the Maharao unfitted him for the administration of the country which was entrusted to unworthy favourites who committed gross acts of cruelty and oppression and embezzled the revenues of the State. While earnestly advising the Maharao to adopt reforms, the British Government was unwilling to interpose its direct action so long as there was a hope of effecting the necessary improvements through the Maharao At last the Maharao himself, despairing of being able to effect a reform, voluntarily requested the interference of the British Government, and intimated his willingness to receive a Native Mioister nominated by tlem, and to adopt any administrative measures that might be considered necessary. Accordingly in 1874 Nawab Taiz Ali Khan Bahadur, CSI, formerly Minister of Jaipur, was appointed to administer the Kotah State, subject to the general advice and control of the Agent to the Governor General. The Chief was prohibited from all interference in the affairs of the State, and a suitable allowance was assigned for his support

On the retirement of Nawab Sir Paiz Ali Khan Bahadur, KCSf, in 1876, the administration of the State was placed in the hands of a British Political Agent assisted by a Council, but after the Maharao had to some extent reformed, it was decided that be should be consulted on matters of importance, and certain departments were placed under his special directions. The State debts were steadily paid off by instalments, and were completely liquidated in due course.

In 1881 the Darbar abolished all transit duties throughout the State, except duties on opium and intoxicating drugs.

In 1882 an Agreement (No. CLV) was concluded with the Darbar for the suppression of the manufacture of edible salt within the State; the prevention of the consumption and import of any but British duty-paid salt; and for the abolition of all taxes thereon. In return for this the British Government undertook to pay the Maharao Rs. 16,000 annually; to certain jagirdars and others, through the Maharao, Rs. 3,175 annually; and a sum of Rs. 15,905 as compensation to others for the loss of their rights.

Maharao Shatru Sal died on the 11th June 1889, and was succeeded by his adopted son, Udai Singh, who took the family name of Umed Singh. He was born on 5th September 1873. He was educated at the Mayo College, Ajmer; installed in December 1892; and invested with full powers in December 1896. He received the insignia of a Knight Commander of the Star of India in 1901, and on the occasion of the Coronation Darbar at Delhi (1903) was made an Honorary Major of the 42nd Deoli Regiment. On the 1st January 1899 15 out of the 17 parganas, alienated in 1838 in order to form the principality of Jhalawar, were restored by the British Government to Kotah in consequence of the deposition of Maharaj Rana Zalim Singh of Jhalawar, and the extinction of the direct line of the first Chief, Regent Zalim Singh. To provide for the family to which the first Raj Rana Zalim Singh belonged, and also for some nobles and subjects whose transfer to Kotah was considered undesirable, a new State was created out of the remainder of the old State, consisting of the Chaumahla, the Patan Tahsil and a part of Suket.

In April 1899 the Government of India conveyed its approval to an Agreement (No. CLVI) between the Maharao of Kotah and the Indian Midland Railway Company for the working of the Kotah section of the Guna-Baran Railway.

In 1901 the local currency was replaced by the British currency.

The State joined in postal unity on the 1st March, 1901, from which date Imperial post offices were established throughout the State.

in 1904 the Darbar agreed to surrender land, free of charge, for the construction and working of the Nagda-Muttra Railway,

The troops which the Maharao is allowed to entertain are limited to 15,000 men of all descriptions.* The military forces consist (1905) of 301 cavalry, 1,194 infantry, 353 artillery men, and 193 guns, of which 131 are classed as serviceable. The State revenue from all sources is about 31,00,000. The area of Kotah is 5,684 square miles; and the population, according to the census of 1901, is 544,879, including 12,603 Bhils. The tribute payable to the British Government is Rs. 2,34,720, in addition to the two lakhs of rupees for the 42nd Deoli Regiment.

The Maharao is entitled to a salute of 17 guns, which was finally approved in Her Majesty's Order in Council, dated the 26th June 1867.

Kotah Kotris .- The Kotah State pays a tribute of Rs. 14,307-13 to Jaipur for certain fiefst or Kotris. These 6.969 6 f Indargarh fiels were originally assigned by, and sub-Khatauli ject to, Bundi, to which State also belonged Gainta 193 9 0 Pipalda 663 12 0 the adjacent fortress of Ranthambhor Karwar . 331 14 1,128 6 When Ranthamhhor was made over to the 1,128 6 0 Emperor of Delbi annual payments were 14,397 13 0 exacted from the holders of the fiels in return for the protection afforded them by the fort. About the year 1760 the Governor of Ranthambhor, rather than let it fall into the hands of the Marathas, made it over as a trust to Jaipur, and that State claimed a continuance of the payments. The visits of the Jaipur troops for the purpose of collecting the dues from the fiels proving a source of annoyance to Bundi, Zahm Singh, Regent of Kotah, undertook, with the concurrence of the British Government in 1823 the regular payment of the tribute; the allegiance of the fiels was thus transferred from Bundi to Kotah. 1862 it was decided that Jaipur was entitled to interest for arrears of the tribute, and as the payments became more and more irregular, owing to the disorganisation of the Kotah State, the Darbar was required in 1871 to satisfy the demands of Jaipur without further delay. The 1st November was fixed upon as the date in each year on which the payment should be made, and it was decided that interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum should be charged on all payments not made within one month of that date.

^{*} Letter No. 376, dated the 6th February 1861, to the Agent to the Governor treatral m Rajoutana.

Sidra.—In 1817 Rawat Durjan Singh was guaranteed in the possession of the village of Sidra, which had been held by his family in jagir from time immemorial; and in place of a horse, which the Rawat was required annually to present to the Maharao, it was stipulated that he should pay a yearly tribute of Rs. 100.

(II).—JHALAWAR.

The existence of Jhalawar as a separate State dates only from 1838, when the Kotah principality was dismembered (see Kotah). On the establishment of Raj Rana Madan Singh in Jhalawar a Treaty (No. CLVII) was concluded on the 8th April 1838, by which he acknowledged British supremacy; engaged not to negotiate with any other power without the sanction and knowledge of that Government; and agreed to supply troops according to his means, and to pay an annual tribute of Rs. 80,000 Agreeably to the 3rd Article of the above Treaty Madan Singh, on assuming charge of his new principality, was vested with the title of Maharaj Rana. It was arranged that he should be placed exactly on the same footing as all the other rulers in Rajputana, and should receive the right of adoption, if that right should be conceded to other rulers; but the succession was to be limited to the descendants of Zalim Singh.

In 1845 Madan Singh died and was succeeded by Prithi Singh. During the mutinies of 1857-58 this Chief rendered good service by conveying to places of safety several Europeans who had taken refuge in his districts. In 1862 he was guaranteed the privilege of adoption (see No. V).

In 1866 the Maharaj Rana agreed to make over land free of cost for railway purposes; to cede in it full jurisdiction short of sovereign rights; and to surrender all transit duties on goods passing through his territory.

In 1868 an extradition Treaty (No. CLVIII) was concluded with Jhalawar. But this Treaty was modified in 1887 by an Agreement (No. CLIX), providing that in the extradition of offenders from British India to Jhalawar the procedure for the time being in force in British India should be followed.

In 1873 the Maharaj Rana solicited permission to adopt an heir to succeed him, in the event of his not having a son. Objections were entertained by the Maharao of Kotah on the ground that by the Treaty of 1838 Jhalawar would revert to Kotah in the event of the extinction of Zalim Singh's line. By this Treaty, however, the severance of Jhalawar and its cession to Madan Singh, his heirs and successors, was unconditional and, although the concent of Kotah was obtained to the cession, the conditions were between the British Government and Jhalawar. It was accordingly held that Kotah could have no voice in the question of succession, and no ground of objection to the action of the British Government in having placed the Mahari, Rana of Jhalawar on the same footing as the other ruling Chiefs of Rajputana by the grant of the adoption Sanad of 1862. The required permission was, therefore, granted to the Maharaj Rana, and his choice fell upon Bakht Singh of the Barwan family in Kathiawar, from which the Maharaj Rana was himself descended.

Maharaj Rana Prithi Singh died on the 29th August 1875. The question of succession remained for some time undecided, owing to the reputed pregnancy of his widow, but as no make child was born to her by the 1st June 1876, the succession of the late Chief's adopted son Bakht Singh, was recognised by the British Government During the minority of the young Chief the State was placed under the superintendence of a British officer Bakht Singh was installed as Maharaj Rana on the 24th June 1876, when, in accordance with family custom, he assumed the name of Zalim Singh

In 1881 an Agreement was concluded (No CLY) with the Jirdawar Durbar for the suppression of the manufacture of salt within the State, the prevention of the import and consumption of any but British duty paid salt, and the abolition of all duties thereon in return for this the British Government undertook to pay to the Maharij Rana R8 7,000 annually, and to certain jagirdars, through him, Rs 250 annually

Zalim Singh attained his majority in November 1883, and was invested with full governing powers on the zist Tebruary 1884, subject to the same restrictions that were imposed in similar circumstances on Majarao Raja Mangal Singh of Alwar, and Maharaj Rana Nihal Singh of Dholpur. These were that he should consult the Political Agent in all important matters and be guided by his advice, and that the concurrence of the Political Agent should be obtained before any important measures effected during the minority were disturbed, or before any changes were made in the existing form of the administration. Owing to the Maharaj Rana's persistent disregard of the conditions upon which he was entrusted with the government of his State, the Government of India was compelled, in September 1887, to restore the arrangements which were in force during his minority. In November 1892, however, it was decided that Maharaj Rana Zalim Singh, who had promised amendment, should be restored to power on conditions similar to those which had previously been laid down, and he was again .entrusted with some departments of the administration. In July 1894, he was granted full powers. He failed, however, to govern the State properly and was deposed on the 22nd March 1896. In consequence of his deposition, and of the fact that there was no direct descendant of the Regent Zalim Singh, the Government of India, taking into consideration the intentions of the framers of the Treaty of 1838 made with the first Chief, Raj Rana Madan. Singh, ordered that part of the territories which were made over by Kotah in 1838, in order to form the principality of Jhalawar, should be restored to Kotah. In memory of the services rendered by the first Raj Rana Zalim Singh, the remaining portion consisting of the Chaumahla, the Patan pargana and a part of Suket, was formed into a new State to provide for the family to which the said Raj Rana belonged, and Kunwar Bhawani Singh, son of Thakur Chhatra Sal of Fatehpur, was selected by the Government of India, from among the descendants of the relatives of the Regent Zalim Singh, to be the Chief of the new State, with the title of Raj Rana. On the 1st of January 1899 the actual transfer of territory was effected, from which date the new State of Jhalawar came into existence.

Bhawani Singh, who was born on the 4th September 1874, was installed as Chief on the 6th February 1899, and was at the same time invested with full powers. By the Sanad of 1899 (No. CLXI) the Chief was bound to pay to the British Government an annual tribute of Rs. 30.000, and was guaranteed the right of adoption; local coinage was forbidden; and the execution within the State of all civil and criminal processes issued by any British Indian Court was ensured. The manufacture of salt, the import or consumption of any but British duty-paid salt, and the levy of any kind of duty thereon was also forbidden. In return for this the Government of India undertook to pay the Raj Rana Rs. 2,500 annually, including Rs. 250 to certain jagirdars. No transit duties of any kind were to be levied, and the Raj Rana bound himself to assist the Government of India in the suppression of illicit traffic in opium.

On the 1st October 1900 postal unity was introduced into the State.

In 1901 the State currency was replaced by British currency.

In 1904 the Darbar agreed to surrender land, free of charge, for the construction and working of the Nagda-Muttra Railway.

The area of Jhalawar is 810 square miles; its population, according to the census of 1901, is 90,175, including 2,022 Bhils; and its revenue amounts to about Rs. 4,25,000. It pays Rs. 30,000 a year to the British Government as tribute. No local corps or contingents are paid from the resources of Jhalawar. The military force consists of 45 guns (1905) classed as serviceable and 2 nuserviceable, 71 artillery men, 78 cavalry, and 355 infantry.

The Chief is entitled to a salute of 11 gnns, fixed in 1899.

IX.-AJMER-MERWARA.

Ajmer-Merwara is an isolated British province in Rajputana, consisting of two districts known as Ajmer and Merwara, and entirely surrounded by Rajput States. It is bounded on the north by Kishangarh and Jodhpur, on the west by Jodbpur, on the south by Udaipur, and on the east by Kishangarh and Jaipur.

Ajmer.—In 1193. Prithi Raja, the last of the Chauhan dynasty and King of Delhi and Ajmer, was defeated and killed by Shahab-ud-din, who, however, made over the country to a relative of the deceased Raja under an engagement for a heavy tribute. The Raja revolted, but Kuth-ud-din again annexed Ajmer, after which it remained, with short intervals, under the authority of the Kings of Delhi, until it fell into the hands of the Chiefs of Malwa in 1459. They held it till 1531, when, with the Kingdom of Malwa, it was annexed to Gujarat. The Rathors of Marwar then seized it, but Akbar conquered it in 1556, and for 200 years it formed an integral part of the Moghal empire. In 1756 the Marathas, whose intervention had been invoked by the Rajput governors of Ajmer and the adjacent tracts, obtained possession of Ajmer; and from that time until its transfer to British rule, in 1818, it remained, with an interval of only 3 years, in their hands.

By the Treaty of the 25th June 1818 (see Volume IV, Gwalior) Daulat Rao Sindhia, after the Pindari war, ceded the district of Ajmer, valued in the treaty at Rs. 5,05,484 a year, to the British Government; and on the 28th July 1818 Mr. Wilder, the first British Superintendent of Ajmer, received charge of the district from Bapu Sindhia, its last Maratha Governor. The details of the tract as then constituted are contained in the first part of Schedule II annexed to the treaty of 1818.

Since that time the composition of the district has undergone but little change, the only alteration of importance being the addition of five villages by Article 4 of the Treaty of the 12th December 1860 with Sindhia (see Volume IV, Gwalior).

In 1842 the district of Ajmer was united with that of Merwara for administrative purposes.

Merwara.—The history of Merwara before the occupation of the adjacent district of Ajmer by the British authorities in 1818 is practically a blank. It was inhabited by an independent and plundering race, who were protected from molestation by the difficult nature of the hilly tract they occupied. In 1818 Mr. Wilder entered into agreements with Jak and other villages, which formed the nucleus of the tract now known as Ajmer-Merwara, to abstain from plunder. The engagements were broken, and in-March 1819 Mr. Wilder accompanied a punitive expedition sent from Nasirabad to coerce the villagers. They were punished and police outposts were established, but a general outbreak in 1820 made it necessary to subjugate the country thoroughly. The Darbars of Udaipur and Jodhpur (between whom and the British Government the tract was held to be divided)* promised to co-operate, and with their assistance the campaign was ended by January 1821.

Captain Tod, in the name of the Rana of Udaipur, where he was Agent, then undertook the administration of the portion belonging to Mewar; appointed a governor; raised a corps of matchlock men; and commenced tocollect revenue.

Of the Marwar villages, some were made over to the Jodhpur Darbar; and placed under the adjoining Thakurs, while others were managed by Mr. Wilder as Superintendent of Ajmer. The latter were kept under control, but disorder reigned in the others. The divided jurisdiction gave criminals an asylum, and it was soon found that the triple government was worse than ineffectual. It was accordingly decided that the three portions should. be brought together under the management of one British Officer, vested with full authority in civil and criminal matters, and that a battalion of 8 companies of 70 men each should be enrolled from among the Mers to preserve order.

The negotiations with Udaipur resulted in an agreement settled in May 1823, by which the management of the three Mewar-Merwara Parganas, consisting of 76 villages, was made over to the British Government for a period of ten years, the Maharana agreeing to pay Rs 15,000 a year towards the cost of the local corps. He acquiesced however, in the transfer of the administration with reluctance. Accordingly no formal engagement appears to have been concluded, and he was not required to contribute anything towards the expenses of management beyond the Rs 15,000 already mentioned.

The arrangement expired in 1833, and, as the Maharana had profited largely by it, he readify agreed to its continuance for a further period of 8 years by an agreement concluded at Beawar on the 7th March 1833, the Darbar engaging at the same time to pay Rs 5 000 a year to the British Government towards the cost of the administration, in addition to the Rs 15,000 already paid for the local corps (see Ulaippr)

The arrangements with Marwar (Jodhpur) also caused some difficulty, as the Darbaranas equally refuctant to delegate the management of any part of the tract belonging to it. In March 1824, however, an Engagement (No LV) was concluded with the Darbar similar to that of 1823 with Udate pur, by which the State agreed to make over 21 villages to the British Government for 8 years, and to pay Rs. 15,000 per annum towards the cest of the Mer Corps to be maintained for preserving order. It was understood that each Darbar should receive the revenue from its respective villages after deducting the cost of their management. This arrangement was continued by the Agreement of the 23rd October 1835 (No LVI) for a further term of mine years, the Marwar Darbar paying Rs. 15,000 a year as before, and transferring seven more villages to the British Government in addition to the 21 villages made over by the engagement of 1824.

Colonel Hall was placed in charge of the District of Merwara, as thus constituted, in 1823, and continued to hold it until 1836, when he was succeeded by Colonel Dixon. In February 1842 the District of Ajmer also was placed in charge of Colonel Dixon, whose successful administration of Micrwara had attracted attention, and he was appointed to be Superintendent of Ajmer in addition to his other duties as Superintendent of Merwara and Commandant of the Merwara Battalion. An assistant was assigned to him for the special charge of Merwara

The Udaipur Agreement of 1833 and the Jodhpur Agreemeat of 1835, regarding their respective Merwara villages, expired about the same time (1843), and it became necessary to make further arrangements for their continuance. The Udaipur Darbar (see Udaipur) agreed to allow its villages to remain under British management so long as it might suit the convenience of the British Government. The Jodhpur Darbar expressed its readiness to do likewise, and at the same time the seven additional villages which it had transferred to the British Government in 1835 were restored to it (see Jodhpur). But no definite agreements were executed; and although an effort was made in 1847 (see Udaipur) to procure the perpetual cession of their shares from the respective Darbars, it proved unsuccessful, and on this unsatisfactory footing the British administration of Merwara remained for many years.

In 1872 and 1874 the question, so far as the Udaipur villages were concerned, was revived, but it was not finally settled until 1883 when the arrangement described in the Kharitas which form Nos. III and IV (see Udaipur) were concluded. These were, briefly, that the British Government should accept the revenues of Mewar-Merwara in full discharge of the Udaipur State's contributions towards the cost of the administration of the tract and the expenses of the Mewar Bhil Corps and the Merwara Battalion, and that no demand should be made upon the Darbar for arrears of payment. Maharana was at the same time specifically assured that his rights of sovereignty over Mewar-Merwara would be in no wise prejudiced by this arrangement; and that should the yearly receipts for the district at any time exceed Rs. 66,000, which sum represents the contributions payable by the Darbar for the administration of Mewar-Merwara and the expenses of the two local corps, the surplus money should be paid in full to the Darbar, to whom the Resident at Mewar should annually intimate, by Kharita, the aggregate revenue received from the district during the preceding twelve months (see Udaipur). This arrangement still holds good (1906).

In the case also of Marwar-Merwara, which forms the Jodhpur section of the district of Merwara, it was many years before a satisfactory solution could be effected. Eventually, in 1885, it was agreed by the British Government and the Darbar that Jodhpur should retain its sovereign rights in its Marwar villages and receive Rs. 3,000 a year from them, and that in the went of a profit being derived from them by Government, the Darbar should event of a profit being derived from them by Government of India has receive 40 per cent. of it. On these conditions the Government of India has receive 40 per cent. of it. On these conditions the Government of India has full and permanent administrative control over the villages (see Jodhpur).

The Merwara Battalion, now designated the 44th Merwara Infantry, remained loyal during the mutiny of 1857, and received special privileges. In 1870 it was reorganised into a purely military corps by Lord Mayo, and its head quarters were transferred from Beawar to Ajmer.

Before 1853 the officers in charge of Ajmer and Merwara were styled Superintendents and corresponded with the Resident at Delbi, subsequently with the Resident in Malwa and Rajputana, and after 1832 with the Commissioner In 1832 Ajmer, and in 1846 Merwara, had been placed under the administration of the Government of the United Provinces (then the North-Western Provinces) In 1853 Colonel Dixon was appointed a Commissioner and corresponded direct with the Government of the United Provinces From 1858 the united districts remained a Deputy Commissionership under the Agent to the Governor Geogral and Commissioner, who to his latter capacity was subordicate to the Government of the United Provinces, notil 1870. when the province was formed into a Chief Commissionership under the Foreigo Department of the Government of India, and was given a Commissioner of its owo with a Deputy Commissioner, and an Assistant Commissioner for Merwara, the Chief Commissioner being the Ageot to the Governor General for Rajputana. In 1877 the Deputy Commissioner was abolished and an Assistant Commissioner for Ajmer appointed in his place. This arrangement has cootinued up to the present day (1900) The Chief Commissioner has his headquarters at Mount Abu, the Commissioner at Aimer, and his two Assistaots at Aimer and Beawar respectively

The area of the Ajmer district is 2,070 square miles, and the popolation, according to the census of 1901, is 367,453. The Merwara district has an area of 641 square miles with a population of 109,459. The average revenue of the combined districts from all sources for the ten years canding 1903 04 was about Rs. 14,00,000; and the average yearly expenditure for the same period (as shown by the annual administration reports) was about Rs 12,40,000.

Translation of a Kharita from His Highness the Maha-Raja of Marwar to the address of the Political Agent, Jodhpur, dated 1.4th May 1869.

Acknowledges receipt of Political Agent's letter of 26th April list regarding the settlement of the hulminama, or succession tax, proposed by the Political Agent, and confirmed by the Governor-General's Agent, Rajputana, which has been thoroughly understood by His Highness

Regarding jagirat, although the taking of jagirat from the raivats is an old and ancient custom, which has descended from generations, and against which they have never complained, and hence its abolition is in every way a great loss to the Darbar, yet, since this tax was taken from the raivats only I have determined, for the sake of their welfare and happiness, to abolish it. Moreover, although all jagirdars are prohibited in the decision from levying the same from their raiyats, yet, for greater security, I write that in case any jagirdar should hereafter take jagirat he will be liable to severe punishment. It is also known to you that the hukmnama is leviable from the estates of the jagirdars themselves, but many jagirdars take the amount by compulsion from their zilaiyats (dependants) and relatives who have to pay their own hukmnama separately, as they hold their pattas separately from the Darbar. Wherefore this practice ought also to be stopped, and punishment be awarded to those who transgress, The Darbar has therefore issued a Proclamation to all the jagirdars on this subject, a copy of which accompanies this letter.

Besides this jagirat, which used to be taken with the hukmnama, the Darbar will levy all other items in excess of the hukmnama which have hitherto been levied from ancient time. In fine, all the Articles written in your decision with the above emendations are quite acceptable in every way to the Darbar, and from henceforth they will be acted on accordingly.

TRANSLATION of a PROCLAMATION issued by HIS HIGHNESS the MAHARAJA of MARWAR, dated Jodhpur, the 14th May 1869.

The rules laid down by the Political Agent, Jodhpur, and confirmed by the Agent, Governor General, Rajputana, regarding the levying of hukmnama or succession tax, are accepted by His Highness the Maharaja, and will be adopted in future in Marwar.

The jagirat, which hitherto has been levied from the raiyats, will, in merciful consideration of them, be excused for the future by His Highness. But it is ordered that all jagirdars should cease to take this item from their raiyats, and should any be found levying jagirat, either openly or secretly, on any pretence, or be convicted of taking hukmnama from silaiyats or bhayaps, he will be liable to severe punishment.
